SHOWDOWN IN CAR PAY CLASH NEARS RAPIDLY

Old Twins, Wages and Fares, at It Again.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Wages and fares seem to be Siamese twins in the traction dispute over pay schedules for surface and elevated employes, now approaching its controversial stages, with the usual strike storm muttering in the distance. In three settlements in the last four years the workers' hourly pay and the passengers' price for a ride have gone up or down together. It perhaps explains why the demand of the men for a 16 cent boost is followed by the talk of a jump back to an 8 cent fare.

Here's a rapid slant showing how exactly fares and wages are related:

In 1919 wages were advanced to the 65 cents an hour mark and the state utilities commission raised the fare to 7 cents.

In June, 1920, the year of peaks and ultra high cost, the maximum rate for conductors and motormen was raised to 80 cents an hour. The utilities commission jumped the fare to 8 cents.

In 1922 the companies and the men were in the midst of the conference over wages when in June the line was cut by the courts to 70 cents. There was a strike from which wages were cut to 70 cents an hour.

Showdown May Come Tuesday.

This shows how closely wages and fares are related in modern street car operation. It is, perhaps, one reason for the suspicion with which a large part of officialdom regards the traction disputes of last year and this. Cynics at the city hall and state house yesterday spoke of "slap stick battles" between the companies and the men to impress upon the riding public that a higher fare is the "only way out." Some aldermen said bluntly that a strike would look like the twin brother of a "frameup."

Some forecasts are that the showdown will come Tuesday afternoon, when, in separate conferences, Henry A. Blair, president of the Surface Lines, and Britton I. Budd, head of the elevated, are scheduled to meet union leaders again. Both have told the union leaders that the traction properties, with their present revenue, could not "stand" pay boosts.

Raise Set at $7,500,000.

One estimate is that the demands of the men would add about $7,500,000 to operating expenses of the Surface Lines. Last year, at the time of the strike, it was figured that every cent per hour in wages means approximately $400,000 a year on the pay rolls. The Surface Lines, with some 16,000 employes, have about 38,850,000 pay roll hours a year.

Thus the 10 cents an hour which the employes ask be restored to their pay would total about $4,000,000 a year.

The demand for six days' work at seven days' pay would possibly amount to $7,500,000 a year on the payroll, if figures submitted during the fare hearings before the commerce commission can be taken as a basis for estimates. The abolition of one man cars would increase expenses between $500,000 and $750,000 a year. Thus the added cost would apparentaly total up to perhaps $8,000,000 a year.

Where Companies Get Off.

For the year ended last Jan. 31, with an 8 cent fare half the year and a 7 cent fare the rest, the Chicago Surface Lines, according to the annual report, had gross earnings amounting to $56,193,000. Their operating expenses, including taxes, ran to $44,416,000.

The residue receipts thus amounted to $11,697,000. Taking out joint account expenses of $620,000 left $11,077,000. Five per cent of the purchase price took away $8,039,343. The city's 8 per cent amounted to $1,665,206, and the 49 per cent to the companies was $1,372,442.

Revenue from passenger fares during the year was $55,495,310, a drop of $6,200,000 from the passenger receipts in 1921 under an 8 cent fare.

How Earnings Are Divided.

According to an exhibit in the fare case, the earnings of the street car lines are disposed of as follows:

	Per cent.
Taxes	21.77
Renewal, power, and other expenses	18.77
Interest	2.26
Rentals	3.58
5 per cent to city	5.11
Interest on bonded indebtedness and rentals	11.57
Sinking fund	.42
Dividends for companies	5.52
	100.00

As to the matter of fares, one gathered quite a diversity of views yesterday.

CHINA BANDITS FREE A CAPTIVE TO WARN PEKING

Yankee and British Lives at Stake.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

TSAO CHUANG, Shantung, China, May 18.—Marcel Oliver Berube, a French captive who was released by the bandits on parole, has arrived here with messages addressed to the diplomatic body at Peking and the president of China, which he was instructed to deliver personally, saying that unless the government troops are withdrawn from the vicinity of the bandits' stronghold at Paotzuku two foreigners, one American and one Englishman, will be slain.

Despite assurances that the troops would be withdrawn the bandits assert that the forces in the neighborhood of Paotzuku have actually been increased since the concentration of the foreigners there. M. Barube bears this out.

Urgent Action.

The situation is regarded as most critical unless foreign pressure is exerted. M. Barube is due in Peking on Sunday morning. Urgent diplomatic action is necessary to save the lives of the captives.

M. Berube brought with him a 13 year old Chinese girl of respectable parentage who has been a captive. She has been the enforced mistress of a bandit chief. The foreign captives induced the outlaw leader to release her on account of her youth, and she has been sent to Shanghai.

Less than fifty Chinese remain captive, some having escaped, but M. Berube says that five were lined up and shot by the bandits. The lives of Mr. Powell, CHICAGO TRIBUNE correspondent, Sig. Musso and others were given as a pledge for his return. The Frenchman brought little to add to the graphic stories of Mr. Powell since their experiences have been almost identical.

LIVE IN TEMPLE FORT

BY J. B. POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BANDIT CAMP, PAOTZUKU, Shantung, China, May 16, 9:50 a. m. [via Shanghai, May 17.]—Dear Dailey and Lehrbas: We were herded along for another long tramp yesterday afternoon, and we are now quartered in a temple inside the Paotzuku bandit stronghold. It seems to be about one-fifth the way up or about 1,500 feet. The temple was abandoned by priests and, although the bandits have cleaned out some of the dirt, it is still little better than a stable.

Last night we slept on dirt floors or on beds made of the temple doors which we tore down for that purpose. Our whole crowd is here as well as several bandit chiefs. Our chief difficulty is with water. There is only one small spring about 1,000 feet below, and it is so small that after you fill a quart bottle you have to wait for a new supply to trickle through the rocks. We are getting sufficient for drinking purposes, but none for much needed bathing and laundry. A worse problem is the horde of bandits who must share our water supply, and they are always first.

Bandits Are Worried.

The bandits also are short of food, and we must take turns guarding our stuff to prevent pilfering. It is always a problem in psychology to guess just how far you can go in cussing out a bandit who carries a rifle and keep him from using it on you. The bandits appear worried. There is constant talk of rushing us to the top of a mountain, which, from where we are sitting, appear to be about as steep as Washington monument—and there is no elevator.

The bandits keep telling us that the northern troops are not keeping faith and that they are moving troops in, instead of out, and they are sorry to harrass their foreign "guests" but that we were brought to help them, and we must comply. If we are to scale this peak, God help Sig. Musso, Mr. Smith and one or two others with injured feet and legs. Dr. Merten arrived last night and many of our crowd looked like hospital occupants. Fortunately I am still whole and in good health. Camps of the Chinese regular army can be seen on the hills toward Taochwang.

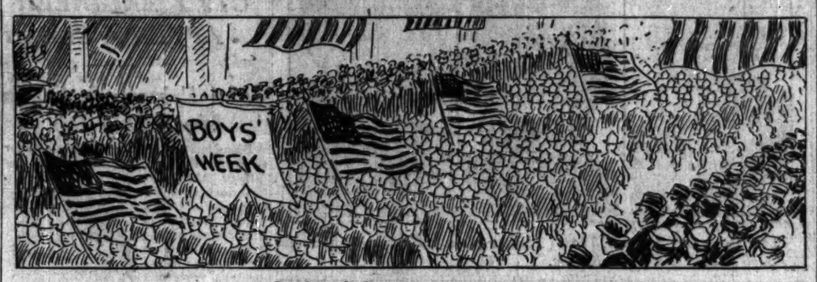

In Impregnable Ravine.

This old temple where we are herded is at the end of a steep, narrow ravine, heavily wooded and apparently impregnable against attack, except by airplanes. From the temple the top of the mountain is reached by climbing

U. S. DRY RULING ANNOYS CUNARD, BUT IT WILL OBEY

New York, May 18.—[By the Associated Press.]—If the Supreme court edict preventing trans-Atlantic craft from carrying liquor within the three mile limit stands, the Cunard Anchor lines will adhere strictly to the law, Sir Ashley Sparks, general agent for the United States, announced today upon his return on the Aquitania from a conference with officials of the lines.

Shipping officials abroad, he said, are awaiting an interpretation of the ruling by the treasury department, hoping that a loophole would be found through which they would be able to carry the question into American territorial waters under seal.

He said his ships on westward trips probably would carry just enough liquor to last until the three mile limit was reached. He was under the impression that eastbound ships would be dry.

The peoples of Holland, Denmark, France, and England, he declared, were greatly shocked by the ruling, which they considered an infringement on their personal rights, and are appealing to their governments.

Protest Is Planned.

LONDON, May 18.—[By Associated Press.]—The foreign office today received a protest from British ship owners against the recent prohibition ruling of the United States Supreme court barring intoxicating liquors from American territorial waters, but it is not likely the protest will be forwarded to Washington, as requested by the ship men, until the American government indicates the exact methods to be taken for enforcement of the ruling.

"SURE SHOT LEO" HUNTED; KILLS 1

North Frontier Posses Battle Desperado.

North Bay, Ont., May 18.—[By Associated Press.]—With a dirty bandage covering a bullet wound, Leo Rogers, a tall, lanky individual, known in the mining districts hereabouts as a very sure man on the trigger, was pushing his way through the underbrush tonight, heading for the north woods and their cover.

Behind him were several groups of armed men, who answer more nearly to the description of frontiersmen than almost any other clan on the continent, intent that Rogers shall not leave civilization behind. Leaving one of their number dead and one wounded, they set out from here after their last skirmish with Rogers this morning. They have had only glimpses of the runaway since—once when he was struck and the next when they saw him apply the bandage.

Rogers is armed with a rifle and two automatics. Having known the fugitive for years for his unerring aim, recklessness and determination, they believe what he said when he fled—"they'll never take me alive."

Pasteboard Gun Aids Escape.

Rogers was in court Wednesday on a charge comparatively trivial for him, that of carrying concealed weapons. He surprised the crowded chamber by producing what was later found to be a pasteboard imitation of a revolver and held every one at bay, commandeered an automobile and disappeared.

Rogers called up police headquarters last night, and, posing as "a friend of Rogers," said that individual could be caught in a barn whose location he described. He warned the officer who answered that Rogers had sworn to get Detective Fred Lefebvre, Police Chief Morbey, and Magistrate Weemer. They had been instrumental in bringing about his first prison term seven years ago.

The police found their man when a hail of bullets greeted them as they approached the barn. Constables McGovern and Robb were ordered to flank the building, but Rogers wounded McGovern in the hip and escaped.

Meet at Creek; One Dies.

At dawn today Rogers and Lefebvre looked across a small stream in which both were bathing their faces and saw each other. Rogers was quicker on the draw, and Lefebvre fell with a bullet in his abdomen. He died in a hospital.

Posses gathered quickly to aid the provincial police, and all day and tonight miners were trooping in and organizing additional parties to pursue Rogers.

HARDING'S HOME TOWN "BUSTED"; CAN'T PAY POLICE

Marion, O., May 18.—[Special.]—The startling report was made public today that this town is "flat busted."

Hard to believe was the assertion that President Harding's home town was unable to pay its debts, but a checkup of the situation verified the fact.

Marion has spent all the money available in tax collections and also has borrowed all it can, said bankers. A local bank that has been filling the city's pay roll the last year, and which advanced the money for last month's pay roll, refused to forward the money this month.

"The mayor vetoed the occupational tax measure which gave us the only way out," said Councilman Charles E. Merkel, a local banker. "He has gotten the town into the hole, and now let him get it out."

FORMER MAYOR MISSING; FUNDS SHORT $300,000

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., May 18.—(Special).—Harry E. Pettee, former mayor of this city and until Wednesday president of the General Carbonic Gas company, with offices in New York city, has disappeared. He has not been seen since May 10, according to former Senator Edgar T. Brackett, counsel for the company, who said today that an examination of Pettee's accounts had disclosed overdrafts approximating $300,000.

At a meeting of the board of directors in New York last Wednesday Pettee was removed as president.

DIABETES GROWS UNDER DRY LAW, DOCTOR FINDS

New York, May 18.—[Special.]—Prohibition has been the indirect cause through the substitution of sugars and fats to produce the heat formerly furnished by alcohol of doubling the number of diabetes cases in this country according to Dr. Benjamin Jablons, who made that assertion in the course of a lecture today at St. Mark's hospital.

There are now approximately 2,000,000 persons suffering from aggravated or incipient form of diabetes he said, as against half that number before prohibition became effective.

POOR STREETS DELAY FIREMEN; FIRE LOSS HEAVY

Mourek's garage at 9135 Western avenue was destroyed by fire last night with a loss of $25,000. Owing to the bad condition of Western avenue firemen were compelled to detour, and the delay caused the heavy loss. They arrived too late to do more than protect the surrounding buildings.

Allies Back Turk; Greece Says 'It's War'

BY RAYMOND FENDRICK.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LAUSANNE, May 18.—The British, French and Italian delegates to the peace conference tonight decided that Greece must pay reparations to Turkey for the destruction of Asia Minor. The amount is reliably reported to be $50,000,000.

M. Venizelos was informally given notice of this decision at midnight. He told the allies that Greek troops will invade eastern Thrace the day this provision becomes part of the treaty.

The allied decision was reached after M. Venizelos and Ismet Pasha failed to reach an accord, thus putting the dispute up to the allies.

Turks Cancel Army Leaves.

LAUSANNE, May 18. — [United News.]—The Turkish government, apparently believing it will have to bring "peace" in the near east through use of the sword, has ordered all its officers in the Ismid section of the straits to remain on constant duty and has canceled all leaves of absence. This is taken to mean that the Turks have little hope for the success of the second Lausanne near east peace conference now in progress here.

GREEKS WANT WAR

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 18. — [Tribune Radio.]—Allied statesmanship at Lausanne must exert itself to the utmost to prevent an outbreak of hostilities between the Greeks and Turks, in the opinion of best informed circles here.

Col. William S. Haskell, who arrived from Athens today, told THE TRIBUNE he is not able to say whether the Greeks will fight or not, but he admitted the situation is serious. Greeks here are hopeful of war, saying the situation cannot be worse, as Greece has nothing more to lose and much to gain.

Turks Equally Warlike.

Turkey is equally bellicose and refuses to give in on its reparations demand. Although the Turks realize that Greece proper is not able to pay reparations they demand that the principle be recognized which will legalize the seizure of Greek property in Turkey.

As Greeks own millions of dollars' worth of property in Constantinople alone, the importance of the demand which Ismet Pasha is now championing is obvious.

ROBBER SLAIN, ANOTHER NABBED BY PARK POLICE

One of three Negro holdup men was killed and another arrested last night by Policemen Conrad Larkin and Bernard Gannon of the West park force when they surprised them in the act of beating and robbing Peter J. Glomski in an alley at Madison and Paulina streets. Glomski was on his way to his home, 1809 Herday street, when the Negroes seized him and dragged him into the alley. His assailants fled when the policemen approached. The one who was captured was too frightened to give his own name or that of the dead man. The third robber escaped.

AUTO OFFICIAL AND 5 OTHERS HURT IN CRASH

A. J. Law, auditor of the Cadillac Automobile company, and his wife, of 7702 South Sangamon street; Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Schilling of 7267 Coles avenue; and Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Rubner of 6729 Colfax avenue, all were bruised and probably internally injured early this morning when their automobile, driven by Mr. Law, struck a concrete lamppost at Division street and Lake Shore drive. All were taken to the Henrotin hospital.

Disregarding plans of the five ousted Lundin-Thompson trustees to fight for their jobs, Mayor Dever completed his list of nine school board appointments yesterday. They will constitute the majority, which will reorganize the board and complete the cleanup begun by the grand jury.

The mayor does not take seriously the threats of the ousted trustees to fight for their jobs on the ground that their resignations, tendered last year, were nullified by former Mayor Thompson's failure to accept them. His advisers declare that "sooner or later" Dever appointees will get control of the board, and with records of the Lundin trustees' transactions in their possession the Deverites will be in a position "to make it very hot" for trustees of the old régime. It is therefore predicted that the ousted trustees will "step out gracefully."

Three Classes of Choices.

The mayor's choices to end the reign of Lundinism in the public schools may be divided into three classes—those whom the mayor has definitely decided to appoint and who have accepted his offer; those to whom he has offered trusteeships and whose decisions are still in abeyance and, thirdly, two present trustees who may be reappointed because of the good work they have done in cleaning up conditions which obtained under the trustees named by former Mayor Thompson. The nine are:

THOSE WHO HAVE ACCEPTED.

Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First Trust and Savings bank, and one of Chicago's foremost students of taxation and applied economics. He is 45 years old, a lawyer and a trustee of Northwestern university. He was born in Kentucky and educated in public schools. He lives at 426 Barry avenue.

Mrs. Moses L. Purvin, a director of the Woman's City club and a leader in Jewish charities. Mrs. Purvin is a hearty advocate of civil service. Single handed she forced the Lundin-Thompson administration to call merit tests for the positions of directors of city beaches and playgrounds. She lives at 6512 Kenwood avenue.

Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, 6631 Harvard avenue, who is a leader in the affairs of the Chicago Woman's club and Catholic charities, and was a member of the women's committee of the National Council of Defense. She was urged upon the Circuit court judges a year ago for a membership on the South park board. In 1921 she fought Mayor Thompson's attempt to grab the Circuit court bench and is a hearty advocate of pensions for needy mothers.

NAMED, IF THEY WILL ACCEPT.

Charles E. Merriam, 6041 University avenue, professor of political economy at the University of Chicago and former alderman. He was one of the old Progressive party leaders who took the field for Mayor Dever during his campaign.

Victor Olander, 3553 Belden avenue, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor. Like Mrs. Hefferan, Olander was a leader in national defense work during the war. He was a member of the State Council of Defense and heartily denounced labor agitators who tried to hamper the government's war program.

Raymond Robins, 1437 West Ohio street, former American Red Cross commissioner to Russia. Like Prof. Merriam, Robins was a Progressive leader, but took the platform for Dever with the slogan, "Mayor Dever will clean up Chicago."

Allen B. Pond, 11 East Goethe street, architect, former president of the Municipal Voters' league and leader in the work of the City club. Mr. Pond is known for his efforts to better Chicago housing conditions.

MAY BE REAPPOINTED.

Trustees Hart Hanson and J. Lewis Coath—Hanson, aided by Coath, procured much of the information on which the school board grand jury voted more than a score of indictments charging former Trustees Severinghaus and Davis and their political allies and business associates with boodling.

Hanson's term has expired, but Coath's runs until 1926. The appointment of Coath next Wednesday is, of course, contingent upon his resignation before the council meets. Whether he resigns or not is of small importance, the mayor's advisers believe, because he has expressed himself as heartily in favor of the mayor's plans to clean up conditions.

In arriving at his decision Mayor Dever waded through a long list of recommendations made by Democratic political leaders. Among the many whom the mayor was urged to appoint were the following: Felix B. Janovsky, former alderman; Charles J. Vopika, former minister to Bulgaria; Wheeler Sammons, vice president of the Shaw Printing company; Joseph Flaherty, vice president of the McKeown Transportation company; John Chapp, brass manufacturer; Dr. Victor Schiller, Dr. Joseph F. Timmis, Dr. Gius Monaco, and James B. Dibelka.

Mayor Shocks "Solid Five."

The special delivery letters from Mayor Dever accepting the resignations of Trustees Edwin S. Davis, Albert H. Severinghaus, Dr. Sadie Bay Adair, Mrs. Pauline Struwing, and Dr. Boleslaus Klarkowski came as a shock to the "solid five." Davis and Severinghaus are on trial before Judge Charles A. McDonald, charged with conspiracy to embezzle school funds. They were especially anxious to retain their trusteeships for the effect it might have on the jury now being selected to try them.

Mrs. Struwing and Dr. Adair were indicted for malfeasance in office. So were Davis and Severinghaus, in addition to other criminal charges against them. Dr. Klarkowski served a jail sentence of one day for contempt of court.

Find No Way to Hold Jobs.

The ousted trustees sought but did not find solace yesterday in the office of former County Judge Frank S. Righeimer, now attorney for the board of education.

"I told them I expected to hold my job as attorney for the board," Righeimer said. "I understand they decided to consult an attorney and make a fight to stay on the board.

"You do not contemplate acting in their behalf," he was asked.

"No, it's a matter between them and Mayor Dever or the courts if they wish to go that far," Attorney Righeimer stated.

Mayor Dever was asked if he would do as his predecessor had done, station policemen in the board of education's offices to forcibly prevent certain trustees from attempting to function as such.

"I will cross that bridge when I come to it," the mayor said.

Knell of Pay Boost Predicted.

Two motions—increase of the salaries of elementary school principals and of head clerks—which the ousted Thompson adherents are said to have been trying to shove through the finance committee will probably be quashed next Monday when the committee meets.

The finance committee will be the only one left with a quorum as a result of Mayor Dever's action. The buildings and grounds committee, holder of the most desirable "plum basket," loses four members, Severinghaus, chairman, Dr. Adair, Dr. Klarkowski, and Mrs. Struwing, leaving only Hanson and Dr. Robertson, ex-officio.

On the finance committee there remain—besides Dr. Robertson—Hanson, Coath, and Croarkin, placed there, it is generally considered, on a "see if you can do better" basis after they had disclosed the shortcomings of the former finance committee before the grand jury.

Cost if Motions Pass.

If the two motions under consideration pass the committee it will mean an annual increase of nearly $125,000 in the school budget, declared Mr. Hanson, chairman of the committee, who is vigorously opposing any increases.

Twenty-one head clerks are demanding to be taken out of the head clerk class in spite of the fact they are civil service appointees. They ask a raise from $2,020 to $3,599 a year, $1 less than the pay of the chief clerk.

The 276 elementary school principals ask an increase of the maximum salary from $4,800 to $5,300.

Letters to prominent members of women's clubs who are backing him for reappointment to the board were sent out by Mr. Hanson asking them to be present at the meeting on Monday.

"I certainly am not anxious to serve another five years," Mr. Hanson said in connection with a question on his attitude were Mayor Dever to reappoint him. "But I do ask that I be allowed to remain on the board until the trial now in progress in Judge McDonald's court has been concluded. I feel that the public owes me that much for the services I have tried to render them in exposing the so-called 'school board scandal.'"

WIDOW IS AWARDED $12,500 BY JURY FOR BOOZE DEATH

Invocation of the old Illinois "dramshop act" won damages of $12,500 yesterday for Mrs. Mary Johnson, 6039 Blackstone avenue, whose husband died after a drinking bout five years ago in the saloon formerly owned by Henri Pype, at 6491 Lake Park avenue. Johnson also left two children, 12 and 16 years old.

In their verdict, the jury in Judge Francis S. Wilson's court, the third to pass on the widow's claim, held that the owners of the property, the Misses Mary Kelley and Jane Carroll were equally responsible with the saloon-keeper for Johnson's death. Pype lives at 8626 Constance avenue. Mrs. Johnson had sued for $25,000 damages.

Damages for $5,500 were awarded Mrs. Johnson by a jury in 1919 and a second trial of the case resulted in a verdict of $11,000, according to her attorneys, Julian Risk and George H Stevens.

"After he spent all of his money for liquor, he was beaten up and thrown out," declared Attorney Risk in his closing argument to the jury. "He slept in an alley back of the saloon that night and re-entered the place in the morning to demand an 'eye-opener.' Pype pushed him off a chair and Johnson fell dead."

Charles Birch, 40, living at 4600 Wentworth avenue, Cook county's ninety-fourth victim of poison booze this year, died yesterday at the county hospital where he was taken a week ago when found by the Englewood police in a stupor in his home. "Heart disease superinduced by alcoholism" was given the cause of death.

MAN SHOT, KILLED FLEEING SEARCH BY POLICEMAN

Dominico Marcheschi of 2252 West Lake street was shot and killed last night while fleeing from Policeman Anthony Nolan, who had attempted to search him at Lake street and Oakley avenue.

Marcheschi and Armado Martinucci, who lives at the same address, were acting suspiciously when Policemen Nolan and Thomas Mackey, both in plain clothes, approached and began searching them for weapons.

Suddenly Marcheschi broke away and ran. After calling upon him to halt, Nolan drew his revolver and fired, the bullet penetrating the victim's lungs. He died on the operating table at the county hospital. Martinucci is being held, although neither man was found to be armed.

Marks Pass 50,000 to $1; Presses Work Overtime

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

BERLIN, May 18.—With the bourse closed four days for the Whitsuntide holidays the dollar passed 50,000 marks today in unofficial trading. The official rate at the close was 48,000 marks to the dollar. The printing presses are still working overtime to supply funds for the Ruhr fight. Wages have mounted somewhat, but unemployment is increasing.

TRACTION TWINS, WAGES AND FARES, ARE AT IT AGAIN

day. One report was that the average street car fare in the United States now stands at 7.6 cents. Some west side aldermen, in dwelling upon the effect of the drop from an 8 cent to a 7 cent fare, declared the riding public accepted it with comparative indifference. A 5 cent fare it is generally conceded, could be reëstablished only by subsidizing transportation. As between 7 cents and 8 cents—either one leaves a dime looking sick.

The Effect of "L" Education.

As some view it, the 10 cent fare on the busses and on the elevated (single rides) has educated a large part of the riding public to the forking out of a 10 cent piece, and if, with a surface fare boosted to 8 cents, the passenger got the price of a postage stamp or newspaper as change from his dime, he would not protest much—provided he were given service. That's the way many of the aldermen were talking.

At the same time they maintained that nothing in the situation warrants raising the cost of transportation back to its highest point when other costs have come down from their old peaks, notably the cost of materials.

From one quarter comes the argument that, if the companies give an increase in pay, there would still be no necessity for jumping fares. Some members of the commerce commission insist the companies might make certain economies.

Men Cite Living Costs.

The men argue that increased living costs warrant a raise in wages and that the general wage movement during the last year has been upward. Against this it has already been pointed out by the city hall lawyers during the Thompson regime, in briefs filed with the commerce commission, that wages for street car employes in Chicago are higher than in other large cities.

U. S. DELEGATION TO OPIUM PARLEY LOADED FOR BEAR

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

LAUSANNE, May 18.—The American legation at Berne today notified the secretariat of the league of nations that Stephen G. Porter, chairman of the foreign affairs committee, has been named "American representative in a consultative capacity" to the meeting of the opium advisory committee on May 24. His associates will be Dr. Rupert Blue, assistant surgeon general of the United States public health service, Bishop Brent and Dr. Neville.

An entire communique, devoted to Mr. Porter, was issued by the league today. Mr. Porter is now chairman of the foreign affairs committee of the house and as such has a considerable position on questions of foreign policy.

He secured the passage through both the house and the senate of a resolution requesting the president to take up with the opium producing countries, Great Britain, Turkey and Persia, and the cocaine producing countries, Peru, Bolivia and the Netherlands, the possibility of immediate reduction of production.

THE TRIBUNE learns that America intends to recommend the advisability of all nations refusing importation licenses to states not parties to the opium convention, notably Switzerland, which is the opium clearing house of Europe.

SPRAGUE OUSTS CITY ENGINEER AFTER A CLASH

John Ericson Is Given Murdoch's Job.

Disagreement between Commissioner of Public Works Sprague and City Engineer Alexander Murdoch over the use of Strauss bridge patents in the design of the Roosevelt road and Adams street bridges yesterday caused the suspension of the engineer and the appointment of John Ericson, city engineer from 1897 to 1919, as Murdoch's successor.

Two weeks ago Mr. Sprague endeavored to get Mr. Murdoch to withdraw recommendations that the Strauss patents be used. Murdoch refused, standing by the recommendations of two boards of engineers, one appointed by the council finance committee staff. He declared that the use of the Strauss plans would save the city $135,000 on the two bridges.

Sprague Backs Philfeldt.

Mr. Sprague sided with City Bridge Engineer Philfeldt, who withdrew his signature to a recommendation for the Strauss plans and has charged privately that acceptance of the Strauss designs was due to political influence the Strauss Bascule Bridge company is said to have wielded under the Lundin-Thompson administration through the fact that Schuyler and Weinfeld, law partners of former Corporation Counsel Ettelson, were attorneys for the firm.

The climax came yesterday, when Mr. Sprague called in Murdoch and reminded him of a promise that if he were not in accord with the commissioner he would resign. Sprague told Murdoch that he had no confidence in his ability as an engineer and his ability to run the engineer's office.

Murdoch announced that his promise to resign was withdrawn as soon as charges reflecting on his ability as an engineer were made.

"Very well, then, you are suspended," Mr. Sprague told him in the presence of Deputy Commissioner Clayton F. Smith.

Sprague Mum on Charges.

Mr. Sprague refused to make public details of charges he will make against Murdoch. He said Murdoch refused to carry out his orders that the Adams street bridge foundations be built to handle any type of bascule bridge, saying, "It can't be done."

"Later he said he was mistaken and that it could be done," Mr. Sprague said. "I have no time for a man who will not carry out orders, and I don't think Murdoch capable of holding the position."

SECRET ARREST BARED IN SMALL JURY BRIBE CASE

'Big Dave' Earsman Held as Star Witness.

The secret arrest in Chicago a few days ago of "Big Dave" Earsman, declared to have been a co-conspirator with Eddie Courtney and Eddie Kaufman, Chicago gunmen, in the alleged "fixing" of veniremen and jurors in the Small case, was revealed last night when the prisoner appeared before Judge Claire C. Edwards in the Circuit court at Waukegan on a writ of habeas corpus.

Earsman, who recently served a term in Joliet for burglary, and who is described by State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county as "one of the most important witnesses in the jury bribing investigation," is said to have had direct dealings with Michael F. Boyle, head of the electrical workers' union, while Boyle was touring Lake county on an alleged jury bribing errand just prior to the governor's trial.

Bribed Wrong Man, Hint.

While Kaufman and Courtney were approaching veniremen in the vicinity of Antioch, it is said, Earsman was assigned to another part of the county and approached a number of veniremen with bribe offers. On one occasion, it is reported, he actually bribed a man who turned out to have no connection with the Small case at all.

Earsman, it developed, was arrested in Chicago last Tuesday on a warrant charging conspiracy to impede justice. The arrest was made by Constable C. A. Brune of the Waukegan state's attorney's staff, who whisked his prisoner to Waukegan, took him before Justice Hervey Coulson for a preliminary hearing, and lodged him in the Zion City jail. The rule against smoking in Zion irked Earsman and he succeeded in slipping a note to a fellow prisoner, a Chicago motorist, and the latter brought it to Chicago.

May Get Freedom Today.

George Bilton, one of his friends, filed the petition for a writ of habeas corpus at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon through Attorney O. C. Wray. The prisoner was produced before Judge Edwards, who ruled that he had no jurisdiction during the vacation period. An agreement was reached by counsel, however, whereby Earsman was permitted to remain in the Waukegan jail pending arrangements for his release on $5,000 bonds today.

His hearing has been set for May 25, the day before the grand jury reconvenes, and it is believed it will be continued at that time in order that he might share the limelight with Boyle and Ben Newmark as chief witnesses when the quiz is resumed.

U. S. CONSULATE BOMBED; MEXICO SUSPECTS I. W. W.

Double Guard About Yank Embassy.

BY JOHN CORNYN.

[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Mexico City, May 18.—The interest in the work of the U. S.-Mexican commission shifted today to an attempt to dynamite the American consulate early this morning. The bomb evidently was the work of amateurs, as a primitive time fuse was used.

The attempt was made, according to some statements by dynamiters taking revenge on Judge Castillo, whose office is in the building. However, evidence points to the fact that the dynamiting was directed toward the American consulate, and this is the view of numerous government officials, including the head of the metropolitan police. Subsecretary of the Interior Valenzuela and Prosecuting Attorney Del Humeau. They blame the radicals, who wanted to impress on the Americans their strength in Mexico.

Suspect I. W. W. Agents.

The radical element of the government is trying to saddle the dynamiting attempt on Catholics and land owners, who say they have the most to gain by recognition of Mexico by the United States.

General talk on the street is that the dynamiting was engineered by two American representatives of the I. W. W. who arrived in the city in the wake of the American commissioners, ostensibly to report on the conference which is seeking to reëstablish relations between the two countries, but who never were seen where the news of the conference was to be had. The government is investigating the activities of these two.

Double Guard at Embassy.

Dynamiters last night also attempted to dynamite the statue of Washington presented to Mexico by the American colony on the occasion of the celebration of the declaration of Mexican independence in 1910. The arrival of police prevented the deed.

The guard is being doubled at the American embassy, consulate and residence of the American commissioners, John Barton Payne and Charles B. Warren.

SHELL SHOCKED VET STABS MAN ON PARK BENCH

While County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki was conferring with officials in Washington yesterday as to alleged "deplorable conditions" in the handling of ex-soldier psychopathic cases in the middle west, Municipal Judge Joseph Burke was pondering what disposition he should make of the case of E. W. Minnette, 34 years old, 1333 Elgin avenue, Forest Park, a world war veteran.

Minnette, witnesses testified, had walked up to a bench in Washington square upon which was seated Wilbert Joralemon, 42 years old, and slashed Joralemon on the forehead with a penknife.

73 DIE IN SCHOOL FIRE; BURY 59 IN ONE LONG GRAVE

South Carolina Aghast at Sudden Tragedy.

Camden, S. C., May 18.—[By the Associated Press.]—Bathed in the glory of a setting Palmetto sun, the bodies of fifty-nine men, women and children, who less than twenty-four hours before had been fun loving parents and relatives, late today were placed in one big grave in Beulah Methodist churchyard.

Three thousand South Carolinans, led by Gov. Thomas G. McLeod, gathered from all parts of the state to pay a last tribute to those who had perished in the burning of the Cleveland school house last night, and stood with bared heads throughout the brief, simple funeral service spoken above the thirty-five foot trench.

The bodies were those out of the at least seventy-three dead which could not be identified. They were buried within a few hundred yards of the spot where last night they had gathered for the commencement exercises of the community school, and where an oil lamp, dashed from its hanger on the ceiling over the little stage, had turned the two story, three room country school into a funeral pyre.

Number of Injured Not Fixed.

The exact number injured has not been ascertained, although five persons, suffering from serious hurts, are in a hospital here. Many others are at their homes, recovering from burns, bruises and, in some instances, fractured arms and legs.

Of the known dead forty-one were children who were in the crowded school auditorium, witnessing "Topsy Turvey," a commencement playlet, seventeen men and fifteen women also lost their lives.

Messages of condolence and offers of assistance poured in today from all parts of the state and nation. Most of them were addressed to Mayor Carrigan of Camden, and to all he returned one answer:

"We appreciate your sympathy. No help needed."

Voices Pity of Whole Nation.

Gov. McLeod, standing beside the grave and in a voice touched with emotion, said:

"I wish something I could say could assuage your grief. From the depths of my heart and as a servant whom you have honored I bring to you the loving sympathy of our state, from the mountains to the sea. And not only the sympathy of the state, but of all the nation. All over this land tonight mothers and fathers will breathe a prayer for you in your bereavement. Words cannot express what I want to say nor what is felt all over the nation. God bless you and comfort you as he alone can."

The undertaker said that there possibly are bodies of one or two persons buried in the grave with the unidentified dead who were not known to have been in the auditorium last night.

The condition of the bodies was such that it was impossible to make an accurate check. Fourteen of the dead were identified and funeral services will be held for them tomorrow in Camden, at Buelah church, and at Antioch.

The fire, according to eye-witnesses, started when a hanging lamp over the stage fell and burst, blazing oil catching flimsy draperies and quickly spreading. The audience, numbering about 300, mostly children, became panic stricken.

Men Fight Panic in Vain.

Men in the crowd attempted to quiet those who became frightened, but a rush was made for the one insecure stairway that led to the ground floor. A jam resulted, the stairway collapsed and scores were hurled into a closet under the steps. Some were impaled by jagged timbers from the broken stairs. Soon the splintered stairway caught fire. Those not killed by the fall perished in the flames.

Meantime, men and boys who had escaped by leaping over railings or through windows endeavored to extricate those trapped. Dozens were pulled to safety. Others leaped from windows sustaining fractured bones and bruises. Mothers, trapped on the second floor, in some instances, hurled their children through windows.

With the light of the burning building to guide them, men outside the structure did their best to break the fall of those who jumped.

Mothers Die for Babies.

Some of the mothers gave their lives that their children might live, for it was reported that in several instances little ones were tossed to safety just as the floor sank with the flames.

No announcement has been made whether there will be an investigation of the disaster, although it was reported that the building had been condemned and that it was being used last night for the last time. Coroner Dixon and his daughter were among those buried late today.

Although the fire and panic occurred soon after 9 o'clock last night, news of the disaster did not reach the outside world until many hours later. The entire available population busied itself in the work of rescue.

SLAYER AND SLAIN

Mrs. Agnes Gaconis and her husband, Peter Gaconis, who says his wife was killed in struggle for weapon with which she had threatened to take his life.

Vivid Stories of Horrors as Babies Are Burned to Death

Camden, S. C., May 18.—(By the Associated Press).—As this community today overcame its horror as the result of the Cleveland school house fire, stories of heroism, unusual rescues and incidents of various kinds during the time the building was burning, began to come to light. At first all were too stunned to talk.

The Rev. J. J. Johnson, pastor of the Camden Baptist church, saved his two little daughters, but was unable to save his 10 year old son. He was the speaker of the evening at the commencement exercises of the little school.

When the audience began leaving the second floor auditorium he took his two daughters in his arms. He led his son by the hand. Nearing the door the minister lost his grip on the boy. He reached back several times in an effort to regain his hold on the little fellow.

"This is me, daddy. This is me," the child cried out.

Baby Voice Hushed Forever.

Then his voice was smothered in the rush of the crowd to get out and he was trampled under foot. He never was seen alive again.

"One man, whose name could not be learned, placed a flag pole against the side of the burning building. Fifteen persons slid down this to safety. One of those who escaped by this method was a women 70 years old.

"'Topsy Turvey' was the play which was going on when the fire started, and the blaze began as we were shifting the scenery between the second and third acts," C. C. Bruce, 19, who played the part of Ned in the comedy the Cleveland school was presenting as part of its commencement exercises, told the Associated Press today.

"I was standing right under the oil lamp which was swinging from the ceiling and was partly hidden behind the curtain when suddenly it fell. Some believe the heat from the lamp had melted the soldering and loosened the iron ring, causing it to fall. Others say the curtain, as it was let down at the end of the second act, struck the lamp and loosened it. Anyway, it fell and oil ran out over the floor and blazed up.

"At first, people screamed and began to get up but we told them we could put it out and we tried to do so. The flimsy draperies caught, however, and soon the stage and platform were ablaze. Then, everyone acted panicky and began to rush for the stairway, the only exit, and a very narrow and rickety one. There were about 300 people in the audience, I believe.

"The men tried to keep the crowd from pushing each other down the steps but could not control them and the flames were licking closer on all sides. Soon, some of the people in the hall began going to the windows and jumping out. Mothers threw their children to ones below and some jumped after them.

"I remember Mr. Stoney Campbell, whose daughter was trapped on the stairway and burned to death, threw his wife out of the window and jumped after her. She broke her leg, but both escaped.

Four of Cast are Dead.

"There was none besides the principal, Miss Ina Mae Stephens, Miss Eula Prosser and Miss Esta Garvin, teachers, on the stage with us, who were in the play. The cast was composed of eight, four of whom—Ima Arrants, Ola Phillips, Bertie Hendrix and Jack Rush—are dead.

"Besides myself, the ones who escaped were Otis Arrants, Kate Dixon and Parker Davis. The worst part of it all was trying to help those caught in the blazing building.

"I got out by jumping across the banisters and down to the first floor instead of using the steps. Shortly after I got out of the building the stairway collapsed and there was a struggling mass of people, many badly hurt. The splinters from the jagged edge where the stairway gave way soon caught fire and burning pieces of wood fell upon those fighting for their lives in the pile of debris. The only light was from the fire itself.

Try to Break Effect of Fall.

"I pulled at those in the doorway until I saw it was useless, and many of us stood under the windows trying to catch the children who were thrown out and to break the fall of those who jumped. Automobile seats were placed under the windows to break the fall as much as possible, but few who did not get out early by the doorway escaped with less than a broken wrist or ankle.

"Soon the clothing of those yet inside began to catch fire, and the cries and groans of the dying added to the horror. Then the building collapsed, and—well, I guess you know the rest."

WIFE IS SLAIN BY HUSBAND AS TWO CHILDREN WATCH

Died in Struggle for Gun, He Insists.

While her two small sons looked on from a corner of the dining room in which they had huddled, Mrs. Agnes Gaconis was shot to death last night in her apartment at 5852 Maryland avenue. Her husband, Peter Gaconis, owner of a saloon at 54th street and Western avenue, told the police the shooting occurred during a struggle for possession of a revolver with which his wife had threatened to kill him.

Doubt His Version.

Although his story was corroborated by the two frightened boys—Stanley, 10, and Joseph, aged 7—Dr. Joseph Springer, coroner's physician, found evidence which caused the Hyde Park police to start a more thorough investigation.

Gaconis said he returned home for supper and became engaged in a violent quarrel with his wife, who, he said, appeared to have been drinking. In the midst of the quarrel, he said, his wife left the dining room and went to her bedroom, saying she was going to retire.

Returns to Dining Room.

"In a few minutes she came back to the dining room," Gaconis told the police. "She was holding her right hand close to her dress. I asked her what she had there and she replied: 'I've got a gun and I'm going to kill you.' I made a grab for the gun and during the tussle it exploded while still in her grasp."

But Dr. Springer found the bullet had entered the woman's left temple on a straight line, which would have been highly improbable had she been holding the weapon in her right hand. No powder marks were found on the wound, which would have been the case had the weapon been held close to her head. Other residents of the apartment building denied having heard the quarrel and fight which Gaconis described as particularly violent.

THREATENS TO KILL WIFE, BABY; SHOOTS HIMSELF

After an altercation last night with his wife during which he threatened to shoot her and their 10 months old baby, Albert Kalka, 30 years old, 2602 West 24th street, while intoxicated shot himself above the right ear in an attempt to commit suicide. Mrs. Anna Kalka, his wife, called the police, who took him to the county hospital, where it was said his condition is critical.

"He has been drinking moonshine," Mrs. Kalka said, "and for the last two years has not held a job regularly because of that. He came home drunk and threatened to shoot me and the baby. He took the baby from my arms and I took it back from him. Then he sat down in a chair and shot himself.

B. & O. Raises Shopmen's Pay 3c; Costs $14,000,000

New York, May 18.—[Special.]—The Baltimore and Ohio railroad has reached a settlement with its shopmen whereby the rate of pay of approximately 20,000 men will be increased 3 cents an hour, to 73 cents. The step is viewed in railroad labor circles here as a development that will stabilize the wage problem for shopmen throughout the country. The increase will cost the road approximately $14,000,000 a year.

TWENTY HURT AS 'BANKER SPECIAL' CARS QUIT TRACK

Defective Signal Is Blamed by R. I.

Twenty passengers aboard the "Bankers' Special" of the Rock Island lines were shaken up and bruised early yesterday when one coach of the train turned turtle and three others were derailed at 87th street and Vincennes avenue. The wreck, according to railroad inspectors, was caused by a defective block signal.

Jammed with Commuters.

The train was roaring in from Joliet and was crowded with commuters when the accident occurred. Engineer Thomas Phelan instantly applied the air brakes, but not in time to prevent one of the coaches toppling over.

First reports indicated that more than a score of persons had been killed. Ambulances were hurried to the scene from practically every south side police station and from hospitals. Several of the more severely injured were removed to hospitals, but first aid treatment was sufficient in a majority of cases.

Girl Tells Experience.

"I was in the rear coach and we were bowling along about thirty miles an hour when suddenly our coach left the rails and slipped down into a ditch," said Miss Maud Ferguson of Joliet, one of the more seriously injured, who was removed to Auburn Park hospital.

"The doors were quickly jammed. People were scrambling through the windows. I went to the next car and assisted in removing some of the passengers there."

PLUNKETT URGES IRISH FARMERS PLAN FOR PEACE

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

DUBLIN, May 18.—[Tribune Radio.]—Sir Horace Plunkett, Irish agricultural organizer, who recently returned from the United States, where he studied agricultural conditons, sent a letter to the Irish Agricultural Organization association today saying that when peace comes Ireland's recovery will depend on the development of its agricultural resources. He is optimistic of the future and urges his coworkers to apply themselves to an extension of their organizing plans. He added that in America the farmers realize that the Irish coöperative plan was best, and he recalled that Roosevelt urged them to adopt it fifteen years ago.

VAST PROJECTS PERILED BY LACK OF CASH—SLOAN

Tells Advisory Council of Handicaps.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

About $1,300,000 has been "spent" on South Water street improvement and nothing has been expended to date on the actual work, according to President John J. Sloan of the board of local improvements.

"As near as I can reckon the improvement will cost between $22,000,000 and $25,000,000 if we follow the original plan," he went on. "From the bond money there is left about $2,500,000 and we will get about $7,000,000 from special assessments—or a total of $9,500,000 in sight to do a work that will cost $22,000,000 upwards.

"At the same time the city is about to the limit of its bonding power and we have $9,000,000 in public benefits outstanding for which no appropriation has been made."

Meets New Advisory Council.

In a word, he conveyed the impression that the city cannot finish the big street improvement under way. He was speaking to the new advisory council at its first session. Mayor Dever had just left after complimenting members of the council on their public spirit. All the members were present except two. Around the table sat Bertram M. Winston, Walter S. Ross, James F. Bambas, Daniel H. Burnham, John Holabird, Hyde W. Perce, William H. Babcock, and Samuel H. Hodge.

Mayor Dever had told them that they had not been appointed as a "political smoke screen" but as actual advisers in solving big improvement questions. They asked Mr. Sloan regarding their duties. He illustrated rather than defined them.

His first illustration was relative to LaSalle street. He said the board of local improvements will lay all information it can collect by next Friday before the council and ask it to recommend what shall be done.

Takes Up Ogden Avenue.

Mr. Sloan's next illustration was Ogden avenue. On this improvement he said that both ends will be constructed and then $8,000,000 will be needed to complete the thoroughfare across Goose island. Mr. Sloan said he will ask views of the council on what should be done with reference to this improvement. The president also gave considerable information regarding the improvement of Robey street, Western and Ashland avenues.

The big point revealed by the session is that the city has not sufficient money to complete these improvements. For revamping South Water street taxpayers voted $3,800,000 in bonds, and Mr. Sloan said that only $2,500,000 of that amount is now available.

NEGRO HOLDS UP PHONE GIRLS IN 'DORM'; GETS $167

Fairfax Hall, a dormitory maintained by the Chicago Telephone company for telephone operators at 215 East Erie street, was robbed shortly after 9 o'clock last night by an armed Negro, who escaped with $167 taken from the cash drawer in the office.

Miss Irene Hunt, cashier of the home, and three girl residents, Misses Anna Ziska, Mary McGrath and Ruby Myberg, were in the office when the Negro entered, pointed a revolver at them and ordered them to make no outcery while he stepped behind the desk and emptied the drawer.

Most of the operators, employed at the Franklin, Superior and Central exchanges, either had retired to their rooms or were on duty at the time, but a few were sitting in the reception hall and parlors, reading and playing the piano. The latter were unaware a holdup was taking place until attracted by the cries of the four girls in the office as the thief darted out.

CURZON CALLS ON KING; BONAR LAW TO QUIT, BELIEF

Heart Specialist to Attend Premier.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, May 18.—Rumors that Prime Minister Bonar Law is on the verge of a serious breakdown were revived today with the announcement that Sir Thomas Holder, one of the most famous of London's specialists and physician to the Prince of Wales, has been summoned to Paris to see him.

Sir Thomas is not a throat specialist but is an expert on the heart and nerves, so it is believed the prime minister is threatened with his trouble of two years ago when he had a minor stroke.

Curzon Sees the King.

Lord Curzon had a long interview with King George last night, and it is said that one of the subjects discussed was the necessity of a change in prime ministers. Lord Curzon now seems to be a favorite with the political prophets as it is thought Stanley Baldwin is not experienced or forceful enough. In case Lord Curzon becomes prime minister, Mr. Baldwin probably will continue as leader of the house of commons.

Nine more Irish deportees arrived at Holyhead today, and seven were immediately arrested on a conspiracy charge. The only important figure among those arrested was "Big Shark" O'Mahony, who was an intimate friend of Arthur Griffith, but deserted him in the fight for the treaty and since has been one of the leaders of the republican faction.

Retirement Near, Paris Hears.

PARIS, May 18.—(By the Associated Press).—The health of Andrew Bonar Law, according to information derived from persons in close relations with the British prime minister, is so seriously affected that his retirement appears to be near.

Mr. Bonar Law is able to walk the streets of Paris and dine at a restaurant outside the hotel at which he is stopping.

N. Y. BONDS BEAT CHICAGO AT GOLF AND BASEBALL

New York, May 18.—(Special).—The New York Bond club today defeated the Chicago Bond club at both golf and baseball in the annual picnic at the Sleepy Hollow Country club, Scarborough, N. Y. For the first time in two years the New York nine trimmed the Chicago ball tossers, the score being 4-3. The New York Bond club's golf team also violated all rules of hospitality by walloping the visiting Chicago golfers.

It was a busy day for Charles H. Sabin of the Guaranty Trust company. He took the mound for the New York baseball club in the first inning, but after he had christened the game he retired to a more comfortable and less strenuous position on the sidelines.

CHILD BLIND; DOCTORS FINED FOR NEGLIGENCE

"I regret I cannot fine you more," said Judge John F. O'Connell, yesterday in imposing fines of $25 each on two physicians found guilty of failure to report cases of sore eyes among children. One child is blind and another partly so, according to Health Commissioner Bundesen, as a result of the physicians' neglect.

Dr. Jacob Stogol, 1839 West Thirty-fifth street, treated Raymond Barnett, 3923 Emerald avenue, but failed to report the case to the department. Little Raymond is totally blind as a result of neglect, according to the health commissioner.

Dr. J. Riley Gardiner, 2088 Flournoy street, the other physician fined, treated James Morton, infant son of Thomas Morton, 2445 Flournoy street.

QUIZ BROTHERS OF DORIS FUCHS; PALMER FREED

Alumni Indignant Over Jailing of Star.

Doris Fuchs, the girl chum and "mental aid" of Leighton Mount, and her two brothers were called to the state's attorney's office last night on another "hot tip" in the investigation into the disappearance and death of the Northwestern university student following the class fight on the night of Sept. 21, 1921.

The trio were questioned on the theory that Leighton and Doris had become more than chums and that her brothers had sponsored a reprisal attack on the student which resulted in his death.

Some of the testimony of Miss Fuchs:

Q.—How often did you see Leighton? A.—Intermittently—sometimes twice a week.

Q.—Were your relations of a familiar nature? A.—No; he never even suggested kissing me.

The brothers, William and Joseph, eliminated themselves, so far as last night's testimony went, by saying they had never been in Evanston in their lives.

"Chuck" Palmer Released.

Their questioning was the only action in the day of investigation, with the exception of the release of "Chuck" Palmer, football star, who had been held in solitary confinement at the Shakespeare avenue police station for thirty-six hours on the story of Mrs. Violet Bachman that he told her in 1921 that he knew Mount was safe.

Chief Justice Michael McKinley released Palmer on his own recognizance and continued a writ of habeas corpus hearing until Monday.

The arrest and release of Palmer drew a moderate fire from the chief justice, which was intensified in statements from university officials and alumni.

"Will you please tell me," Judge McKinley asked Charles Wharton, assistant state's attorney, "where you have any legal right to hold this student?"

Why He Was Taken.

"We are holding him on Mrs. Bachman's statement that he told her he knew where Mount was," replied the state's attorney. "We tried to get him early Thursday night, but his friends said he was out of town when we knew he wasn't. Then he denied knowing Mrs. Bachman, but finally admitted it. Her word is as good as his—possibly better when you consider his changing statements."

"Palmer came to the state's attorney's office voluntarily, but couldn't find any one who wanted him," interposed Samuel Adalman, the student's attorney. "Then he was kidnaped from his home at 1 a. m. and placed in solitary."

"We kept him incommunicado to keep newspaper reporters from getting out wild stories before we had a chance to investigate thoroughly," answered Wharton.

"What have you to say about Mrs. Bachman's charges?" Judge McKinley asked Palmer.

Perhaps Wants Reward.

"The only thing I can figure is that she's trying to get that $10,000 reward," answered the university idol. "One of the times she says she talked to me about Mount was when I was working with her at the Case and Marvin Pie company, according to her story, but the records will show I left there before Mount disappeared."

Judge McKinley then released him; after Palmer had promised to come back any time he was wanted.

At one stage of the hearing Judge McKinley couldn't find any state officials and asked if they had gone out "for a and o," apparently referring to steak and onions.

Healy Special Counsel.

While Palmer's hearing was going on, the report that George P. Merrick would be deposed as university attorney gathered impetus with the announcement that John J. Healy, former state's attorney, had been appointed special counsel for any students who might become implicated in the Mount case.

The announcement, which came from President Walter Dill Scott's office, said that Mr. Healy had been appointed to prevent embarrassment to students who might be questioned, but that every student wanted would be produced on demand and instructed to give any information he might possess.

"We only want to see that students are not treated unfairly," said the announcement.

Col. MacChesney Indignant.

Col. N. W. MacChesney, former president of the state bar association and an alumnus of Northwestern, termed Palmer's arrest an "unjust and unnecessary incarceration of an upright and honest youngster by state officials who took advantage of their power over an innocent youth."

Aubere Inquest on.

The campus interest in the Mount case switched to the inquest into the death of Louis Aubere, 17 year old freshman, killed in an automobile accident a few weeks ago. The inquest was resumed yesterday with student witnesses telling varied stories of the death ride.

Roscoe Conkling Fitch retold his story that Aubere's death came during a hazing escapade in which student cars, going forty-five miles an hour, deliberately tried to ram each other, resulting in a collision with a car driven by Mrs. Arthur Winslow of Wilmette.

His story drew laughter, whether forced or spontaneous cannot be said, from the student audience. It was denied by other students in the colliding cars and by a surprise eyewitness, all of whom said they were going only twenty or twenty-five miles an hour and that the accident was unavoidable. Their stories upheld the statements of President Scott that the accident "might have occurred anywhere."

Mrs. Winslow's testimony was that she was going only twelve miles an hour, that she was on the right side of the road and that she had been driving automobiles nine years.

MOUNT MYSTERY ASTOUNDS PARIS; "STRANGE CUSTOMS"

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

PARIS, May 18.—The Paris press is editorializing severely on the subject of the death of Leighton Mount. The news became known upon the arrival of CHICAGO TRIBUNES of two weeks ago and is drawing columns of comment.

The press calls Mount a "student of the University of Chicago, or Northwestern university, as it is popularly known."

The Matin says "the tragedy sheds great light upon the strange customs of American university life."

No evidences of suicide or violence were found.

JAPAN'S ENVOY SEES MENACE IN ANTI-ALIEN LAW

Pacific Conference Killed Suspicions, He Says.

New York, May 18.—Treatment of Japanese in this country, in the opinion of Masanao Hanihara, the Japanese ambassador, is the only thing that is apt to disturb the friendly relations existing between the United States and Japan.

Addressing the Japan society here today, the ambassador declared that the "happy result" of the Washington arms conference was the "removal from our mutual international relations of the feelings of suspicion which had disturbed them." He added, however, that the American attitude toward the Japanese immigrant was the one question "in the whole bright outlook" which "vexes the minds of both peoples."

Question of Discrimination.

"I want you to understand," said Mr. Hanihara, "that there is no question of our desire to send more immigrants. The question is simply one of discrimination or no discrimination, based on color or nationality.

"Now, it is clear to me that America wants to be just and that she is friendly to Japan. On the other hand, Japan has no desire to send to your country such of her people as you do not desire. So with no conflict of great interests between us, and with no cause on either side for distrust or suspicion, but with evident desire and every reason on both sides for a mutually beneficial friendship, I confess that I cannot see why our common intelligence and collective wisdom should fail to find the right solution."

Discussing the benefits derived from the Washington conference, the ambassador declared "it had been apparent for some time before the conference that distrust and suspicion had crept into the minds of some of the people of both countries."

As to Japan's relations with China, the ambassador declared his country's policy toward China always had been one of "peace, friendship and mutual accommodation."

"If at any time," he continued, "there was apparent deviation from this policy, it was due more to circumstances and conditions prevailing at the time than to the motive and intent behind it. Japan is so geographically situated that her repose and safety are directly affected by conditions in China; and then Japan is vastly dependent for her trade and manufacture on China. This is why Japan is anxious to win China's good will, for without it our economic life will be seriously menaced."

Officials Mum on Speech.

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—Officials today refused to comment on the declaration made by Masanao Hanihara, Japanese ambassador to the United States, in an address before the Japan society in New York, that the American attitude toward the Japanese immigrant was the one question "in the whole bright outlook" which vexed the minds of both the American and the Japanese people.

Before Ambassador Hanihara left Japan to come to his post at Washington news reports from Tokio stated that he had been instructed to take up with this government the question of Japanese immigration.

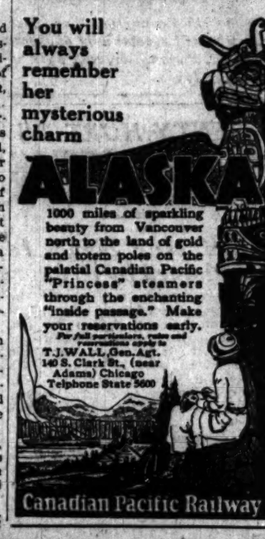

In response to an inquiry, responsible officials of the government stated today that this matter had not been taken up with the state department, which thus far has received no intimation that it would be presented for consideration.

HARVEY AVOIDS "COURT" BUNKER IN HARDING GOLF

But Borah's Mail Attacks President's Plan.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—If George Harvey, American ambassador to Great Britain, contemplates resigning on account of any lack of sympathy with Mr. Harding's world court proposal or for any other reasons, the President has not been let into the secret.

GEORGE HARVEY. [Copyright: U. & U.]

From authoritative statements made today, however, it does appear to be a valid inference that the ambassador is not in full accord with the President on the latter's recommendation that the United States join the world court under existing circumstances.

Lukewarm on World Court.

It was stated at the White House, where Col. Harvey is the guest of the President, that Mr. Harding and the ambassador have breakfasted, lunched, dined and played golf together daily and have had many extended discussions of government affairs, but that Col. Harvey never has even intimated that he contemplates resigning.

When the question was asked whether the ambassador supports the President's world court move the White House spokesman laconically but significantly replied that Col. Harvey thinks the President is "keeping faith in respect to his campaign pledges."

President Harding, it was stated, continues to receive letters in large volume indorsing American membership in the world court and leading him to believe there is little opposition thereto in the entire country.

Private Views Against Court.

The opponents of the world court proposal, it transpires, are writing their thoughts to Senator Borah [Rep., Idaho]. The senator's office is choked with mail bags which, as fast as opened, swell the deluge of commendation of his stand against the President's recommendation. Here is what a Chicago woman wrote:

"What a surrender by President Harding, elected on a platform denouncing the league and pledged to a new association of nations, to advocate going into a so-called court under it, through the back door. A world court is a pivotal part of the new world order, but surely it must be created by the right kind of an organization of the nations."

Not a Step Toward Peace.

From a Yale professor: "Your position on the world court is eminently sound. The argument that the court is a step toward peace cannot be substantiated."

From a Philadelphia clergyman: "There is no need of a world court or a league of nations for the promotion of peace or the prevention of war. This country alone has the peace of the world in its hands. It controls the money, foodstuffs, munitions for carrying on war."

From the editor of a magazine in St. Louis: "What is the matter with the Republican leaders? They seem to be all mixed up about the league of nations and the international court of justice, and unless they straighten themselves out there is going to be dissatisfaction in the ranks of the party."

Joint letter of three New Yorkers: "No thinking person can believe a structure of peace can be reared on the foundations of the Versailles treaty."

Charges League Incites Wars.

St. Louis, Mo., May 18.—In an address here tonight Senator Borah renewed his assertion that the United States could not join the world court and remain out of the world league. "Both are bound," he said, "by shackles of adamant that cannot be broken. Our proposed attitude is an impossible one. We cannot be opposed to the league because it is dangerous and in favor of the court because it is good, for the court cannot exist without the league.

"And the league of nations has not only failed to check war but it has indirectly caused wars. It was a league member who incited Greece to war and then deserted her in defeat. The army that butchered helpless women and children in Asia Minor was equipped by a member of the league of nations."

JAIL HUSBAND, FRIEND OF GIRL SOUGHT IN SHILOH

Refuse to Answer Questions in Quiz.

St. Joseph, Mich., May 18.—Mrs. Elizabeth Julia Stroupe Rowe, one of the young brides of the group marriages of the House of David colony, now the subject of a grand jury investigation, was sent to jail today for fifteen days by Judge Harry Dingeman, presiding as the one man grand jury. She was jailed because of evasive answers and her failure to confirm her former testimony that Etidorpha Smith Moore, another girl bride sought as a witness, had been at the colony as late as Wednesday of this week.

Her sentence followed that of James Moore, husband of the elusive witness, who received a thirty day jail sentence yesterday for refusing to answer questions about the whereabouts of his wife.

Mrs. Rowe went into the grand jury room after a whispered conference with Leonard Rowe, her husband, a colony supporter, who has been carefully watching proceedings, and Mrs. Cora Mooney.

Francis Thorpe, apparently the acting head of the colony since Benjamin Purnell, "king" of the House of David, vanished two months ago, was before the grand jury before Mrs. Rowe was called. He is expected to be returned later for questioning.

Two newspaper reporters had a report today that Etidorpha Smith may have been in South Bend, Ind., last night. The person referred to wore boys' clothing and was taken away in an automobile.

Benjamin Rubel of Detroit also was before the grand jury for a few minutes today. He was directed to return on May 25.

WAR ON SPEEDERS BRINGS 48 HOURS FREE OF DEATHS

Two Boy Drivers Seized as Women Are Hurt.

Rigid enforcement of motor vehicle laws, with the imposition of heavy penalties on violators, has had a salutary effect, according to Coroner Oscar Wolff's records. The records indicate that in the forty-eight hours which elapsed at 6 o'clock last night not a single death attributable to automobile accidents had occurred.

Two persons were probably fatally hurt, however, and two others sustained less serious injuries in three automobile crashes yesterday. Mrs. Julia Oberweather of 4516 North Carpenter street lay unidentified for several hours in the Montrose avenue hospital after being struck by an automobile at Irving Park boulevard and Marmora avenue.

Two Boy Drivers Held.

George Johnson of 1044 Waveland avenue, 16 year old driver, who is said to have run his automobile onto the curb in order to avoid a collision with another car, is being held pending the outcome of the woman's injuries.

Another 16 year old boy, Gilbert Magruder of 327 Wisconsin avenue, Oak Park, is being held as the result of probable fatal injuries sustained by Mrs. Antonia Wannelle, 51 years old, living at 628 Forquer street, whom he ran down at Jackson boulevard and Des Plaines street.

No Horn, Defective Brakes.

Gus Oleasint, 525 North Sangamon street, was arrested after he had struck and painfully injured the Misses Minnie Swanson, 3362 North Clark street, and Venie Egstrand, 3122 Broadway. Inspection of Oleasint's car disclosed the absence of a horn and indicated defective brakes.

Edward Hilbron, 5958 Eggleston avenue, sustained a fractured skull and internal injuries when struck by an automobile driven by Le Roy Stafford, colored chauffeur for E. R. Cole, 143 Birch street, Winnetka.

Carl Marstadt, 8 years old, of 3219 West 61st street, was probably fatally hurt when struck by an automobile driven by A. L. Strachow, 2209 West 63d street.

As a further deterrent to the careless or reckless motorist, Coroner Wolff announced that a list of all drivers who have been convicted of speeding three times or oftener in the last 6 months would be published on Monday.

PASTOR REACHES 21ST DAY OF FAST "TO SAVE SOULS"

Jamestown, Ky., May 18.—[Special.]—The Rev. J. L. Wooldridge, Kentucky's noted minister "hunger striker," is very weak today. This was his twenty-first day without a morsel of food or a sip of water. He says his only fear is he will collapse and be forced to suspend the revival he is conducting near here.

His hunger strike is "against sin," and he says he will resume eating when sinners are converted. So far there have been no conversions.

This is the sixth voluntary fast Wooldridge has conducted within a year. Five have been because his prayers and sermons have failed to bring converts. The other was undertaken because his daughter Della refused to join the church.

Newspaper men from over the country have begun arriving to study Wooldridge. He says he is not seeking notoriety, "only sinners." His first fast was more than three years ago when he lived in Missouri.

DEBTS TO AMERICA.

Would it not be advisable for the President or secretary of state to take some official notice of the repeated utterances of the French premier and other spokesmen for French policy on the subject of the American loan?

Is it proper for M. Poincare to speak out on this subject? Is it not proper and even highly advisable for Mr. Harding or Mr. Hughes to make comment? If it is true M. Poincare's statements are not directed formally to Washington, but they are official declarations nevertheless, and silence on the part of our government is likely to be interpreted by the public and even by foreign governments as acquiescence.

We assume there is no such acquiescence, but we have no confidence that our ambassadors at Paris or at Berlin are interpreting American policy as it should be. On the contrary, we believe the former, surely, and probably the latter also, are giving an impression of sympathy and complaisance toward French and German hopes in a manner to encourage them with an appearance of almost official authority.

We think our suspicions are supported by these repeated pronouncements, and it seems to us only mischief is to be expected from our continued silence. If M. Poincare's assertions mean anything they mean that France does not intend to pay her debt to us and is warning us that if we expect to get anything at all we must get it from Germany. We have been repeatedly, though indirectly, informed that any concessions on reparations must be set off against the allied debts to us, and we are thus offered the alternative of making the sacrifice in order to relieve pressure on Germany or of accepting responsibility for its continuance. Inasmuch as the economic revival of central Europe is of considerably less moment to us than to the allied peoples, and as we have no moral responsibility for their policy, we are not much moved by this attempt at forcing our hand. But it should be officially noted and our answer should be made.

We can hardly doubt what that answer will be if our policy is self-respecting. The loans made by us were made to allied powers respectively and not to Germany. We are in no degree responsible for the European war or for the relations of France, England, or Italy with her or for the condition of Europe. If we are sane we shall not permit our claims to be complicated, entangled, or shifted as proposed, and it is high time our government disposed of the apparent hopes abroad that we may be induced to allow them to be. We think our government would do well to put an end to misunderstandings and false assumptions by directing an official communication to our debtors asking that negotiations be instituted at once for the adjustment of terms of payment. If there is intention to repudiate we should force its disclosure and adjust ourselves to the facts.

AMERICANIZATION OF THE UNASSIMILATED.

THE TRIBUNE has to thank a number of its readers for comment on its editorial on unassimilated groups of the population and notably on the radicalism among Jews of eastern European immigration. Space is not available for the publication of these letters, which cover the same ground, and we therefore have selected one which seems both representative and authoritative, that of Dr. Fox of the South Shore temple.

We should greatly regret it if an effect of THE TRIBUNE editorial were the encouragement of anti-Semitism in this country, for our intention was the contrary. We do not think there is reason to fear any such effect. If there is danger of the growth of this form of fanaticism, which is so abhorrent to real Americanism, it will come not from discussion of conditions but from a supersensitive avoidance of facts which are being used to inflame prejudice. It seems significant to us that all the critics of the editorial contend, in effect, that radicalism is not prevalent among the Jews of the city colonies and does not mark their mental attitude toward American life and institutions. Statistics of service in the national army and of contribution to the national loans are offered in refutation and we are told that Mr. Hendrick has not accurately presented the situation.

We think this illustrates precisely the mistake we were aiming at in our editorial. In the first place we believe it indicates that our correspondents are underestimating the effect upon public opinion of the strident radicalism of the east side agitator and the great desirability of offsetting that influence not only upon the general public but among the younger Jews within his reach. We cannot accept the theory that radicalism among the large class we referred to is the exceptional and inconsiderable phenomenon our correspondents seem to think it is. We have a good deal of direct knowledge and if it is superficial, it at least squares with a prevalent impression, and the statistics quoted are not likely to correct the influence these conspicuous and persistent, even if superficial, appearances have upon general opinion.

But it seems to us the critics of our editorial overlook or underestimate an important phase of the problem of Americanization and in fact most Americans overlook it. It is not proof of what THE TRIBUNE means by that term, that a man should love the soil of this country or be willing to go to war when the government commands or be gratified for the material and other benefits derived from American life. These are elements, but they are not enough. An extreme revolutionary Socialist might highly appreciate the advantages of American life—many of them do and have no desire to depart for the Socialist Utopia, Russia. But Americanization implies for us a knowledge of American principles and institutions and a loyalty to them based on understanding and intelligent conviction. Unless a man has this reasoned conviction he is not in the full sense Americanized. He is easily impressed by attacks upon our system; he is easily converted to proposals for their modication or abolition. Thus a man who might fight for the flag will allow what the flag stands for to be undermined and subverted.

We are far from asserting that the Jewish colonies offer the only problems of assimilation in this country. We do say that their assimilation is a special concern of the American Jew for reasons which hardly need statement.

But Americanization is our common concern and we are all neglecting it. The public schools are not doing what they might to instruct our youth in the principles of Americanism; yet it is in youth citizenship is formed.

THE STAIN OF HERRIN.

Gov. Small's explanation before the investigating committee of his lack of preventive action in connection with the Herrin massacre may be satisfactory to his apologists. We doubt that it will be satisfactory to relatives or friends of the score of murdered men, to the decent minority in Williamson county, or to the citizens of Illinois who feel that they have been stained by this stain upon the state.

The duty of maintaining peace and order in any community rests first upon the officials of that community. When they break down it rests upon the state, and primarily upon the governor. In the Herrin tragedy the chief local law enforcement officer, the sheriff, was immediately responsible. Elected by the miners, he not only failed to preserve peace and order, but in effect played into the hands of the murderous mob. It became evident very early in the strained situation there that he would not or could not function.

Gov. Small had information to that effect. It then automatically became his duty to see that peace was preserved. He now explains that "Col. Hunter did all he knew how to do to prevent riots," and that "the department is not to blame for what happened." Such explanation is not sufficient to clear the state administration of responsibility.

The facts are plain. The local officers of Williamson county proved their unwillingness or inability to do their duty. The governor was notified. He had the power and was charged with the responsibility of doing what the local authorities were failing to do. Despite that, more than a score of men were brutally murdered. The governor's self approval of his own position cannot get him or his administration out from under the shadow of those facts.

FIX A BRIDGE POLICY.

Ald. Guernsey of the council committee on harbors has called a public hearing for next Wednesday to consider the question of the proposed policy of establishing fixed bridges over the Chicago river. The meeting offers an opportunity which is needed. Let us hope that it will be accepted by leaders in the economic life of the city. The valid arguments in favor of the present system of movable bridges should be offered as convincingly as possible and a policy fixed.

In recent months the general trend of argument has been strongly in favor of fixed bridges. The latest statement in their favor is that of Thomas G. Pihlfeldt, bridge engineer, approved by Alexander Murdoch, city engineer. It asserts that substitution of fixed for movable bridges will save the taxpayers $71,125,000 in the next twenty-five years. A possible saving of more than $20,000,000 for construction is estimated if the twenty-six new bridges needed are fixed instead of movable.

Recent arguments of Maj. Rufus W. Putnam, district engineer of the war department, bring out the point that commerce on the Chicago river has dropped from 10,500,000 tons annually in 1889 to 1,500,000 tons in 1923. With such a slump noted with the river open, there could be no comparable loss with it closed to large vessels. Certainly 1,500,000 tons of shipping annually could be taken care of at docks and harbors outside the river. The Calumet lake harbor improvement has been suggested for one thing. The Municipal pier could handle a vastly greater amount of lake business than it has done.

The question is important to the city of Chicago. It should be settled with reference to all the factors involved, and a policy adopted upon which the city could safely make its plans for continuous growth and stability.

CANNOT LIBEL A CITY.

[Ottawa Journal.]

An interesting and significant case has terminated in the courts of the state of Illinois. The city of Chicago brought action for libel in the Circuit court of Cook county against THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE on the ground of articles published in that newspaper in an election campaign of 1920. Damages were claimed in the sum of $10,000,000. It was the contention of the plaintiff that the city's credit had suffered by the statements published. The defendant demurred, holding that the city, as a government, could not be libeled. The Circuit court sustained the demurrer and the Illinois Supreme court has now confirmed the decision, agreeing that there was no cause for action.

The court holds that if claim for libel could be maintained against a newspaper it could be maintained against every private citizen who ventured to criticize men who are temporarily conducting a government. The decision takes the position that every utterance or publication against the government "must be considered absolutely privileged," except those wherein a person "seeks to persuade others to violate the existing law or to overthrow, by force or other unlawful means, the existing government."

In the case for the plaintiff attempt was made to draw a distinction between a city as a government and a city as a proprietary corporation capable of sustaining property loss by libelous statement. The court refused to recognize such distinction, maintaining that the city retained its governmental character although owning property.

The court makes the further declaration as to the importance of free speech in relation to government:

"We do not pass upon the truth or falsity of the publications, nor the merits of the political controversy between the parties. We consider the question solely from the standpoint of public policy and fundamental principles of government. For the same reason that members of the legislature, judges of the courts, and other persons engaged in certain fields of the public service, or in the administration of justice, are absolutely immune from actions, civil or criminal, for libel for words published in the discharge of such public duties, the individual citizen must be given a like privilege when he is acting in his sovereign capacity."

LETTERS WHEN IN EXILE

A friend I have, and lo, his noble mind
Is opulent of wisdom, and his lips
Pour flowers—
'Tis as if a fleet of ships
Sack'd towns and temples in the land of Ind;

And sailing home across the tropic sea,
His banner hoisted to the masthead high,
They greeted every harbour with a cry,
Hailing him heir of all their argosy;

And from their cargoes now he draws a store
Of precious things—old gems, and perfumed silk,
Parchments, and ivories as white as milk—
Sends it to me, and bids me look for more.

LAUREATUS.

HOW HOMEY AND HYGIENIC OF HIM!

[Health-Hints in Aurora (Ill.) Beacon-News.]

Is it dangerous for my husband to sleep with a cat in the bed? He gets a bath once a week and never runs around outside.

Answer—Then he is safe to sleep with.

CORRESPONDENCE piles up: some abusive, and some discreetly adulatory; some idea'd dazzlingly, and some conveying the implication that at least ninety percent of all the sums devoted annually to formal education is total loss. Needless, maybe, to state, the best letters, as the days run, are those written by vivacious persons who do not like THE LINE; and, while they do not invariably provide communicable "copy," they are stimulating and, so, encouraging: most so, of course, when they are most profane and blasphemous.

TOO, there are cheer and a measure of uplift in the writings of the persistent Lecocqs and Old Cap Colliers who sleuthingly use the mails in their shrewd effort to discover what is neither a secret nor a matter of importance—such personal identity as we happen to possess in fee-simple. Cap, whose fair proposition it is to submit three quips to a letter if we agree to use thirty-three and two-thirds percent of them, détours to ask if Eye-Witness, Tantalus, and James O'Donnell Bennett share the motto E Pluribus Unum. Another blames Mr. Butler, of the Plays; a third, Colonel Butcher, of the Volumes; and so-on.

HERE is the place to keep the faith with Cap; for one-third of his shipment is topical, if not true. He avers that the frat-boys of Northwestern U. have stricken craps from the catalogue of sports there, for the reason that they shiver whenever they hear the rattle of the bones.

IRA, too, is topical with a mailed-in description of a game so simple and so human that any of us may play it without other equipment than the back-page of THE TRIBUNE on days when it carries pictures of Assistant State's Attorneys questing to make indictments, true-bills, etc. First, you cover up or otherwise disregard the printed lines which instruct you as to who's who reading from left to right, or in any other of the several possible directions. Then, says Ira, "you try to pick out the criminals: if you guess right, you win; if you pick a State's Attorney, you lose. My average to-date," he boasts, "is .125."

TRUE, Ira seems to overlook the fairly-obvious fact that invariably such pictures are taken when the subjects are what is known as unaware.

BILDIK avers that he saw in an Iowa City window four cards advertising that number of movies so disposed that,—from left to right, we assume,—they read THE ABYSMAL BRUTE WITHIN THE LAW LOST AND FOUND SOULS FOR SALE. It is possible; but the chances are that something in the way of punctuation, whether syntactic or just movie-style, served to make his quip a counterfeit. Punctuation is language: at least, so THE LINE regards it; and it isn't playing fair to toss it aside for the sake of a lean laugh.

LOCOMOTOR ATAXIA.

A. T. A. writes: What is locomotor ataxia and the cause? Just what are its symptoms, etc.

Reply: Locomotor ataxia is a very mild, chronic, long continuing inflammation of a certain section of the spinal cord. Every nerve which comes from the spinal cord arises by two roots. The cord itself consists of a long, slender mass of nerve tissue which is continuous with the brain. This nerve tissue is composed of gray matter and white matter. In the gray matter are many nerve cells, as well as fibers. In the white matter there are fibers, but no cells. The gray matter is located in the inner part of the cord, being arranged like the letter "H" laid flat. Around this gray matter lies the white matter. The upper arms of the "H" are called the anterior horns; the lower the posterior horns. The tips of these horns, and especially the tips of the posterior horns, reach practically to the surface of the cord. The anterior nerve roots come from the anterior horns. The posterior nerve roots from the posterior horns.

Locomotor ataxia begins in the posterior nerve roots where they come off. It extends into the cord and finally involves the white matter between the posterior arms of the "H" and, to some extent, the posterior arms of the "H" and some of the tissue outside them in some cases.

So far as we know, it is caused solely by syphilis, either acquired or inherited, usually acquired. If other causes can produce it, no one has ever proved them.

Since the disease begins in the posterior nerve roots and since those roots carry sensation, the first symptoms relate to sensation. As a rule the first sensation that attracts attention is pain. The pain of locomotor ataxia comes and goes. It is described as "shooting pains." These pains come as violent attacks. They frequently shoot into the legs, though they may shoot around the body. They are sometimes called rheumatic pains, neuralgic pains, gall stone pains, kidney stone pains, and by most every other name, since, commonly, locomotor ataxia hides under some alias for months and occasionally for years. Instead of causing pain, the attacks may take the form of nausea or stomach attacks or some other disturbance of sensation.

Whenever mysterious attacks come repeatedly and the cause is not definitely determined, suspect the oncoming of locomotor.

The disease progresses very slowly, but eventually the sensation nerves of the affected roots are destroyed, whereupon the pain stage comes to an end. It is followed by the stage of incoördination. The affected individual cannot walk well. He is insecure. He handles his feet and legs poorly. He reels. The reason is that the nerve roots which regulate walking have been blocked. When this period has been reached the disease has existed for years and the harm to the nerve fibers has already been done.

Finally the progressive pathology reaches to higher nerve structures and life processes are interfered with.

WANTS TO GROW TALL.

P. G. writes: "I am a boy 5 feet 7 inches tall, 13½ years old. I should like to be close to six feet or over by the time I am 21.

"Please tell me what I can do to increase my height. I have been this same height for a year now. It makes me think I won't get any taller."

REPLY.

You think about right. You are about through growing in height.

We inherit our height and we cannot change our building plans materially.

SYPHILITIC HEART DISEASE.

H. A. J. writes: "Is luetic myocarditis syphilis?"

REPLY.

It is.

Syphilitic or luetic heart disease is not exceedingly rare.

DIPHTHERIA INJURES EARS.

Mrs. J. P. B. writes: My 3 year old boy had diphtheria during February. He recovered from that, but it left him with discharging ears. They do not pain him any, but there is a slight odor coming from them. I wash them daily with a boric acid solution and keep cotton in them always, but they don't seem to get any better.

Is there any danger of deafness? What else can I do for him?

REPLY.

There is considerable danger that he will become deaf. Suppurating ears frequently follow scarlet fever. It sometimes follows diphtheria. Treatment by exposure to sunlight is sufficient to cure some cases. Daily washing with Dakin's fluid properly carried out cures some cases. Some require operation.

SWING ON TO TOE.

M. I. writes: "The middle toe of my right foot has been what is called a 'hammer toe' since birth.

"Will it grow worse or cause pain when I walk if it is not amputated?

"Can it be cured in any other way than by amputation?

"I am undecided whether to have it amputated or not."

REPLY.

Decide the question of amputation on the basis of inconvenience.

Unless your toe causes you considerable inconvenience, swing on to it, or leave it swinging on to you.

WHAT DOES THE POLICY SAY!

Chicago, May 16.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—A whole life insurance policy was taken out about twenty years ago and the insured has not been seen nor heard of for over nine years. The company told me it would be necessary for the courts to declare him legally dead before the insurance could be collected. Will I have to employ an attorney to handle this matter for me? W. W. D.

Undoubtedly it will be necessary to employ an attorney. We could advise to better advantage if the wording of the policy were before us.

ALIMONY PROVISIONS.

Chicago, May 15.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Is a woman entitled to alimony from her former husband after she remarries, when there are no children? J. S.

The allowance of alimony is largely discretionary with the trial court. The decree would stand unless the facts as to the remarriage were such as to induce the court upon proper application to reduce the alimony.

FAILS TO PROVIDE HOT WATER.

Chicago, May 15.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—We live in a three apartment building, with the landlord living downstairs. We live in the second apartment, and the third is occupied by responsible people. How can we force our landlord to give us hot water? It is so stipulated in our leases. No amount of complaining has taken any effect. We have lived there since last October and have been very patient all winter, but now our patience is exhausted. Kindly advise us. They have a gas heater to heat the water and tell us that it costs too much. But we have never told him that his rent of $90 is too much. P. C.

We advise you to heat with gas and deduct the cost from your rent.

WIFE'S SIGNATURE ON CONTRACT.

Chicago, May 15.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—My wife and I own a piece of property as joint tenants. We place this property in the hands of a real estate broker for sale.

He finds a buyer and makes out a contract calling for a $200 deposit from the buyer.

He shows me the contract and I sign first; he then gets the signature of the buyer and the $200 deposit, which he does not turn over to me.

My wife is not satisfied with the deal and refuses to sign anything.

He tells me that my signature on the contract is enough to have the buyer hold me to fulfill the contract if he wants to. Is he right? O. B.

You would be personally liable for damages for breach of the contract and the buyer would be entitled to specific performance as against your half, with a deduction for failure to convey the other half, unless there were special facts indicating that the contract was not intended to become effective unless your wife signed. There has been a recent decision of the Illinois Supreme court on substantially similar facts.

Bismarck has from the first been opposed in his anti-Catholic policy by prominent Protestant leaders, and it is now reported that the Protestant clergy of the Eastern provinces, a large portion of the old Protestant nobility, and an unexpected proportion of the people of Pomerania and Silesia are ranging themselves against the Chancellor's policy; though to what this revulsion of feeling may be due is not stated.

Among the hundred or more failures which have occurred at Vienna during the panic, there was no bank involved of any importance. The houses that went down are reported to be all small concerns. The cause of the crash seems to have been an inflation of bank stock and railroad securities, and widespread speculation drawing too rapidly on the resources of the new era of prosperity which has come to Austria since Hungary settled into an orderly province.

THE AMERICANISM OF THE GHETTO JEWS.

Chicago, May 14.—As a rule I have found myself in thorough agreement with the content of your splendid editorials. However, I find that I am at odds with you on your leading editorial of yesterday, entitled, "For Our American Heritage." I feel that you put altogether too much stress on Mr. Burton Hendrick's "The Menace of the Polish Jew." Mr. Hendrick is not, under any circumstances, an authority on matters Jewish. As a matter of fact, in his last two articles he was absolutely, though consistently, wrong. This, of course, is no place to go into details, but I want to call your attention to the fact that just as there is a minority of un-Americanized east European Jews, I want to assure you that by far the larger majority are thoroughly American in their sympathies. I want to recall to you the fact that during the last war the east side of New York and the west side of Chicago subscribed more for Liberty bonds and furnished more soldiers proportionately than any other single group in the country. I can say to you, out of my own experience in war work, that among the thousands of immigrant Jews with whom I came in contact, both in the army and out of it, there were only the fewest who expressed themselves in a way which deserved condemnation.

It is true that the un-Americanized Jew today as other un-Americanized foreigners, make a great deal of noise, but that ought not to be mistaken for substance. When you say that "segregated by their own preference in Jewish communities, they are almost immune to American influences," you make a very radical and unprovable statement. Had you said that the aged east European Jew is immune to Americanism, you would be nearer correct, though you would find that these are no exception to the general rule of older immigrants. If you should make a trip through those states which are settled by foreigners, and where the older generation has not gone to its reward, you would find a surprising amount of unassimilativeness among those who come to our shores. The rule of reason ought to apply to the realm of the social world as it does in other instances, and it is not to be expected that men and women who came to America after they had passed middle age, would assimilate as quickly as they who come in their youth. But the mental and physical inability to become assimilated does not argue that they are anti-American in thought and aspiration and in the hopes that they have for their children. And, I believe that you are mistaken when you confuse one with the other.

If you will undertake an investigation of the alleged unassimilated and un-Americanized east European immigrant Jews, you will find, as I have found in my own experience, that the number of those who are anti-American is small, our country has nothing to fear from them, and the Americanized Jews, both foreign and native, have them in hand to such an extent that they can do no harm. I carry no brief for the Polish or the Russian or other European Jews. I feel that it has become somewhat stylish since the rise of anti-Semitism and Fordism to "knock" the east European Jew. Yet I find that among the leading Jewish ministers, editors, professional men, business men, and educators, are immigrants of the newer generation and those very sons and daughters, who, to all intent, should have inherited the alleged bolshevistic and anti-American ideals from their parents. They are not anti-Americans, nor are their elders.

I regret that your editorial, though not so intended, will feed the flames of an already too intense prejudice. Our post war hysteria has a faculty for alchemizing the slightest faults into the destructive vices, and I fear that those who are looking to keep replenished their quiver of poison arrows, will find new supplies in your editorial.

I write you this because, as I said, while your editorials are uniformly excellent, this one is a somewhat irritating exception.

PARADE OF BOYS PARALYZES LOOP; STIRS PROBLEM

New Routes Suggested to Avert Tieup of Hours.

Chicago was given a new traffic problem yesterday—should long parades be allowed to traverse loop streets?

Experts took up the question after observing the paralysis of movement caused in the downtown business area for more than two hours by the hosts of Boy Scouts marching in honor of "Boys' week."

The line of march of the youngsters in khaki—35,000 in all—included a swing west into Randolph street off Michigan boulevard and south in State. The parade took an hour and fifty minutes to pass a given point.

The swing into State street tied up traffic tighter than a drum as far west as Dearborn street, and slowed it down as far west as La Salle street. For nearly three hours the entire motor bus system was at a standstill, not a wheel moving. All street cars on Wabash avenue and State street were "dead" for the same time. West side cars were held back for blocks. Only the elevated was unaffected.

City's Heart "Petrified."

Literally hundreds of automobiles and taxicabs were caught in the jam. Long lines of them were stalled.

Congestion in the heart of the city became petrified. Pedestrians in many instances had to walk around the line of march. Many a train was missed; many an appointment broken.

Last night traffic experts raised the question whether an improved parade routing could not be devised for future demonstrations. Right in Chicago's front yard, they pointed out, is Grant park, with a vast show field for the pageants, and fronting on Michigan boulevard, one of the greatest parade streets of the world. At the edge of the congested traffic area it affords ample space for the gathering of great masses of spectators.

Suggest Half of Boul Mich.

John A. Ritchie, president of the Chicago Motorbus company, among others, raised the question whether parades of such magnitude should be routed only up Michigan avenue. Some suggested half of this thoroughfare might be given over to a parade, leaving the other half free for automobiles. The police, business men, and transportation managers said some way of keeping all traffic arteries from being choked should be devised. Scout leaders in large measure concurred.

"This parade," said Mr. Ritchie, "is one of the grand assets of Chicago. The scouts are our future men. Regardless of any inconveniences to the public, no impediment must be placed in the way of the organization's development.

How All Can See Parades.

"But it seems to me more people could see the parade if it were confined to one side of Michigan avenue, or to Grant park. As conditions were today, thousands could not fight their way near enough to see the boys.

"Why not let parades march straight up the boulevard from Roosevelt road to Lincoln park? The crowds could then mass in Grant park and along the line of march. Everybody would be able to get a look at the marchers. As a spectacle such a parade would be enhanced and there would be no impeding of traffic."

"I don't think police officials realized how long our parade was going to be," said George B. Stephenson, chief scoutmaster. "It is certainly not the spirit of the Boy Scout organization to impede traffic."

And Those Taxi Meters!

Maj. F. L. Beals, grand marshal, said he fully realized the marchers tied up the loop for several hours.

"I particularly noted a great number of stranded taxicabs containing passengers," he said. "I shuddered to think of the way those fare meters were clicking."

Chief Collins admitted such parades threw traffic into a "horrible snarl," but declared he had not yet worked out a solution.

"Of course," he said, "there are two things which should not be restricted: free speech and free parades. But we must find some way of handling the marching of thousands through business streets."

Boys' Week Is Launched.

The parade ushered in Boys' week and included delegations from every boys' organization, club, and school.

Today is the boy's day in athletics. Indoor and outdoor meets will be staged in practically every playground and school gymnasium in the city. The week's activities are under the auspices of the Rotary club.

VANISHED

MELBOURNE, Australia, May 18.—[By the Associated Press.]—A wireless message, apparently from a vessel, has been picked up here stating that Easter Island has disappeared.

Reports that Easter island had disappeared have been prevalent since the disastrous earthquake which shook northern Chile last November. The last definite report was made by the captain of a French merchant ship who declared he found nothing but water at the position given to the island on his chart.

Easter island, used by the Chilean government as a penal colony, is the easternmost inhabited of the Polynesian group and is remarkable for its gigantic statues and sculptured rocks, apparently the work of a prehistoric people. The population is about 1,200.

REDS SEIZE RUHR MINES; GERMANS ACCUSE FRENCH

Krupp Prison Sentence Is Affirmed.

BULLETIN.

PARIS, May 18.—The French cabinet decided tonight to reinforce the army of occupation in the Ruhr with 20,000 troops. These will be drawn from the south of France.

BULLETIN.

ESSEN, May 18.—(By the Associated Press.)—A communist was killed, ten communists were wounded, and nine policemen were hurt today in the latest clash between groups of communists seeking to force strikes in the mines and the police who are resisting their efforts to take control. The fight occurred at the Ministerium mine, near here.

DUSSELDORF, May 18.—[By The Associated Press.]—Communist bands which have been terrorizing certain districts of the Ruhr recently have taken possession of the Kaiserstuhl mines near Dortmund. Word received here today say the communists, armed with wooden pick handles, are standing guard at the entrance to the mines, preventing the miners from going to work.

The communists' agitation began some days ago when, according to German sources they endeavored to organize a strike for higher wages at the Dorstfeld and Scharnhorst mines, but failed. The communists then assembled reinforcements and seized the Kaiserstuhl mines.

Germans Blame French.

The German newspapers blame the French for the troubles, saying their motive is to create disturbances so as to divide the workmen, most of whom have thus far been loyal to the German government. This the French deny.

The heavy prison sentences imposed by the recent court martial upon Dr. Krupp von Bohlen and the other Krupp directors tried for instigating opposition to the French at the Krupp plant at the time of the shooting on March 31 were confirmed today by the court of revision.

Germany Faces Wine Shortage.

BERLIN, May 18.—[By the Associated Press.]—An acute wine shortage is threatening unoccupied Germany because the wine growers in the occupied area, as well as the outside retailers ,refuse to pay the 10 per cent export tax demanded by the occupation forces.

'BLUE BOOK' DOPE PEDDLER DRAWS STIFF CELL TERM

Fred Grimaldi, charged by narcotic agents with an attempt to build up a "society clientele" of opium smokers, yesterday was sentenced by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson to one year and eight months in the Leavenworth penitentiary.

Grimaldi was arrested a month ago in his apartment at 4248 Lake Park avenue, which had been lavishly arranged as an opium den. The raid was made after residents of the building reported limousines arriving at all hours of the night and sleep producing odors in the corridors.

U. S. INCOME TAX SUIT AGAINST MOIR DROPPED

Government income tax charges against Harry C. Moir, principal owner of the Morrison hotel, were dismissed yesterday in Federal Judge Adam C. Cliffe's court on motion of Assistant District Attorney Robert A. Milroy.

Action was taken on the orders of Attorney General Harry Daugherty, with approval of Commissioner of Internal Revenue David A. Blair, following payment of $32,416 by Moir. This represented the amount of taxes which were alleged to have been evaded in 1918 and 1919 and a $15,000 penalty.

Original difficulties out of which Moir's indictment grew were based on his failure to pay taxes on $35,000 annual salary as president of the hotel company, which he had not withdrawn from the funds of the organization. The government held that so long as the sum was available Moir was liable during the years in which the salary was earned.

GIRL CLINGS TO SWAIN ARRESTED AS AUTO THIEF

"I don't care if George is an automobile thief. I love him and I am going to be married to him," said Miss Myrtle O'Beirne, 18 years old, of Wadena, Minn., who gave up a job as a telephone operator in Minneapolis to come to Chicago in two stolen cars with George Webster and George Nelson. Webster is her sweetheart. All three were arrested yesterday at 18th and State streets. The men were found to have more than 500 automobile keys in their pockets and are believed to have been members of a band recently broken up in St. Paul and Minneapolis. They admitted they obtained one of the cars in Minneapolis and the other in Madison, Wis.

ROBBED BY 2 MEN OF $385.

Stanley Zendlo, 1723 West 20th street, was "strong-armed" by two men yesterday and robbed of $385 which he had just drawn from the Kaspar State bank, 1900 Blue Island avenue.

HINES PROMISES JARECKI TO CARE FOR INSANE VETS

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—Judge Jarecki of the County court, Chicago, and Anthony Czarnecki, secretary of the board of election commissioners, left for home tonight with official promises that the government will provide soon for the care of ex-service men who have become insane as a result of war service.

Director Hines of the veterans' bureau, at a conference with Gen. Sawyer, decided to recommend to the hospitalization board that one or more government hospitals be set aside for the exclusive treatment of psychopathic cases.

Quick action on the appeal of Judge Jarecki was due largely to the interest taken in the matter by President Harding. The judge told the President that nearly 1,000 insane ex-service men in Illinois alone have been committed to overcrowded state asylums in which they cannot receive adequate care.

170,000 ARMED IN GERMANY TO RESTORE CZAR

Russian Royalist Plot Led by Ludendorff.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, May 18.—[Tribune Radio.]—The extreme section of the Russian monarchists, with the help of the Prussian junkers under Field Marshal von Ludendorff, are planning an early invasion of Russia with the object of overthrowing the soviet government and restoring a monarchy in Russia. Eventually, with the help of restored Russia, they hope to replace the Hohenzollerns on the throne in Germany.

The plans of this plot were revealed to me today by a Russian of high standing, who is not connected with either the extreme parties or Russian politics. They have been communicated to certain politicians of the entente, but so far no action has been taken.

Incidentally this reveals the purpose of the German secret army of which the French are so afraid.

175,000 Men in Army.

This army, known as the "heimatinst," consists of 175,000 men, all of whom are former officers of the German army, highly trained and completely faithful to the old régime. Each man has a rifle and 300 rounds of ammunition, and the organization has a few light field guns. It is divided into units of 10,000, each under command of a general. The units are subdivided into battalions of 1,000 each.

Every man is capable of commanding, so it is an army capable of quick, indefinite expansion.

The plan is for this army to raid Russia, capturing strategic points near the frontier, the first objectives being Kronstadt and Petrograd. It is expected that the Red army will melt before them, surrendering arms, artillery and equipment, and that the Russian peasants will flock to the standard of the new czarist forces.

18,000 Enter Finland.

It is said that already 18,000 of these men have entered Finland in civilian clothes, while thousand more are infiltrating through Poland, who, in the hope of securing more Russian territory in the mixup that would follow the invasion, is turning a blind eye.

In Finland the reactionary anti-Russian government would be glad to see the soviets overthrown and hopes also to secure territory. The same considerations apply to other Balkan states.

The plotters are said to have secured eighteen transports of moderate size, which are loaded with arms and equipment, ready to make a surprise landing near Kronstadt and seize the town and fortress, using it as a base for operations against Petrograd.

Financed by Germans.

The Russian monarchist organization abroad has been financed by the German junker organization, receiving £500 [about $2,300] weekly for current expenses. Also large funds are said to be available when the time comes to strike.

The outline of this plot is said to be known to the soviets, which makes them very anxious to settle their quarrel with Great Britain, securing a free hand to meet the royalist peril. It is also said to be known to the foreign office here, and may have had some effect in the sudden decision to apply pressure for an immediate settlement of all outstanding claims.

It is certainly known in France, where politicians are said to be divided between opposition to anything which might strengthen Germany and a desire to see Germany's attention turned to the east rather than the south and west.

See British-Russian Settlement.

No further meetings between Lord Curzon and Leonid Krassin, Russian representative, have yet been arranged and are not likely for some days as Lord Curzon left London today for the Whitsuntide holidays. M. Krassin communicated the attitude of the British government to Moscow by a long cipher cable and does not expect a reply before Monday at the earliest. The whole atmosphere now seems favorable to a settlement.

Holds Switzerland Responsible.

MOSCOW, May 18.—(By the Associated Press).—A Russian soviet note sent by Foreign Minister Tchitcherin to the Swiss government today holds that government responsible for the recent assassination at Lausanne of M. Vorovsky, soviet representative there, through the alleged negligence of the Swiss officials to guard him.

The British mission in Moscow while still without direct orders to leave, began packing up this afternoon in readiness to depart for Riga.

DEVER AND AIDS AGAIN TACKLE TRACTION ENIGMA

Mayor Dever, advocate of municipal ownership during his campaign, called former Ald. Charles E. Merriam, Attorney Stephen A. Foster, and Ald. U. S. Schwartz into a three hour conference on traction matters yesterday.

At the close of the conference the mayor said that nothing definite had been decided and reiterated for the third time this week that he is not ready to accept the traction plan devised by Ald. Schwartz. The latter hurried away from the conference, refusing to discuss his efforts to get the mayor's approval of his plan.

Mayor Dever, one of his advisers said, is strong for the municipal ownership, but fears that either an increase in fares or an increase in taxes will be necessary to meet expenses and interest charges if the price, fixed under the 1907 ordinance, is paid for the Chicago Surface lines.

Who Owns This Airplane? Owners Gave It to Farmer

Ogden, Utah, May 18.—Police are trying to find the owners of an airplane which was wrecked on a farm near here last Tuesday. Reports said the plane came down in a wheat field and two young men who were in the wrecked machine gave it to Alex Groesbeck, a farm hand.

BOOKS

Best Sellers of the Ages

By James O'Donnell Bennett

Seventy-fourth Paper—Michael, Lord of Montaigne; or, The Reconciler.

THE MOST CELEBRATED TRIBUTE TO MONTAIGNE AND HIS BOOK.

There have been men with deeper insight; but, one would say, never a man with such abundance of thoughts: he is never dull, never insincere, and has the genius to make the reader care for all that he cares for.

The sincerity and marrow of the man reaches to his sentences. I know not anywhere the book that seems less written. It is the language of conversation transferred to a book. Cut these words, and they would bleed; they are vascular and alive.

This book of Montaigne the world has indorsed by translating it into all tongues and printing seventy-five editions of it in Europe; and that, too, a circulation somewhat chosen—namely: among courtiers, soldiers, princes, men of the world, and men of wit and generosity. RALPH WALDO EMERSON.
("Representative Men"; 1846.)

"I LIKE your book, monseigneur," said Henry the Third of France to Michael Eyquem, lord of Montaigne.

"Then, sire," replied the Gascon gentleman—for like d'Artagnan he was a Gascon and garrulous—"then you must needs like me, for my book is myself."

The monarch who reigned in France during fifteen of the one and twenty years in which Montaigne was composing and elaborating his "Essays" and sending them through three or four editions, was a murderous wretch, but as a critic he was competent. Half Medici, the grandson of Lorenzo the Magnificent knew a work of art when he saw it, and for nearly three centuries and a half the world of all the languages of civilized men has steadfastly been confirming the royal verdict on Montaigne's book.

"Like" is the word. The world thoroughly likes this big, wise, hearty, human, rambling, intimate, honest, savory book—likes it as it likes an old shoe or an old friend. The old shoe is comfortable; the old friend is casual: Montaigne is both. Like the old friend, he has perpetual license to utter whatever is on his mind at the moment—whatever, as the saying is, pops into his head. Never abusing the privilege—sure token of the judicious friend—he still seems ever to be using it. After ten generations of mankind—I believe the chronologists count a generation as thirty-three years—have thumbed him over, and tossed him aside, and taken him up again, and treasured and copied and stolen his sententious utterances—now here in this 1923, 343 years after the first edition of the book which anxious, treacherous, menaced Henry of Valois found solace in—here is an eleventh generation wishing that Michael of Montaigne had taken even more advantage of an old friend's privilege: Privilege to confide, to counsel, to fret, to wonder, to put this and that together, to be sorry for himself, to be sorry for us, to wag his head, to chat on and on at his leisure, and with the last of nearly half a million words—for I cipher it out that he comes to so many—to say—"Well, now I must be going!" And go he does with pleasant words on his kind lips—words which I take from the last of the seven and eighty essays he wrote, the essay called "Experience." He is drawing near to 60 now and says that he feels his years. But he does not complain. Life is still interesting, and he very interesting to himself. He is standing at the door of farewell. For 2,400 comfortable little pages—16 mo. pages I would say—he and we have been friends.

"It is an absolute perfection," he is saying—

. . . it is an absolute perfection, and, as it were divine, for a man to know how to enjoy his being loyally. We seek for other conditions because we understand not the use of ours: and go out of ourselves, forasmuch as we know not what sibling there is . . . Yet must we not go with our own legs. And sit we upon the highest throne of the world, yet sit we upon our own tail. The best and most commendable lives, and best pleasing me are (in my conceit) those which with order are fitted, and with decorum are ranged to the common moid and human model: without wonder or extravagancy. Now hath old age need to be handled none tenderly. Let us recommend it unto that god who is the protector of health and fountain of all wisdom, but blithe and social.

He is going down the hall, some words of his dear Horace on his lips—the words of the prayer to the god that is "blithe and social"—

Apollo grant, enjoy health I may
That I have got, and with sound mind, I pray:
Nor that I may with shame spend my old years,
Nor wanting music to delight mine ears.

So end the essays. Enjoy existence loyally; understanding the uses and possibilities of thine own condition, joy will come. Sit solid; monarchs can do no more, and few of them as much. Order and decorum are the harmonies of an understanding life, and there is no attaining them without study of self. Montaigne was always saying that. Much did he love Cicero, and could read him before he could read French, but—

I had rather understand myself well in myself than in Cicero. Out of the experience I have of myself I find sufficient ground to make myself wise, were I but a good, prodicient scholar. Whoever shall commit to memory the excess or inconvenience of his rage or anger past, and how far that fit transported him, may see the deformity of that passion better than in Aristotle, and conceive a more just hatred against it. . . . Cæsar's life hath no more examples for us than our own. . . . He that shall call to mind how often and how several times he hath been deceived, and misaccompted his own judgment, is he not a simple gull if he do not forever afterward distrust the same?

To live to the purpose—such was the basis of his philosophy:

What egregious fools are we! He hath passed his life in idleness, say we: "Alas, I have done nothing this day." What? have you not lived? It is not only the fundamental but the noblest of your occupation. "Had I been placed or thought fit for the managing of great affairs, I would have showed what I could have performed." Have you known how to meditate and manage your life? you have accomplished the greatest work of all. . . . Have you known how to compose your manners? you have done more than he who hath composed books. Have you known how to take rest? you have done more than he who hath taken Empires and Offices. The glorious masterpiece of man is to live to the purpose. All other things, as to reign, to govern, to hoard up treasure, to thrive and to build, are for the most part but appendixes and supports thereunto. . . .

Again, in the essay, "On Repenting" (Book III., chapter II.)—and here you shall have Montaigne in the aspect of the English into which John Florio translated him, the English in which Shakespeare read him:

To gaine a Battaile, performe an Ambassage, and governe a people, are noble and woorthy actions: to chide, laugh, sell, pay, love, hate, and mildely and justly to converse both with his owne and with himselfe; not to relent, and not gaine-say himself, are things more rare, more difficult and lesse remarkable.

Everything about and everything in this book is universal because it is intensely intimate and particular. It is you and I. Emerson said that emphatically. He said that Montaigne and Confucius and Moses and Leibnitz are not so much individuals as "parts of man and parts of me," and in a letter to his Aunt Mary he spoke of Montaigne's book as "wild and savory as sweet fern." Not outdated, he meant, nor having merely the charm of quaintness, but of all time and all men because it is so honestly and so explicitly of one time and of one man who saw life whole, and saw it true. Lowell said he could "recall no writer more truly modern than Montaigne." In Lowell's collected works there are nearly thirty references to and comments on Montaigne; in Emerson many more. It was Emerson who in Paris, ninety years ago, came upon, in the cemetery of Père Lachaise, the tomb of Auguste Collignon, which informed the passer-by that the occupant of it "had lived to do right, and had formed himself to virtue on the Essays of Montaigne." Of virtue Montaigne, ardent Latinist though he was, said that he would have men taught to love virtue instead of learning to decline virtus." In truth, all his views on education, on prohibition of torture, on all the matters that make men humane and rational, were far in advance of his time, a time that, what with Catholics and Huguenots clawing at one another and kings and princes paying bravos and zealots to assassinate kings and princes, was a bitter and turbulent and insensate time. It inflicted its vicious temper even upon little children, and Montaigne exclaimed—

What a way to awaken an appetite for their lessons, in these young and tender souls, to lead them to study with a terrible countenance and hands armed with whips.

He said he would have the schoolrooms strewn with flowers and leaves rather than with "the bloody twigs of willows."

That is from the 100-page essay on the education of children (Book I., Chap. XXV.) which Montaigne wrote at the request of the Lady Diana of Foix. After three and a half centuries it continues to deserve the attention of pedagogists not because all of it is now either true or workable but because the spirit of it is the spirit which leads young people to take learning unto themselves not as a taskmaster but as a lover.

The "Essays" extend from a couple of pages to more than a hundred. They are divided into three books. They became longer as the author progressed with his work. Book I. contains fifty-seven pieces; Book II., seventeen; Book III., thirteen. They touch upon almost every aspect of life as life is lived and as life ought to be lived. The first is a ten-pager entitled "By Diverse Means Men Come to the Same End"; the second is "Of Sadness and Sorrow," and then, for hundreds upon hundreds of pithy pages, papers short and long on the affections, on truth and falsity, on idleness, on liars, on ready speech, on constancy, on cowardice, on fear, on imagination, on custom, on friendship (it is among the very best), on moderation, on clothes, on solitude, on Cato the Younger, on Cicero, on drunkenness, on conscience, on books—Montaigne possessed a thousand; possessed them not as property alone but as daily provender which nourished and exercised every fiber and sinew of his mind—on cruelty, on glory, on presumption, on honesty, on repentance, on vanity, on cripples, and on experience, which is the longest (146 pages) and the last.

To refresh recollection take here a handful of the good things he said, or resaid more tellingly than anybody else had ever said them,—and here I am using the translation of him by Charles Cotton, old Izaak Walten's friend and follower, instead of Florio's, because Cotton's, though less savory, is terser:

Nothing is so firmly believed as what we least know.

We should inquire who is wise to most purpose, not who is most wise.

The laws of conscience, which we pretend to be derived from nature, proceed from custom.

Man is certainly stark mad: he cannot make a worm, and yet he will be making gods by the dozen.

I say as Epicurus said, that a man should not so much respect [consider] what he eateth as with whom he eateth.

It is not without good reason said, that he who has not a good memory should never take upon him the trade of lying.

It seems to me that the nursing mother of most false opinions, both public and private, is the too high opinion which man has of himself.

Obstinacy and heat of opinion are the surest proof of stupidity. Is there anything so assured, resolved, disdainful, contemplative, solemn, and serious as the ass?

I have said that not alone everything in but also everything about this book is intimate and particular. We know where and when and how Montaigne wrote it. We know the third floor tower room of the chateau of Montaigne—a few miles east of Bordeaux—to the last detail of the arrangement of the bookshelves and the inscriptions on the cornices. We know that the good Gascon liked to sit or lie as Lincoln liked to—"I have ever loved to repose myself, whether sitting or lying, with my heels as high, or higher, than my head": Essay on Experience—and we know that he loved cats and would not sit down to write without his favorite by his side. With the endearing picture of him—playing with the cat between whiles of composition and cogitating the enigma of what the favorite's cogitations were the while—I leave you alone with Montaigne and his book—the friendly, sapient, searching, kind Montaigne who reconciles us to life as it is because, says he, it is so interesting and so much can be made of it:

When my Cat and I entertain each other with mutual apish tricks, as playing with a garter, who knows but that I make my Cat more sport than she makes me? Shall I conclude her to be simple, that has her time to begin or refuse to play as freely as I myself have? Nay, who knows but that it is a defect of my not understanding her language (for doubtless Cats talk and reason with one another) that we agree no better; and who knows but that she pities me for being no wiser than to play with her, and laughs and censures my folly for making sport for her when we two play together?

HARDING THANKS 'SENATE FOE' FOR ARTICLE ON 'DAD'

Pat Harrison Wrote About President's Father.

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—When a strong partisan Democrat, whom President Harding refers to as "chief party troublemaker in the senate," is thanked by the President for kindly public references to Mr. and Mrs. Harding and the President's father, the incident becomes one worth recording in political annals.

The "chief party troublemaker of the senate" is Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.]. The thanks of the President are expressed in a letter to Mr. Harrison which shows that with him and the senator political partisanship does not affect friendly personal relations.

Senator Harrison's complimentary references to the President and his wife and father were contained in a copyrighted newspaper article, syndicated by the Twenty-first Century Press, published on May 5.

End of Civil War Feeling.

The article had for its theme the ending of bitterness between the north and the south, and contended that no section of the country had a monopoly on patriotism. In giving specifications, it told of the visit of Dr. George Harding, the President's father, a Union soldier, to the confederate reunion in New Orleans and the excellent impression he made.

The President's letter follows:

"The White House, Washington, D. C., May 12.—My Dear Senator Harrison: I have just been reading the article which you contributed to the New Orleans Item of May 5, in which you make very pleasing reference to the participation of my father in the confederate reunion in New Orleans. I am writing to thank you for the kindly things you have said concerning him and his visit and the courteous reference you have made to the present occupants of the White House.

Remarks Carry a Sting.

"In your capacity of chief party troublemaker in the senate you have said some thing which have made me lay down my newspaper and turn to a fresh pipe of tobacco for consolation. This very generous and considerate article has antidoted all the things that have gone before. You will be interested to know that father was very greatly pleased by the article and that he had the time of his life in meeting the confederate veterans of New Orleans.

"The visit of my father was a very simple thing to do, but if it has contributed in any way to the concord of union and the completeness of reunion I am glad that he made the trip.

"Very truly yours,
"WARREN G. HARDING."

Likes His Old Dudeen.

The President's reference to "a fresh pipe of tobacco for consolation" after reading attacks on the Republican party by Senator Harrison calls attention to the fact that the President has become a confirmed pipe smoker. He smokes cigars and cigarets also, but comparatively recently his pipe has furnished his chief after dinner smoke.

The kindly references to the President, Mrs. Harding, and Dr. Harding in Senator Harrison's article, which THE TRIBUNE is permitted to publish through the courtesy of the Twenty-first Century Press, are, in part, as follows:

"Incidents that may have seemed of little significance for the moment have proved powerful factors in cementing the bonds between the north and the south.

"Such an incident occurred during the confederate reunion in New Orleans a few days ago. I refer to the visit of Dr. George Harding and the sentiments he expressed at the confederate reunion.

Human Sire of Human Son.

"The human, big hearted, broad minded father of a distinguished and thoroughly human son, by his attendance upon the reunion of the survivors of the 'Lost Cause,' and the whole hearted, unrestrained manner in which he entered into the spirit of the occasion left, I dare say, a splendid taste in the mouths of every visitor to New Orleans during the reunion and made a most pleasing impression on the country as a whole.

"His hosts and fellow workers could not, of course, embrace his politics, but they could and did take him, the rugged American and honored sire of a worthy son, into their hearts for all time.

"I venture the thought that if the dear old doctor tarried in these parts long enough his politics would become diluted—for the better, of cours. . . .

"While the people of the south in the aggregate are not in accord with the political views of the present occupant of the White House, they do like him for his charming personality and his amiable qualities. They like his human side. And they like Mrs. Harding."

HUSBAND ELOPES WITH SECRETARY; HIS ARREST ASKED

Alleging that her husband, Edward F. Hoffman, vice president of the Industrial Investigation corporation, 431 South Dearborn street, had eloped to San Francisco with his stenographer, Miss Lillian Wolf, 3327 West Congress street, Mrs. Ida Faron Hoffman, 2901 North Harding avenue, yesterday asked detective bureau to attempt to prevent their marriage.

EDWARD F. HOFFMAN.

According to Gordon Berg, attorney for Mrs. Hoffman, it has been learned that Hoffman has been married several times without having ever been divorced. A warrant for his arrest on charges of bigamy was sworn out several days ago.

BENCH WARRANTS TO MEET BROKERS ON JAIL RELEASE

New York, May 18.—[Special.]—Bench warrants were obtained against E. M. Fuller and W. Frank McGee of the brokerage house of E. M. Fuller & Co., which failed last June for $6,000,000, this afternoon by District Attorney Banton.

They are to be served upon the pair when they leave Ludlow street jail, to which they were committed as in contempt of court to remain until they obeyed Judge Mack's order of April 24 to surrender their books to George C. Sprague, trustee in the bankruptcy proceedings.

Another developemnt of the day in the case was the receipt by Judge Hand of word from William J. Fallon, counsel for the bucketeers, that he did not wish to testify in the habeas corpus proceedings in behalf of his clients, whereupon the scheduled resumption of the hearing was canceled and Judge Hand instructed that briefs might be filed today.

SAMPLE MEN TO MEET HERE.

Chicago will be the meeting place next year of the convention of the National Sample Men's association, it was decided yesterday.

NEW POISON PEN NOTE APPEARS; "CRANK" BLAMED

New York, May 18.—[Special.]—Allan A. Ryan, who recently caused the indictment of George Maxwell, president of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, on the charge of writing and mailing scandalous letters about Mrs. Ryan, received another "poison pen" letter today. The financier turned over the missive to Assistant District Attorney Kilroe. The authorities indicated their belief the letter was the work of a crank and was not sent by the same person or by any accomplice of the person who for ten years has sent "poison pen" letters about nine prominent women, including Mrs. Ryan.

Acting District Attorney Pecora said he knew nothing of a report circulated today to the effect that friends of Maxwell had discovered evidence pointing to a woman as the author of the letters, and that this woman's arrest was imminent.

Mr. Pecora said he had no information about the discovery of a typewriter with the same peculiarities as shown in the letters.

According to one report Maxwell's friends had located such a typewriter in the boudoir of a woman who was suspected several years ago of writing "poison pen" letters.

Now, a Quick Quaker Oats

Cooks in 3 to 5 minutes

The quickest cooking oats in the world

Now your grocer has Quaker Oats in two styles. One the kind you have always known—the other is Quick Quaker.

Quick Quaker cooks in from 3 to 5 minutes. And it cooks to perfection. So it is almost like a ready-cooked dish.

No other oat flakes on the market cook anywhere near so quickly.

The two styles are identical in quality and flavor. Both are flaked from the finest grains only—just the rich, plump, flavory oats. A bushel of choice oats yields but ten pounds of these delicious flakes.

But in Quick Quaker the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And those small, thin flakes cook quickly.

Ask for Quick Quaker if you want this style. Your grocer has both. But always get Quaker Oats for their delightful flavor.

By KATHARINE FULLERTON GEROULD

Conquistador

This story is a little masterpiece; a drama quick with the human passions; a gorgeously colored presentation of the life of a great Mexican ranch and its romantic figures; a profound study of fundamental racial traits at war within one man. No one can escape its fascination from the opening page.

"Mrs. Gerould has put into it profound human sensations. She has flung about it the bright and colorful garment of her style, given glimpses of a background that is rich as a bit of old tapestry. . . . There is an effect of sheer romance in this that is singularly captivating."—Hildegarde Hawthorne in the N. Y. Herald.

BOOKS

"Restoration" by Ethel Sidgwick Puzzles Critic

By Fanny Butcher.

Ethel Sidgwick was for some years one of the hopes of the English literary world. When she wrote "Duke Jones" and "Hatchways" she was enormously praised. Her debt to Henry James and his interest in her work never were left unmentioned. And now her latest novel, "Restoration," has come, and if it more than ripples the surface of our usually choppy critical it will be because her admirers will not lose their passion for her. She seems to me—and I was one of her admirers—to have gone wholly to words, like a dandelion to seed. When the words are puffed away by a sturdy breath of wondering what the book's all about nothing is left of the flower of the art of novel writing.

It was something of the same thing in "Madam" a year or so ago. She lost herself so in the swish-swash of ideas underlying ideas that it was a task and a trouble to translate her words into actualities. But there did seem to be actualities there, after the translating was done. In "Restoration" the muddle is too much for me. I honestly don't know for at least three-fourths of the book what is happening, either in the minds of the characters or outside their minds. I have read some pages over five times and still been hazy about things. I wanted to be fair—generous, in fact, to a person whose work has always been fine—so I plowed literally through "Restoration."

I turned over sentence after sentence. Mayhap in some future quietude the plowed soil will blossom for me with beauty. Now the book seems only a task—and a much harder one for the reader than for the author. She, it seems, just put in whatever happened to be about in the way of words or ideas. What she tries to do—and it is a perfectly legitimate thing to try—is to chronicle not the obvious thought preceding the action, or the action itself, but the contributory thought, the subtle reason. But since, as Arnold Bennett says, to comprehend novels (he said to comprehend "Ulysses") is not one of the recognized learned professions, it is hardly fair to the author to write so that comprehending is a mental test. May Sinclair writes of the contributing causes, of the unobvious, but she makes them the real life of her characters, and whether you believe them to be the real life or not you never can misunderstand them. Miss Sidgwick leaves you in a daze—not under a spell, as really beautiful writing always leaves a sensitive reader—but intellectually annoyed at the idea that you must be stupid not to understand at the first reading, and angry that you should have to dig for her story like a diamond miner, an impatience at a method which seems to be one of intentional obscurity.

Semi-Amusing Sketches.

"Teodora the Sage" is the title of a volume of sketches and short tales translated from the literary remains of Luigi Lucatelli. Some of them are very amusing, and others sound forced. They are extremely European in flavor, dealing much with jauntily unfaithful wives and ladies whose calling is not wholly domestic. They are something like "The Pilgrim of a Smile" in manner, although they aren't one-tenth as well written as those really charming things of Norman Davey's.

Marriage.

"Marriage" is the title of a group of twenty-two short stories selected by Mary Stewart Cutting Jr. from the work of such experts as Joseph Hergesheimer, Booth Tarkington, Charles G. Norris, Zona Gale, Rupert Hughes, Theodore Dreiser, Henry Kitchell Webster, Joseph Lincoln, and others. Most of the stories are by men and concern their illusion of the married state or lack of it. The most cynical tale of all is by Henry Sydnor Harrison the only bachelor in the group.

Harry—but No Tom and Dick.

Harry L. Foster has written a very amusing record of his travels in the less obvious parts of Malaya, Siam, French, Indo-China, the Philippines, Japan, and China in "A Beachcomber in the Orient," a book that's really fun. But it isn't so amusing as this recital of the events of his life. Born Oct. 31, 1894, in Brooklyn, N. Y. Lived model life until graduation from Lafayette college in 1916. Then became newspaper reporter. Served in France as infantry lieutenant. Won no medals. Receiving army discharge, set out to live down model youth. Bought silver mine in Arizona, which contained no silver. Traded it for second hand automobile that wouldn't run. Started for Mexico as free lance newspaper correspondent, writing unkind things about Carranza. Carranza objected. Had to catch first boat for Cuba. Drifted through Central America writing for magazines. Stories rejected. Reached Panama broke, and found job selling shoes. Sailed for Peru in steerage. Worked in Andean mining camp. Traveled into Bolivia and Chile for a Lima newspaper. Became attaché at American embassy. Crossed continent via Amazon with two missionaries. Played piano in Brazilian gambling dive. Finally sold first magazine stories and came home in style. Wrote "The Adventures of a Tropical Tramp." Went to orient expecting to live like a king on a few hundred dollars. Traveling companion ran away with the few hundred dollars. Chased him on foot through jungles in Indo-China to Siam and by freight car through British Malaya to Singapore, without catching him. Played piano in water front grog shop, which was less respectable but more profitable than writing. Having replenished funds, continued to chase absconding traveling companion through Borneo, Philippines, Japan, and China, and caught him in Hongkong. Came home to write "A Beachcomber in the Orient."

The Best Books of the Century.

The International Book Review in the May number has a symposium to which contributed Hilaire Belloc, Henry Seidel Canby, William Lyon Phelps, Gertrude Atherton, Carl Van Vechten, John Erskine, Christopher Morley, Van Wyck Brooks, Maurice Francis Egan and Richard Le Gallienne. They each listed the ten books which came as near as they could see to being what they considered possible candidates for a future. The strange result of the questioning is the diverging opinions of these writers, most of whom are critics by profession. Only thirteen books appeared on more than one list. They are:

Title.	Author.	Votes.
The Dynasts	Thomas Hardy	4
Jean Christope	Romain Rolland	3
Plays	John M. Synge	3
Spoon River Anthology	Edgar Lee Masters	3

M. R. Werner.

Everyone who has read "Barnum," that perfectly fascinating life of America's first advertising man, is asking, "Who is this Werner person?" He's a nice boy, aged 26 [you'd think him much older from the sophistication and irony with which he dealt old P. T.'s cards] who was born in New York, went to Columbia, had his run-in with old man Mars, visited Japan and China to write special articles for the New York Tribune, and made his first venture in biography as obituary editor of that paper. "My interest in biograph was aroused to action by admiration for the work of Lytton Strachey more than by any other influence," he says. He wrote "Barnum" because he happened to begin a short story with "P. T. Barnum had the right idea," and he began wondering if there wasn't more to the idea than the famous "There's a sucker born every minute." He investigated, and since he was out of a job and had plenty of time to do it, he had all of the fun imaginable in his searchings, and the result is one of the most amusing books of the year.

Jurgen and the Law.

When the publishers of "Jurgen" were acquitted with a fanfare last October, it was said by those who had heard the trial that the brief of the counsel for the defense was one of the clearest statements yet made of the distinction between literature and pornography. That brief has been incorporated in a little book "Jurgen and the Law," which includes also a short history of the case and the indictment. There are 1,000 copies of the book which Cabell admirers and collectors will seize upon.

British Predict John Owen Will Win Favor in U. S.

BY SIDNEY DARK.
[Editor "John o' London's Weekly."]

John Owen is one of the few living English novelists, as yet known little, if at all, outside their own country, for whom I am bold enough to prophesy a considerable American reputation. He was born in Liverpool in 1878 and for some years worked in the office of a cotton broker. I have already suggested in this column that the American novelist generally has a far more intimate knowledge of business life than his English rival. But Owen knows business from the inside, and in his latest novel, "The Hoardling," he tells a romance of business—the story of a man who found the thrill of living in successful advertising. Mr. Owen's hero is first cousin to Arnold Bennett's Denry in "The Card." And it is evident that the author has read "Tono Bungay." Mr. Owen has originality and he has knowledge, and "The Hoardling" is a "document" of modern business life, comparable to "Babbitt," even though it may not be such a supremely successful achievement.

Winston Churchill's "The World's Crisis" has naturally been the most discussed book since my last letter. Probably the majority of thinking Englishmen regard Winston Churchill as an exceedingly dangerous politician. But there is a consensus of critical opinion that his life of his father is the best political biography in the language, and there is little question that "The World's Crisis" is the best place of historical writing that the war has produced.

Winston Churchill is a literary artist, one of the small band of English politicians who are at the same time men of letters that includes Disraeli and Lord Morley. But to students of affairs "The World's Crisis" is a terrifying performance. From reading it, it would seem that its author, in whose impulsive hands the destiny of the nation rested to a very large extent, thoroughly enjoyed the war. And alas for the herd of us when war means thrills rather than horror for those set over us to govern!

After reading Winston Churchill, H. M. Tomlinson wrote: "It is clear that the standard set for politicians in most matters is absurdly lower than would be expected of responsible men of letters, philosophers, mathematicians, and men of science." That is obviously true, and it is appalling when one remembers the mischief that a politician can contrive.

Byron's old home, No. 8 St. James street, is being pulled down to make way for many of the "improvements" with which this city is threatened. It was from 8 St. James street that Byron drove on March 13, 1809, to take his seat for the first time in the house of lords. At 8 St. James street, then and now the headquarters of a famous firm of wine merchants, Byron was for some years regularly weighed. Between 1809 and 1811 Byron was out of England, and in 1810 he swam the Hellespont. He came home lean and light, but he put on weight again before the end of his life.

The American tourist who explores Europe with a courage and persistence that few Europeans ever rival has not yet discovered the attractions of Corsica. Apart from the fact that the island was the birthplace of Napoleon, according to Dr. Freshfield, whose pleasant book of travels "Below the Snow Line" has just been published, it is an eminently good place for a holiday. The food and the cooking are both good, the people are courteous, the coffee is admirable and the climate is delightful even in midsummer. It will be remembered that Joseph Conrad spent some time in Corsica last year collecting material for the Napoleon novel soon to be issued in England and America. Conrad has written an interesting preface on travel books generally to Richard Curle's "Into the East."

CONFESSIONS

F. Scott Fitzgerald, the first chronicler of the flapper, in "This Side of Paradise" makes this expiphatory reply when I asked him what book he would rather have written than any other:

Dear Miss Butcher:

I'd rather have written Conrad's "Nostromo" than any other novel. First, because I think it is the greatest novel since "Vanity Fair" (possibly excluding "Madame Bovary"), but chiefly because "Nostromo," the man, intrigues me so much. Now the Nostromo who exists in life and always has existed, whether as a Roman centurion or a modern top sergeant, has often crept into fiction, but until Conrad there was no one to ponder over him. He was dismissed superficially and abruptly even by those who most admired his efficient handling of the proletariat either in crowds or as individuals. Kipling realized that this figure, with his almost autocratic disdain of weakness, is one of the most powerful props of the capitalistic system, and under various names he occurs in many of Kipling's stories of Indian life—but always as a sort of glorified servant. The literary attitude toward him has been that of an officer sitting in his club with a highball during drill. "Well, I've got nothing to worry about. Sergt. O'Hare has the troop and——" this with a patronizing condescension—"I believe he knows just about as much about handling them as I do."

Now Conrad didn't stop there. He took this man of the people and imagined him with such a completeness that there is no use of any one else pondering over him for some time. He is one of the most important types in our civilization. In particular he's one that always made a haunting and irresistible appeal to me. So I would rather have dragged his soul from behind his astounding and inarticulate presence than written any other novel in the world.

Sincerely,

F. Scott Fitzgerald

Dublin Days.

A little volume of verse has been causing much discussion in England. "Dublin Days," it is called. L. A. G. Strong has written some exceedingly amusing stuff in it. There is one called "Rufie Prays" which tells of an idiot boy, "stunted, uncouth," who gets up early o' mornings and makes his mother a cup o' tea. When he made his prayer he said:

"Gawd bless Mother,
'N' make Rufie a good lad;
Take Rufie to Heaven,
'N' forgive him when 'e's bad.

"'N' early mornin's in Heaven
'E'll make mother's tea,
'N' a cup for the Lord Jesus,
'N' a cup for Thee."

We might not exactly describe

DESOLATE SPLENDOR
By Michael Sadleir

as "A sensational melodrama, Victorian romance and intellectual Georgia novel all rolled into one." Still we cannot dispute the London Daily Graphic, which thus characterizes the book. For the plots and machinations of the old English dowager who resents the intrusion of her son's ward are decidedly melodramatic. The wonderfully drawn aristocratic family of the late nineties with its rich and romantic background is Victorian of the most attractive type, and his beautiful, subtle, colorful style ranks him among the greatest of the Georgians. "Desolate Splendour" relates the development of Viola Marvell, who at eighteen becomes the ward of an English gentleman, much to the annoyance of his ambitious relations. It is simply and delicately told.

"An Unconscious Egotist" aptly describes the leading character in Charlotte Bacon's novel,

THE GRAYS

He was a clever young writer, who thought he was overly sensitive, when in reality his ego was colossal. Miss Bacon reveals him in his profession, with his friends, and in his unhappy marriage, in a novel which the New York Evening Post calls "A notable piece of work" and adds, "The author is gifted with considerable analytical faculty, and the ability to strike root in fundamental problems and notes; she writes with appealing earnestness and there is much that is beautiful about her work."

THE SCUDDERS
By Irving Bacheller

Everybody knows the Scudders. Their Gwendolyns and Earl St. Clairs smile at you from the photogravure sections of the Sunday papers, their high-powered cars dash through your slumbering hamlet at ungodly hours near dawn, and they form the topic of discussion at the meeting of the Ladies' Sewing Circle.

It is a keen, well-turned satire on the follies of fashionable life, written by a man whose wit and humor have made him famous.

THESE UNITED STATES
Edited by Ernest Gruening

BEING a series on the separate commonwealths that compose our republic. Every one of these chapters is an acute appraisal of the author's state and its people, frequently destructive of some of the state's cherished characteristics, frequently a song of pride and joy in the state's beauties and accomplishments, each written by an understanding mind and inspired by that true patriotism that refuses to offer lip service to mass standards. Twenty-seven states are discussed in this volume.

O'DONNELL FILES ANSWER TO KLAN INJUNCTION SUIT

Predicts Finish Fight in Federal Court.

Differences between the Ku Klux Klan and the American Unity league and other anti-klan organizations interested in the publication of "Tolerance" are to be thrashed out in the United States District court, according to indications revealed yesterday with the filing of the league's answer to a suit of the klan for an injunction, started a week ago.

The bill of the klan seeks to restrain permanently the publishers of Tolerance from printing names of klan members and revealing other secrets of the order, and asks the return of all klan paraphernalia now in the hands of the anti-kluxers. The cross bill, filed by Attorney P. H. O'Donnell, not only answers charges brought by the klan, but is designed to confine the case to the Chicago federal district until a "finish fight" is completed, the attorney said.

Welcomes Klan Suit.

According to Mr. O'Donnell, klan foes have sought for months a means of getting jurisdiction over the klan, but had failed until the klansmen brought their case into the courts here.

"By coming into court here," Mr. O'Donnell said, "the klan has laid itself wide open, and our fight forever to destroy the organization, to crush it as it was crushed by the federal government in 1871, begins today."

When the case comes up for hearing, defendants in the klan action will ask dissolution of the "invisible empire" through federal order, it is said.

Urges Others to Join.

After filing the cross bill, Mr. O'Donnell announced he had sent the following telegram to Gov. John M. Parker of Louisiana:

"Have just secured jurisdiction in our federal courts here over the entire Ku Klux Klan. A full litigation will expose their national membership, all records, and much of their crime. Our bill would let the relatives of Richards and Daniels intervene. We would welcome the authorities of Louisiana to join us in this contest."

In his personal plea to the court Mr. O'Donnell said he had lost more than $75,000 as a result of klan "persecution." He alleged that similar enmity had cost other individuals many millions of dollars.

SOCIALISTS PLAN TO REMAKE PARTY IN CONVENTION

New York, May 18.—[By the Associated Press.]—Plans for reorganization of the Socialist party along pewar lines, with a view toward eventual creation of a powerful American labor party, will be mapped out at the national convention commencing tomorrow, it was announced today.

"We have successfully weathered the storm, have withstood the tremendous difficulties arising from the war period, which at times threatened our existence, and now we are ready to go forward to a greater strength," Otto Branstetter, executive secretary of the party, declared.

"This convention marks the beginning of a new era for us. We no longer have a left wing; extreme radical elements have left the party. The last few months have shown labor falling into line with us."

Mr. Branstetter said the convention would be devoted entirely to problems of party organization. The convention next year will formulate party planks and nominate candidates for the presidential election.

The end in view, he said, is the creation of an American labor party similar to the British labor party, including the Socialist party, the Farmer-Labor party, the Non-Partisan league and labor unions and coöperative societies.

WHY BRAN IS SO ESSENTIAL

Everybody needs this roughage to incite bowel action. The effective form is flake bran, for the action is mechanical.

Your effort should be to make bran a delight. The best way is Pettijohn's. That is rolled soft wheat—the most flavory wheat that grows. You'll be surprised to know that whole wheat can be so delicious.

Each flavory flake hides bran flakes. The food is one-fourth bran, yet the bran is scarcely noticed.

Your people will welcome whole wheat and bran if you serve this dainty. Try it tomorrow.

COURT SALVAGES $150,000 FROM GOLDMAN RUIN

Threats of disbarment, heavy fines, and jail sentences have salvaged approximately $150,000 for creditors and stockholders of small businesses which were forced into bankruptcy through the machinations of Jacob Goldman, professional receiver, and his coterie of bankruptcy lawyers, according to a report compiled yesterday by Michael Feinberg, counsel for the Circuit court executive committee.

Thousands of dollars have been gotten back from attorneys who received defunct estate funds as advanced fees, and court attaches who, for a timely "loan," assisted in the legal ruination of solvent concerns, while Goldman himself surrendered diamonds valued at $15,000, with an automobile worth $4,500.

A score of attorneys, whose names were not revealed by Judge Kickham Scanlan, in charge of the bankruptcy inquiry, and who are said to have participated in the dissipation of $300,000 worth of bankrupt estate assets charged to Goldman, will be questioned Monday.

over boulders and ledges of stone. Our temple is built on the usual quadrangle plan. Our courtyard has a large beautiful tree in the center, but its beauty is spoiled by about forty rifles stacked about its trunk and the horde of dirty owners of the rifles sleeping all over the place.

We seem to have no relief at all from the pests for apparently either one or two have been assigned to guard each of us, and they do it night and day. I assure you it is interesting to have a semi-savage around with a rifle always pointed at some part of your body. We constantly hear all kinds of rumors about our release, but our chief tells us "not for two or three weeks." Time is of no special moment with him. If we have to stay in this dirty place two or three weeks, we are bound to have a serious illness. We all properly appreciate the work our officials are doing on our behalf.

Bandits Get Ammunition.

In the rear of the temple are a number or caves, doubtless able to be used for defense purposes.

The march here was a severe trial for most, but from the way the negotiations are dragging we will have plenty of time to rest.

Unless pressure is put to force the troops to withdraw entirely we can see no way of getting out of this hole and we may have to remain all summer. Food supplies arrive regularly and we have enough for three or four days unless the bandits make further raids.

The bandits seem to have replaced their supply of ammunition from some source. They were short after the first day's battle, and one of the chiefs wanted me to write a letter adding ammunition to their demands of Wednesday morning.

From our first experience on the mountain we will require more blankets. Army cots also would be a godsend. Conditions would not be so bad, but we are harrassed constantly by a lot of lousy half savages carrying loaded rifles and pistols, and it is hell. They come in at night, go through our pockets, etc., and spit on us if we get sore. Another practice is marching us through all the villages, parading their foreign captives before admiring multitudes. I suppose that there is much added prestige for the bandits in this.

Women Seek Equal Share in National G. O. P. Committee

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—Senator Pepper [Rep., Pa.] has taken up the fight of women led by Mrs. Medill McCormick, wife of the senator from Illinois, for equal participation of women with men in the councils of the Republican party.

In a letter to John T. Adams, chairman of the Republican national committee, Senator Pepper proposed that the executive committee be called into special session to consider such action. Party officials explained today that the executive committee has no power to act in such a case. Neither has the national committee, but both can recommend action, and it is probable the matter will be given important consideration in the next national convention.

Propose 48 of Each Sex.

Under the plan in contemplation the national committee would be composed of forty-eight women and a similar representation of men.

Prominent Republican women have for some time been urging action. Probably their strongest political argument has been that the Democratic party already has given women full representation in its organization by its action in the San Francisco convention, since which such women as Mrs. McCormick have been impatient with the refusal of the Republican organization to recognize parity.

On the Executive Committee.

Prior to presenting the suggestion for a special meeting to Mr. Adams, Mr. Pepper conferred with Mrs. McCormick, Mrs. Arthur Livermore, Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, and Charles D. Hilles, all of whom are members of the executive committee of the Republican organization.

The executive committee is composed of eight men and eight women, but, as Mrs. McCormick pointed out, the women do not have equal representation because the officers of the national committee are ex-officio members of the executive committee which is named by the chairman.

"You Know You Belong to Somebody Else"

IF there is any one thing that has made Nora Bayes popular, it's her way of singing her songs right at you. Sometimes she is full of burlesque, mimicry, laughter. Sometimes there's a sob in her throat, but always she's singing to you. "You Know You Belong to Somebody Else," Columbia New Process Record A-3862, is a waltz song with a bit of heart throb that Nora does deliciously. She sings it with a fine artistic sense, in a richly musical voice which records with delightful naturalness.

You'll be enthusiastic over this selection and you'll like "Dearest," the encore on the other side, as well. Both are Nora at her charming best.

But this record, from the June program, is only a sample of the good things in this newest Columbia release. All of the new records listed here are Columbia New Process Records—made with the wonderfully quiet surface that eliminates the annoying scratch and scrape of needle noise.

Tear out this list, take it to your Columbia Dealer and listen in on this delightful program of latest dance hits, newest songs and choice symphony selections.

All Columbia Records can be played on any phonograph.

Only in Columbia New Process Records will you find a positive freedom from distressing needle grind. The process is patented. No one else can produce anything even resembling Columbia's construction and improved surface.

BRYAN REFUSES CHURCH POST TO FIGHT EVOLUTION

Continues Storm Petrel at Presbyterian Meeting.

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 18.—[Special.]—William Jennings Bryan continued to hold the center of the stage at the Presbyterian general assembly today by resigning from the chairmanship of the committee on home missions to which he had been appointed and declaring his intention to devote all his time to leading the fight against what he termed the "brute doctrine of the origin of man, Darwinian evolution."

Mr. Bryan also declared that he had been offered the position as vice moderator and would have accepted, but the moderator, Dr. Charles F. Wishart, appointed another before he, Bryan, had been given time to state his decision. The new vice moderator is S. Spencer Chapman of the Philadelphia North Presbytery.

"Dr. Wishart came to me after the election and asked me what I would like in the way of an appointment and whether I would accept the position of vice moderator," said Mr. Bryan.

Would Have Served.

"I replied I would take time to consider the matter. Dr. Wishart was called upon to announce his appointments before he thought he would be called upon and before I told him my decision. The result was I was made chairman of the committee on home missions and was not appointed vice moderator. I would have been willing to serve as vice moderator in order to do my part as a commissioner and to show my attitude following defeat for the moderatorship."

Concerning other assembly matters, Mr. Bryan said:

"I resigned as chairman of the committee on home missions because as chairman I could not have given my time to what I consider the most important question before the assembly and before the Christian church in the last 1900 years.

To Fight Evolution.

"The doctrine of the brute origin of man has invaded the pulpits and robbed many ministers of their belief in every essential of Christianity. It has entered the public schools and the Christian colleges and in the name of a false science has undermined the faith of our boys and girls. This menace is so great that I feel it my duty to give my whole time to informing the Christian people, 90 per cent of whom have never accepted the hypothesis that man is descended from a brute."

Mr. Bryan was elected a member of the committee on education and will have a chance, it is said, to appear before the judicial commission when the case of the First Presbyterian church of New York, which is under investigation with reference to keeping Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick as preacher, is being tried.

The Rev. William Hiram Foulkes, New York, general secretary of the New Era movement, in his annual report declared the Presbyterian church had given thirty millions more to the work of the church at home and abroad during the last four years of the New Era movement than it would have given if it had simply made the normal increase of the previous ten years.

The statement brought long applause.

Avoid Evolution Issue.

Kansas City, Mo., May 18.—[By the Associated Press.]—The southern Baptist convention today decided not to take a definite stand on the theory of evolution, although reaffirming its belief in "certain great truths such as creation by divine fiat as set forth in the word of God" and the "incarnation involving the virgin birth of Our Savior."

A resolution condemning the teaching of evolution in schools was referred to a committee on resolutions.

CANADA FRAMES LAW TO BREAK LAKE SHIP TRUST

BY CHARLES BISHOP.

Ottawa, Ont., May 18.—[Special.]—The existence of a Canadian combine in grain shipping on the great lakes is found and power to suspend coastal regulations and other remedies are suggested by the commission of inquiry which submitted its report to parliament today. The commission's main findings are:

Last season vessel operators controlled a sufficient proportion of bulk freighters to contribute a virtual monopoly and they combined to fix rates that were high and unjustifiable to be charged on the shipment of grain in these lakes.

Rates between Canadian ports were discriminatory as compared with those between Canadian and American ports.

While the situation was admittedly due in some degree to congestion, this is not accepted as a reason for the combination and the unwarranted rates charged.

Four Recommendations.

Four farreaching recommendations are made in the report:

Supervision of rates on grain by water placed in the hands of the railroad commission or some other independent body and vessel owners compelled to file tariffs or rates for approval of revision of this board.

Power given the Canadian government to suspend coast regulations to enable American vessels to carry grain for winter storage at Canadian ports and also to suspend such regulations in other cases when recommended by the supervising commission.

Rule on Insurance.

All vessel brokers or persons chartering vessels or space from Port Arthur east be prohibited from writing cargo insurance and from accepting any commission on such insurance.

All persons engaged in chartering vessels shall afford grain dealers a detailed, daily statement of space, date, and destination of each grain charter entered each day. The dominion parliament this session will legislate to give effect to the commission's report.

CHARGES 2 POLICEMEN WITH ASSAULT.

Warrants charging assault with intent to kill were obtained yesterday by Anton Slukas, saloonkeeper at 1457 Canalport avenue, against Policemen John Fahrforth and Frank McDonald.

HOUSE ADVANCES BILLS; MEMBERS FLOCK TO DERBY

Springfield, Ill., May 18.—[Special.]—With dozens of seats empty and less than a working majority present the house of representatives advanced forty bills from first to second reading today and adjourned until Tuesday, the day the $18,000,000 omnibus bill comes up.

The pay roll probe committee expects to begin work next week. Although the investigation is intended to cover twelve years hastily, the committee has decided that there is no period that requires attention so much as the present and Chairman Hart [Rep., Kane] announced that department heads and officials of the Small administration will be summoned first.

Many legislators left last night for Louisville to see the Kentucky Derby. If the Illinois racing bill received the votes of all the lawmakers who either will see or say they would like to see the Kentucky classic there would be no question about bringing the ponies back to Illinois.

TRI-CORNERED BUILDING ROW GOES TO CAPITAL

Pending decisions of the national board for jurisdictional awards, which meets next week in Washington, no definite action will be taken in the three cornered controversy between the two contractors' associations, the Building Trades council, and the citizens' committee to enforce the Landis award, it was announced last night.

The most important decision expected to be handed down is the one on the jurisdictional controversy between the carpenters and sheet metal workers over the installation of hollow metal trim. In its first decision the awards board claimed the work came under the jurisdiction of the sheet metal workers.

A large party of Chicago contractors and labor officials will leave Chicago for Washington tonight to attend the meeting.

Joe Iovanelli, 1109 Lytle street, was fined $100 and costs yesterday as keeper of a disorderly house at 12 South Jefferson street.

Last Saturday the Straw Hat Season opened in Philadelphia, and my store, 1307 Market Street, broke all American Records and made a new World's Record for selling the greatest number of hats ever sold in one Hat Store in one day.

This Saturday I hope every man who steps on State Street will step into my State Street Store and see the interior of the most beautiful Hat Store in the World. I want you to help me make another World's Record for the opening day of a new Headquarters for Hats in the heart of Chicago.

I think that more Men's Wearing Apparel is sold in the department stores on State Street than any other one street in the World, that's the reason I'm opening a State Street Store.

But the hat business isn't a part of my business, or a department in my store—it's my whole business. That's why I'm taking a whole building on State Street to sell Hats.

I don't sell everything from collar buttons to clothes but I sell more men's hats than all the large department stores on State Street put together, and a man's Hat Store is a pretty good place for a man to go to get a good hat.

When Hearts Command

By ELIZABETH YORK MILLER

SYNOPSIS.

Mrs. Jean Carnay and her daughter, Alice, spend an extravagant vacation on the Italian Riviera after a lifetime of frugal living. There they meet Dr. Philip Ardeyne, the famous alienist, and he and Alice become engaged. Jean's husband, Hugo Smarle, who had been confined in a criminal insane asylum for the killing of his partner, is released and comes to join her. Not even Alice knows he is alive, and in order not to upset her daughter's wedding plans Jean and Hugo agree that he will represent himself as her brother, John Balliss. Mrs. Carnay had been illegally married to Hector Gaunt in her youth, and Hugo had afterward married her through chivalry to protect her and her unborn child.

Carrie Egan, widow of the man slain by Hugo, had been a guest at the same hotel. Hugo, on meeting her, reminds her that she owes him £20,000. She agrees to pay him, but against his better judgment decides to marry Alice immediately. She agrees, and the doctor goes off to Genoa to make arrangements for the ceremony.

INSTALLMENT XXX.

JEAN SAYS FAREWELL TO ALICE.

"Could we take a little walk, mumsey darling? Not too far, of course, and you might put on my tennis shoes. It's those silly old high heels of yours that make you think you can't walk."

Mrs. Carnay's rather tired face broke into bright agreement.

"I'd love to walk," she said. "But first I must find out what Uncle John means to do."

"Without hurting his feelings, could we leave him behind?" Alice asked quickly.

Her mother nodded. There was no need for explanations. This was her last evening with Alice before life changed entirely, and the fact that her daughter wanted to be alone with her for a little while was natural enough. They had been so rushed getting ready for the wedding and while there was still another day before the two binding ceremonies took place tomorrow would be another rush with Philip Ardeyne at the end of it, anxious to claim Alice and make up for what he had lost of her society.

"Must I put on the tennis shoes?" Jean asked. If she possessed a vanity it was pride in her pretty little feet, the sort of feet for which high heels were first invented.

"You'll be so much more comfortable," advised sensible Alice.

"O, well, I will, then. Since you wish it."

Mrs. Carnay trotted into the house and found Hugo at the writing bureau in the salon, submerged in a sea of calculation. He was a picture of virtuous, darkly energy, his shoulders humped over the task, his nearsighted gaze bent upon long columns of figures, his lips severely pursed.

"Well, my dear, what is it?" he inquired when Jean had stood by the desk a moment, a little loath to interrupt him.

"I only just wanted to know if you'd mind if Alice and I went for a stroll," she replied.

Hugo did mind, since the request so pointedly left him out and he hated to be left out of everything, but he gave her a grudging permission.

"I daresay I can manage without you for an hour or so. But don't be too long. I want to tell you what I'm planning to do."

"Tell me now, dear," Jean said. Those columns of figures worried her. The money was on his mind again, and she did so want him not to throw any more of it away.

"O, it's only an idea. I can double our fortune in six months if it comes off. Look here, I'll show you. No, there isn't time. You wouldn't pay proper attention and this is a very serious matter, indeed."

"Hugo, I do wish——"

"Now, look here, Jean—" Hugo was firm with her. "You've got to trust me. Wasn't I right about Mrs. Egan? All the time you were worrying yourself sick, I was right, wasn't I? What you need is a little more confidence in me. However, go for your walk. I don't feel a bit hurt that you haven't asked me to come along."

"It's the last chance I'll have to be alone with Alice," Jean faltered.

"O, I'm not a bit hurt," Hugo assured her.

So they went for their walk, Alice and she, Jean as usual burdened with a guilty sense of having done something not quite right.

"But surely Uncle John can amuse himself for a little while," Alice protested. "You mustn't let him make a slave of you, mumsey."

Mrs. Carnay sighed. She had always been somebody's slave, but changing masters is a tearful business. She was silent as they climbed up through the Old Town, and then further up to the groves above Sasso. Climbing took her breath and since her feet were comfortable her mind was free to notice this laboriousness of breathing. If it wasn't one thing, it was another. Difficulties with Jean seemed to be a state of being.

"Am I walking too fast?"

"No, darling," Jean panted. She hated to be continually complaining.

But it was all right when they reached the groves, a great plateau of aged trees, such unnaturally gnarled and grotesque old trees, with mysterious little paths cutting between them and here and there a peasant's cottage and tiny vineyard. The air was sweet with the breath of the pines from Monte Nero across the valley. Hector Gaunt's little house stood out full and clear in the blaze of the setting sun, the windows all glittering like fire. They could see miniature figures of men and beasts toiling up the mule path, and Jean wondered if one of them was Hector.

They sat down to rest beside the path looking towards Monte Nero, the hillside falling away sharply at their feet into a dark gorge from which came the tinkle and murmur of water rushing over stones. "Black Mountain," indeed, with its hooded crest of sable firs. How lonely it must be up there at night—yet how beautiful. Jean thought that she would not be really lonely if some one she loved were there, too. But Hector Gaunt had nobody for company, unless one counted old Maria. Hours, and hours, and hours he spent alone on that mountain top.

A great log came sailing majestically across the valley from the western slope to the saw mills at Sasso. The steel cable which carried it was almost invisible, and it looked like some new form of air craft.

"Look!" Alice cried. "There's a man on it!"

Sure enough, there was a man on it, sitting astride the log as though on a horse.

Jean shivered and laughed. "I should get giddy," she said.

"I'd love it," Alice said. "I wish we could get on one and pay Mr. Gaunt a surprise visit. But I don't suppose they go back the other way, and even if we were on that side of the mountain we'd still be miles from Mr. Gaunt's farm, and in a dense forest." She reached out and squeezed her mother's hand. "Mr. Gaunt's the nicest man I've ever met—except Philip, of course. I'm glad you're going to stay here for a little while, mumsey darling. I'll feel happier, somehow, knowing that Mr. Gaunt's keeping an eye on you."

"Will you, dear?" Jean asked wistfully.

"You're such a little mother. You need looking after. I'm being so selfish in leaving you!"

"No, you're not," Jean said, her voice bright and quick. Alice mustn't guess for a moment how desperate she was feeling about this parting. "I know for a moment how thankful I am you've found such a good man. And I want you to be just the happiest girl in the world. That's the way to make me happy and contented. As soon as you are nicely settled in your new home I'm coming to pay you a long visit. Dr. Ardeyne asked me, and he also asked Uncle John. Wasn't it kind of him?"

"Yes—he's good and he's kind," Alice said. She blew her nose and blinked. "Poor Uncle John! He's awfully excited about that money, isn't he?"

"A little too excited," Jean said uneasily.

"But it's quite natural. I'd 've gone completely off my head if it had happened to me."

Yes, it was natural, come to think of it.

"And what a nice nature he's got. Thinking at once of presents for us. Poor Uncle John!"

Twice Alice had said "Poor Uncle John!" Would it be too risky to ask her why she thought of him as an object of pity? Since that night when she had asked her terrible questions, Alice had avoided personal reference to Uncle John. So had her mother.

Just the one word "madhouse," or the suspicion of it as figuring in Hugo's past, might have altered the whole situation. Alice was so terribly conscientious. She would have insisted upon Ardeyne's knowing, would have consulted upon being told how it might affect herself, since madness runs in families. O, there had been so many near shaves, and even now when everything—including Alice's suspicions—seemed lulled into security, an upset might occur at the last moment, at the very altar, itself. Jean knew her daughter. Alice had a will of iron and even love, itself, would not shake her convictions as to right and wrong.

High Court Is Attacked by Social Worker

Denounces Decision on Woman's Wage Law.

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—Miss Grace Abbott, Miss Mary Anderson, and John A. Lapp, all of Chicago, were among the speakers before the national conference on social work at its fiftieth anniversary session here.

Miss Abbott, chief of the children's bureau of the department of labor, is a leading candidate for the conference presidency, the only other name mentioned so far being that of William J. Norton of Detroit, secretary of the Detroit Community union. The elections will be held next Tuesday. The meeting has the largest attendance in its history, more than 2,000 delegates.

Social standards in industry were discussed today by Miss Abbott, who spoke on "Child Labor"; Mr. Lapp, director of the department of social action of the Catholic Welfare Council, whose subject was "The Present Status of Social Insurance," and Mrs. Florence Kelly of New York, who startled the meeting with the vigor of her attack on the recent Supreme court decision holding unconstitutional the minimum wage law for women.

Mr. Lapp discussed workmen's compensation, mothers' pensions, health insurance, old age pensions, and unemployment insurance.

"Social insurance against unemployment has not been enacted anywhere in this country," he said, "but it has reached the stage of practical planning."

Discussing "recent industrial investigations" at another meeting, presided over by Charles P. Neill of the United States coal commission, Miss Mary Anderson described the gathering of information as to employment of women and emphasized the importance of gathering facts as to labor conditions by the bureaus of census, vocational education, rehabilitation, children, women, and public health service.

Bobrovitch, Tenor, Returns to Win New Laurels in Recital

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Joseph Bobrovitch returned to Orchestra hall for another recital last night, and proved all over again not only that he is first class operatic material, but that he is quite as good a tenor as one is likely to find outside of opera and a good deal better than several who are in. As a matter of definition he belongs in the lyric persuasion, for further description it has quality and he is a sincere, honest singer who has respect for both pitch and emotional possibilities.

Part of his program must remain a sealed book, since he indulged greatly in Lithuanian and Russian works that are not well known on this continent. But he revealed himself in an aria from "Traviata," some Tosti songs, and a beautiful work by Gretchaninoff, "The Dreary Steppe." The last named he sang in English, and good English at that. He deserves frequent hearing.

Here Is Another Film Comedy That Rates as Funny

"WHERE THERE'S A WILL THERE'S A WAY."

THE CAST.

The Invalid	Jack Duffy
The Nephew	P. Coleman
The Aunt	Eve Thatcher
The Inspiration	Beas True

BY INEZ CUNNINGHAM.

In endeavoring to tell you about all varieties of pictures I have not forgotten the funnies, and so I recommend to your attention the William Fox Sunshine comedy, "Where There's a Will There's a Way." It is satire on the people who are waiting for dead men's shoes.

Satire being a true basis for comedy, the picture manages to be funny. It shows a near, but none too dear, relative who has millions to distribute at his death in the gentle hands of his hopeful legatees, a sister-in-law and her son. They are not exactly living to see him die, but neither are they dying to see him live. So they recommend a journey to a certain sanitarium, and the strenuous trip begins.

Trip is the word. A great number of things happen that should kill any healthy person without any money, but the aged invalid lives through them all, as aged invalids are likely to do when wealthy. And finally he has a sort of rejuvenation and a wedding, which cuts the dear relatives out of their hoped for fortune.

One funny scene is based upon the superstition of colored folk about the supernatural and is also a good satire on the proclivity of screen authors to have a cave or barn or deserted house or something of the kind where a gang of bandits and crooks awaits the coming of the villain with her or heroine.

It doesn't sound funny to tell about, but the audience laughed at this scene, and I am sure that if you see it you will join in the chorus, as I did. Jack Duffy as the old invalid is excruciatingly comic in the gymnasium scene and carries off several delicate pieces of business without being the least vulgar. That, my children, is quite an accomplishment, don't you think?

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Frank Bair, 5066 West Curtis street, Newton, Ill., was awarded $5.

The Question.

What is the greatest event you ever witnessed in Chicago?

Where Asked.

Michigan avenue at Monroe street.

The Answers.

W. R. Quenan, 134 South La Salle street, advertising—Armistice day — the greatest event anybody in this day and age will perhaps ever witness. Believe me, I'll never forget it. I was taking a shower, too, when I heard the news. It was a day that prohibition was never heard of; also my birthday.

Miss Grace A. White, 3457 West Madison street, beauty specialist — Armistice day celebration—the one on the 7th. It was thrilling, and it meant so much. Was lunching at the Great Northern, and an elderly man who had three sons in the service wanted to treat the whole restaurant, he was so happy.

Mark Oreille, 1421 North Clark street, traveler—The military parade on State street at the close of the Spanish-American war in 1898. The largest crowd I ever saw. The nearest you could get to State street was Clark street. I was at the Hub store, and three women fainted in the crush.

Mrs. D. F. Dorsett, 5006 Sheridan road, housewife—This afternoon while watching the Boys' week parade my thoughts wandered back through our war periods to the peaceful days of my youth; back to the world's fair, when on that greatest of all days, Chicago day, race mingled with race in harmony.

George Klinger, 2532 Sacramento avenue, mail carrier—Armistice day. I instantly thought of the boys. In the tumult and the excitement, the noise and the blowing of whistles, there was a stillness, and a solemnness. I knew that the angel of death had ceased calling the roll.

Fred Stone to Have His Daughter for Ingenue

New York, May 18.—[Special.]—Next season Fred Stone is to have a new play and a new ingenue. The play will be written for him by Anne Caldwell and Jerome Kern. The new ingenue will be his daughter, Dorothy, 19.

Miss Dorothy has been playing small parts in "Tip-Top" on the road this season, both to see how she would like the life and how her audiences would like her. The vote has been favorable in both instances.

She is a pretty girl and gifted. She can ride a horse, her friends say, as well as her father, and duplicate most of his dance steps and his tricks with guns and lariats. In addition to which, she is said to have inherited her mother's singing voice. Mrs. Stone was Aileen Crater. For years she played in the Montgomery and Stone companies, but left the stage after the "Jack O'Lantern" season.

The fifth edition of the "Greenwich Village Follies" will be presented here early this summer by the Bohemians, Inc.—A. L. Jones and Morris Green, managing directors. The show will be devised and staged by John Murray Anderson, who already is at work on the production.

Israel Zangwill's famous comedy, "Merely Mary Ann," in which Miss Eleanor Robson, who is now Mrs. August Belmont, gained one of her many stage triumphs, is to be brought to the stage again next season in a new form. "Merely Mary Ann" is one of four musical comedies which Charles B. Dillingham arranged for just before sailing for Europe.

"Home, Sweet Home," a new three act comedy by Fred Jackson and Pierre Gendron, is about to invest the Fulton theater.

'Hitchy Koo' Tonight; News of the Theaters

The rare adventure of a Saturday night opening is offered playgoers at the Garrick this evening, with Raymond Hitchcock's arrival in his new diversion, "Hitchy Koo 1923." Saturday is a good night, since the theaters are nearly always crowded then, opening or no opening, but booking arrangements seldom permit the deferring of a premiere to the end of the week. The last instance of the kind hereabouts was when George Arliss chose a Saturday to reveal "The Green Goddess" in Chicago last September.

Eugene Walter, who has been missing for months from his usual haunts in New York and elsewhere, has returned from the Canadian wilds with a book, a canoe, and a new play, called "The Man Who Found God," which he expects to see produced before long.

"The Apache, or Thoughts Are Things," with which Josephine Turck Baker of Evanston has invaded the field of dramaturgy, is scheduled to pass away peacefully down east tonight after a career of two weeks.

Stephen Leacock's "Behind the Beyond" will be performed by the Coach House players next Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday evenings in their theater at Fiftieth street and Ellis avenue. Two shorter plays, Arthur Schnitzler's "Gallant Cassian" and Alexander Dean's "Just Neighborly," also will be given. S. B.

Forests of County to Be Memorials

Will Be Given Names of World War Battles.

Cook county will have natural, living, growing war memorials, memorials which her people can enjoy and use instead of merely look at, according to plans laid down yesterday by the board of county commissioners.

It is proposed to name 20 or more forest preserve tracts after great battles of the world war in which American soldiers took part.

At a meeting of the public service committee of the board yesterday, Anton J. Cermak, president of the board, was empowered to appoint a committee on nomenclature. The personnel of the committee will be made public next Monday, Mr. Cermak said.

Commissioner Charles S. Peterson is the father of the plan, his resolution asking that a subcommittee be appointed to choose sites fitting to the names Ourcq river, Chateau-Thierry, and Cantigny having precipitated the action of the board. His move to have memorial nomenclature made general followed the adoption by the board a week ago of a motion by Commissioner Frank Wilson that a portion of the preserve at Rand and Ballard roads be named "Belleau wood."

"Whereas, the Rainbow division of the American army was most distinguished by its effective fighting in the battle of the Ourcq river," read Commissioner Peterson's resolution.

"Therefore Be It Resolved, That a certain tract of woodland in the forest preserves, to be designated by the chief forester, and through which a river flows, be named 'Ourcq river' in honor of the distinguished services rendered to our country by the Rainbow division in the battle of that name."

"There may have been a question in the minds of some as to the cause of the war or the advisability of America's participation in it," said Mr. Peterson, "but there can be no difference of opinion on the spirit displayed by our soldiers, their courage in battle, their generosity to a defeated foe."

Criticism was aroused by a proposal some time ago to place captured German cannon in the forest preserve tracts, the objection being raised that it perpetuated war hatreds.

"No such objection can be raised to naming our forests after famous battles," the commissioner declared.

The tracts selected for naming will correspond as closely as possible in physical characteristics to the regions for which they are named, Mr. Peterson said. Thus the slope of Cantigny will be perpetuated in some hill near Palos, and "Chateau-Thierry park" and the "Ourcq preserve" will properly be areas crossed or bordered by a river.

According to Ransom Kennicott, chief forester, only four areas would not be renamed, according to the plan. These are Thatcher park and Turnbull woods, and Elk and Deer groves. The deeds by which the former two passed into the hands of the county provide that the names of the original owners be preserved. In the case of the latter two, the names are of such long standing that it is felt unwise to change them.

As a further means of perpetuating the memories of soldiers who died in the war, it has been suggested to the commissioners that particular localities in an area bearing the name of a battle may be named for sons of Cook county who gave their lives on that battle field.

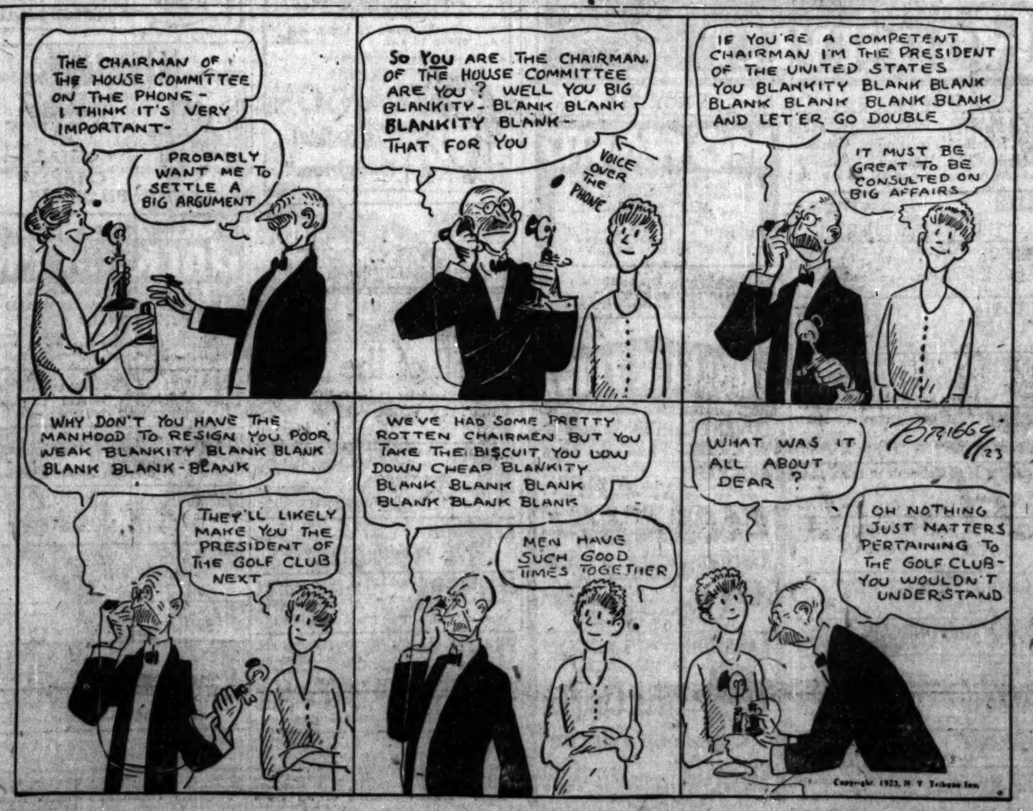

THE WORST of it was the old "I-don't-care" feeling came over her. What was the difference? Why not let go? Why not go to the devil?

THE CHAIRMAN OF THE HOUSE COMMITTEE

DAILY HOROSCOPE
Doris Blake Says:

TODAY IS LUCKY FOR HEART AFFAIRS.

This is a most fortunate sway, with the sun and Venus in benefic aspect. It bids fair to further romance on every hand. Engagements and plans for early marriages are likely to be entered in a spirit of great happiness during this rule. Engagements of long standing will be given impulse to plan for the wedding day.

Those whose birthday it is have the augury of a most fortunate business year. Changes will not be altogether satisfactory, and there may be danger of romantic complications.

Children born on this day are likely to be fortunate all through life. Girls may be unlucky in choosing a husband unless they are trained to use their heads a little.

You of this birthday are energetic and enthusiastic. You have a quick temper. You are fond of music and dancing and of athletics. You get a great deal of fun out of life by reason of your enjoyment of the social side. You are emotional by nature. At times you are quite impractical, but you can pull yourself up in time to escape the vicissitudes usually attendant upon this quality. You are frank, open and sincere, and at times display a surprisingly "long head" in business transaction. One does not associate with the lighter vein so obvious in you the capacity to cope with the serious side of life. You have a restlessness in your make up which meets response in the gayeties of social life and which undoubtedly accounts for your being able to settle down to business after you have a fling. No one will have to advise you to take time off for play.

His Letters Will Tell.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a girl 18 years old and went with a fellow three or four months. I care a great deal for him and he often said he cared for me. He went away to a different state and told me to wait until he returns. Miss Blake, do you think I should wait until he returns? BOBBY."

Wait, if he makes the waiting easy by missives tender and reassuring that the wait be not in vain. Otherwise, I would not do much waiting, Bobby.

Shy and Sensitive.

At the sentimental age of 14, I imagined myself much in love. The object of my affections was none other than the devoted suitor of my older sister. Being an extremely shy and sensitive child, I poured out my troubles to no one but my trusted diary for fear of having my feelings made the joke of the family. Imagine my horror when my sister, who was anything but shy and sensitive, began quoting from this precious book in the presence of not only my fun loving family, but the adored one himself. G. L.

S. S. B.: WANT TO BE A SOUTH Sea island belle? A dark shadow in the north seas? Well, that tawny coat of the Tahiti maiden, as it is interpreted along the Great White Way, is got by buying a jar of the most brilliant orange paste rouge and dabbing it upon the cheeks lightly and working it down smoothly; then, on top of it, goes a powder called ochre shade, which is a brown tan. The effect on a brunette is startling and sometimes quite fascinating. But under a blonde head or Titian it looks as though the lady were suffering jaundice in its most advanced stage.

"No," she answered me, "she is waiting to get enough olds so she can think lessons." J. R.

MEN'S FASHIONS

BY A. T. GALLICO.

Two Dress Waistcoats.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—This may look like an illustration for baby's alphabet. But it is really meant to show the difference between two shapes of waistcoat that are worn with evening clothes. The one on the left, the V shape, is the one that should be worn with a dinner coat, and not the U shape on the right. This is because the lines of a dinner coat's lapels are V shaped and it is awkward looking when the vest is cut one way and the coat another. Especially if the waistcoat with dinner coat is white it is advisable to have the white line follow the silk lapel.

With full dress either U or V vests are suitable, but the former is more popular, especially the double breasted model. Too much care cannot be taken to have one's vest fit correctly. It is one of the most telling signs of the well dressed man that the waistcoat be just right. With full dress the vest must be altered sometimes in order that it fit the coat. For a vest that falls below the bottom of the full dress coat is not a well adjusted one.

Evening clothes are so conventional in themselves, and so little variety is possible, that minor matters count more even than in day wear. Have you noticed how much better some men wear their evening clothes than others? This is because the man who looks well in his tail coat or his tuxedo is the one who feels at home in it—the man who wears it at least once or twice a week. The man who puts on his full dress only when Cousin Jane is getting married, or Uncle John is being buried, or his dinner coat once a year at the annual club stag dinner, does not feel comfortable in them and looks it. Moral: Do not be afraid of your evening clothes.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Green Sweet Pepper Pulp.

If one would war on pickles, the green sweet pepper may be a better soldier in the service than even the green salad, which must have its flavoring of vinegar. Pour a little vinegar into a cut on your hand, or try drinking it straight, and reason may then teach you something about its trying qualities.

It is wonderful how many places there are in cookery where the sweet pepper, or the tomato, or the onion may take the place of pickle, greatly to the advantage of the eater. A little thought on the subject and any one can see that the foods which are our main dependence are mild, or tame, as compared with vinegar. These three supplementary foods have piquancy and may be modified to wonderful savoriness and to a gratifying of the pickle desire, after a few trials, at any rate.

A cooked pepper purée is a dainty thing for a relish, or for seasoning dishes like Mexican corn. Wash pepper and remove seeds, cook till tender in a little water, and then strain. Since the skin of exceedingly fresh green peppers will often cook so as to be nearly as soft as the flesh, there is no need to undertake the dubious task of trying to remove it in the preparation. It is good bulk. After sieving, heat the purée up in a little butter, and use it to garnish an omelet, a slice of fried ham, a slice of broiled fish (for which it may count as a green sauce—the green sauce with such things is beloved of the high class chef), or even a dish of vegetables.

Peppers cut lengthwise in three or four strips and cooked soft may be served, buttered, without straining.

Kellogg's Bran is nature's relief from the terrors of constipation!

Never make light of constipation or any one of its symptoms—there is no telling what disease you may be heading into! The one thing to do—IMMEDIATELY—is to fight constipation to the last ditch! Not with pills or cathartics; they cannot give you lasting relief! Not with foods with a low bran content; they do not have the bran-bulk to do the work!

What you need, what will give you permanent relief is Kellogg's Bran because it is ALL BRAN! Kellogg's is scientifically prepared to relieve constipation. It will relieve the chronic case or the mild case. You need it, your family needs it!

But, you must eat Kellogg's Bran regularly—each day! At least two tablespoonfuls; in chronic cases this amount with each meal! And, eating Kellogg's Bran is a delight rather than a hardship. It has a delicious appealing nut-like flavor that wins the most fastidious appetite.

Every day when you eat Kellogg's Bran as a cereal, sprinkled on your favorite hot or cold cereal, or cooked or mixed with hot cereals, think of the health every spoonful contains for you! Think how Kellogg's Bran is sweeping and cleansing the alimentary tract; how it is driving out the toxic poisons and freeing your system from dangers of dreaded diseases! Your physician will recommend it.

Kellogg's Bran is extra-delicious made into countless bakery batches. Recipes on every package.

All grocers sell Kellogg's Bran; it is also obtainable at first-class hotels and clubs in individual packages. Ask for it at your restaurant.

Movies in Making to Be Seen at the Coliseum Show

How they make movies, from manufacture of films and training of players to projection of the picture upon the screen, will be shown at the fourth annual convention of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of America which opens tonight at the Coliseum. The evolution of the motion picture industry will be told in exhibits.

The first movie machines and old time films will be displayed side by side with the most modern equipment and the latest multiple reel thrillers.

A movie will be made at the Coliseum, the actors being drawn from the visitors. The girl who makes good will be given a $75 a week movie job on the Pacific coast for six months with the promise of a contract at the end of that time if she qualifies. Douglas Fairbanks, Charlie Chaplin, Elaine Hammerstein, and other movie stars are expected to attend.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Needs of Three Orphans.

"I have two brothers and one sister in an orphan asylum. I take care of children for a living. I do this kind of work so I can have a home. What little I make goes to my dear brothers and sister. I try to make them as happy as I can so they may forget they are in an orphan asylum. I would like to see them more often, but haven't any decent dresses to wear. Isn't there some kind reader who could send some dresses? O, I'd be so thankful. I have written to you before, but guess you didn't see my letter, or I know you would answer it. I am 17 years old. E. S."

Isn't this a request that appeals to all of us?

Seeks More Auto Knowledge.

"I am interested in automobiles and motor trucks and would like to have back numbers of American, English, French, or German magazines on the above subjects. Where could I get these? I would be willing to pay for them. W. E. M."

To any one wishing to communicate with W. E. M. I shall gladly send his address.

HOW TO BE HAPPY THOUGH MARRIED

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Man Boasts of Conquests.

There is honor among thieves and certainly there should be honor among young men. And there generally is—except in one point. Not every man can resist the temptation to boast of his conquests with the fair sex.

It is for this reason that much unhappiness is created in married life, according to the statements made in the answers to the questionnaire sent out by the bureau of social hygiene of the Rockefeller foundation on happiness in married life.

A boy takes no end of pride if his girl is attractive to men. He likes even to boast of having won her away from some other man. He wants his girl to be admired by other men. But woe to the girl if she lets this admiration go into what seems to him forward channels. More woe to her if her conduct with him has been such as to permit of him boasting how easy she was to kiss after he has flitted off to pastures new.

Not every man boasts. Not every man tells. But for her own self preservation the girl might better adopt the theory that every man does boast and tell, and gauge her conduct accordingly.

In other words, the good old word discretion, which our grandmothers were wont to emphasize and perhaps to overdo is the thing the girl may well dedicate herself to if she would eliminate at least one of the pitfalls, which according to the Rockefeller statistics, enter into the wrecking of happiness after marriage.

It is true that some girls, with not the slightest intention in the world of impropriety, do so conduct themselves as to arouse the displeasure if not actual serious difference with the men they love by their—shall I say questionable?—conduct with other men.

If a girl is in love with a boy and the boy's intentions are serious, she has business to gauge her relations with other men in that light. She should not accept invitations to the theater or to parties if the acceptance of these things are likely to bruise the feelings of the young man in whom she is seriously interested.

Love and the possibility of marriage are well worth the sacrifice of a few pleasures of this kind. They are more than worth the sacrifice of any opportunity given a second man to boast of his being able to wrest you away from the one who really loves you.

There is real danger to the girl whose sweetheart or husband is madly in love with her in conducting herself with any sort of friendship with other men. An innocent compliment, let alone a caress, and the all too zealous male will construe it into heaven knows what. He will see spooning and flirting and even worse things in an ordinary exchange of civilities.

The devotion worth having is a fervent one. And it does not thrive on suspicions and misgivings.

Sale to Aid Veterans.

A sale of baskets, rugs, leather goods and other articles made by the disabled veterans at the U. S. Marine hospital will be held today from 10 until 5 o'clock at the hospital, 4141 Clarendon avenue, under the auspices of the patriotic education committee and the young women's committee of the Chicago chapter, D. A. R. Mrs. Samuel W. Earle is chairman.

Sorority to Give Dance.

Youth Designer of Memorial Tablet for Bernhardt's Tomb

FRED B. HUMPHREY.

Fred B. Humphrey of Minneapolis, the winner of the first prize in the Orpheum circuit's contest for a design of a memorial tablet to be placed on the tomb of Sarah Bernhardt, is 23 years old and a carpenter. He has, however, been working himself through the Minneapolis School of Art and it was while at that institution that he conceived the design that won him success. "The Call," as Mr. Humphrey's design is named, is now being cast in a bronze tablet, three feet by four feet.

Pistache Green Crepe de Chine Exploiting Plaits

by Mary O'Connor Newell

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Styles today are like saleswomen. They make a duplicate of every order. In the sketch the girdle note is repeated on the skirt, you see, or the apron is repeated behind, and one sleeve quotes the other, which wasn't exactly what they did this winter.

Remember the sleeve that was cape on one side; the string of rhinestones that was strap of crêpe on the other shoulder?

No use saying you can't do things for yourself with the styles as they are For this girl doubts are done. She has flounced them, and her mind is so free from worriment about scrawny, unlovely elbows that she can pluck the vagrant leaf with care free mind. The bare arm madness holds her no longer in thrall.

Pretty, too, isn't it—this model in pistache green colored crêpe de chine, with plaited overparts and the huge plaited sleeves? The girdle repeats in colored embroidery the several brown tones of the fashion catalogue, and sets them off with orange and a bit of green.

The plaiting fad has not been done to death or even winded. If anything, it has taken on new life. Lingerie is the latest candidate for its favor, and there is much ruffling of textile temperaments in that field.

HERRON'S "BUST" AFTER 7 UP PUTS YANKS INTO HOLE

LION PLUCKS THE EAGLE

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 18.—Following are results of today's four foursomes, which left the British Walker cup golf team with a lead of 3 to 1 in the international team play:

Robert Gardner, Chicago, American captain, and Max Marston, Philadelphia, defeated Robert Harris, British captain, and C. V. L. Hooman, 7 and 6.

John Wilson and W. J. Murray, British, defeated Harrison R. Johnston of St. Paul and John F. Neville of San Francisco, 4 and 3.

E. W. E. Holderness and W. L. Hope, British, defeated George V. Rotan, Houston, Tex., and S. Davison Herron, Chicago, 1 up.

Roger Wethered and Cyril Tolley defeated Francis Ouimet, Boston, and Jess Sweetser, Yale university, 6 and 5.

The pairings for Saturday's 36 hole Walker cup twosomes, of which the Americans must win six of eight to capture the team honors, are as follows:

Sweetser vs. Tolley. Herron vs. Wilson.
Gardner vs. Harris. Willing vs. Murray.
Rotan vs. Mackenzie.
Marston vs. Hope.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 18.—British golfers opposing United States men on the classic St. Andrews course today were mightily pleased to meet the American experts again in the match for the Walker cup, but there was no disguising their pleasure in the fact that the home team led the visitors this evening by three matches to one after the sides had been even at the end of the morning's half of the thirty-six hole play.

FRANCIS OUIMET.

Truly the affair was brilliant, and one match at least will go down in history. Many here had opined that Cyril Tolley and Roger Wethered would beat Francis Ouimet and Sweetser, which they did. I myself am inclined to believe that the great thing of the day was the wonderful recovery of Holderness, former British amateur champion, and W. L. Hope-Scott.

Come Back After 7 Down.

Holderness and Hope were 6 down at the end of the morning's play—indeed, at one time they were 7 down—but in the end they beat George Rotan and Davison Herron with a putt on the thirty-sixth green, which gave the Britons a lead for the first and deciding time.

In strict point of fact one may point out the struggle as being one which culminated in some of the players unexpectedly, even to themselves, getting a lead on the first half of the program, and should the Walker cup be housed in England tomorrow night for the succeeding twelve months I shall cling to the belief that such a state of affairs was brought about by the unaccountable breaking up of Rotan and Herron, who were 2 up on the first two holes, 3 up at the sixth, gayly won the seventh and eighth, and turned 5 up.

H. R. Johnston and J. C. Neville were not at all happy against the London Scottish wizard "Willie" Murray and John Wilson, the West Scotland schoolmaster.

Herron's Debacle.

The real story of this match lies in the afternoon round. Six up and 12 to play, the Americans, Herron and Rotan, had the upper hand. Then they eased up their pressure, with tragic result. They deserve criticism for losing the seventh and eighth holes, as they did not appear to trouble about distance. The British pair deservedly won the tenth and eleventh.

Herron was half stymied at the twelfth and fifteenth holes, but in golf you cannot indulge in sympathy for your opponent. One down and 5 to play was to Holderness and Hope like champagne to a dying man, and three holes from home Rotan became worried and hooked into a trap.

4,000 See Yankees Fall.

Herron took the wrong club at the seventeenth, and this put the lid on the affair. Holderness holed a two yard putt for a win. This match drew a gallery of 4,000.

Robert Gardner, captain, and Maxwell R. Marston alone of all the Americans triumphed. Their task was to beat Robert Harris and C. V. L. Hooman, and they found it easy, 7 and 6. Gardner's golf over the wind swept course was exceptionally good.

Dr. O. F. Willing of Portland, Ore., and Frederick J. Wright Jr. of Los Angeles will play in the twosomes tomorrow, taking the places of Harrison R. Johnston and John F. Neville.

PURPLE PLAYS NOTRE DAME AT EVANSTON TODAY

With Ralph Bengsten scheduled to do the pitching, Northwestern today meets Notre Dame in a return game on the Evanston field. The South Bend outfit humbled the Purple by a wide margin in the first game, but Coach Maurice Kent is hoping for a better showing today.

Walt Stegman will be stationed behind the bat, with Taylor, Taber, Bryant and Dempsey in the infield. Johnson, Watts and Nelson will start in the outfield.

Eight other conference teams will be in action, with local interest centering on the Maroon-Iowa contest on the Midway. Wisconsin tackles Illinois at Urbana, Minnesota plays its second game of the week at Michigan and Ohio State meets Purdue at Lafayette.

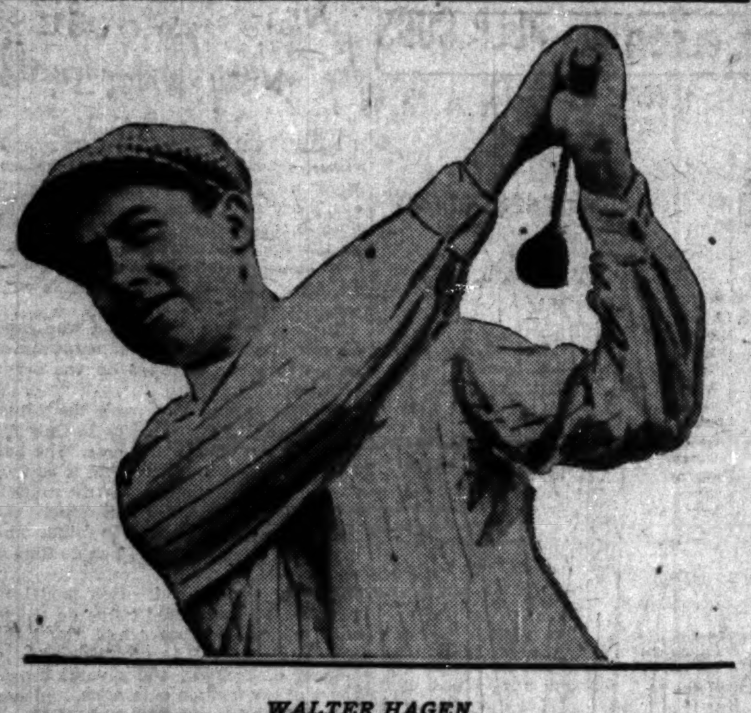

Northwestern Net Stars Play Badgers at Evanston

With hopes of a victory before the close of the season, the Northwestern university tennis team will meet Wisconsin on the Evanston courts this afternoon. Capt. Thompson, Corbett, Jarrett and Dechert will represent the Purple.

HAGEN BEATS GENE IN BRITISH PRO MEET

[Copyright: 1923: By United News.]

LEEDS, England, May 18.—[Tribune Radio.]—Playing the most sensational golf thus far seen on the Headingly course here, Walter Hagen, American holder of the British open title, defeated Gene Sarazen, the American open champion in the semifinals of the 700 guinea tournament. The score of 3 and 1.

Tomorrow Hagen will meet H. C. Jolly, who conquered Abe Mitchell, in the finals over thirty-six holes.

Both Play Great Golf.

The large gallery which followed the champions saw some wonderful golf. In the first dozen holes neither Hagen nor Sarazen took more than a 4, and Hagen averaged less than 4 for the seventeen holes played. Gene took the lead at the second hole, with a pretty 3, but at the ninth hole the match was all square.

Hagen took the lead at the twelfth hole for the first time when Sarazen got a 5 and was never headed.

Hagen Makes Birdie to Win.

Hagen was 2 up when he put his tee shot within a foot of the pin on the seventeenth green and ran down the putt to win the match.

In the morning rounds Hagen defeated A. G. Havers of England on the nineteenth green while Sarazen put out James Ockenden, 5 and 3.

LAWLER GETS 725 FOR RECORD IN STATE PIN MEET

"Swede" Lawler of the Battistinis went on a pin getting rampage last night at the state bowling tournament, hitting off counts of 278, 211 and 236 for a total of 725, which is not only the lead in the individual event but also a record of twenty-six years of competition in the Illinois Bowling association.

P. Fritz and W. Parsons grabbed off third place in the doubles with 1,295. Marvin Erickson and Bill Wernicke, the winners of the recent classic, piled up 1,289.

The Weisner-Petersens made the best showing of the night in the team event with 2,909, which is barely in the first twenty. Scores:

NEW YORK BARS JESS-FIRPO FUSS

New York, May 18.—The New York state athletic commission has forbidden the proposed boxing match between Jess Willard and Luis Firpo, it was learned tonight, on the ground that Willard's age is beyond the legal limit. Tex Rickard, promoter of the bout, is said to be making plans to stage it in New Jersey, probably at Boyle's Thirty acres.

Jim Wilde, Welsh Champ, Arrives to Train for Villa

New York, N. Y., May 18.—Jimmy Wilde of Cardiff, Wales, world champion flyweight boxer, arrived today on the Aquitania to prepare for a title match with Pancho Villa, of the Philippines, at the Polo grounds, June 16. Accompanying the Welshman were his wife, his trainer, Benjamin Williams, and his friend and personal adviser, Ted Hughes. Wilde appeared in excellent shape.

STATE SENIOR GOLFERS ORGANIZE AND ELECT

BY JOE DAVIS.

With Alexander H. Revell as its first president, the Illinois Seniors' Golf association teed off at the Chicago A. A. yesterday. Twenty-five veterans were present at a luncheon and fully that number sent letters favoring the establishment of the association.

A. C. Allen of Skokie was elected secretary, and L. A. Goddard, treasurer. Three vice presidents will be elected from different parts of the state.

An organization committee with Arthur S. Hook, president of Oak Park, as chairman, is composed of the following:

Fred Hill, Louis A. Ferguson, Clarke P. Pool, S. J. Llewellyn, A. T. Packard, Dr. Frank Lombard of Elgin, L. A. Goddard, Angus Hibbard, A. C. Allen, and W. Rufus Abbott.

Judge T. T. Taylor Speaks.

After Mr. Revell had read the call for the meeting which he made at the solicitation of a few veteran golfers, Judge Thomas T. Taylor spoke of the benefits to be derived from the proposed association. He moved that an organization committee of eleven be appointed by the chairman.

A board of governors, consisting of nine to fifteen members, will be appointed as soon as some of the downstate clubs are heard from.

Messrs. Packard and Hook were appointed as a committee to confer with Silas H. Strawn on incorporation. The organization committee will meet May 28 at the Chicago Athletic association at 6:30.

Clubs Volunteer Courses.

That the Seniors will be welcomed by the clubs was evidenced when representatives from the Oak Park, Olympia Fields and Skokie clubs volunteered the use of their courses for the first tournament.

It is planned to have the annual dues range from $5 to $10, as the expenses of the association will be small. It is possible a limit of 200 will be placed on the membership.

Among those present were:

Arthur S. Hook, Fred Hill, A. T. Packard, F. E. Long, Frank Letts, Irving T. Hartz, Dr. F. E. Lombard of Elgin, C. B. Lloyd, A. H. Revell, T. T. Taylor, J. W. Houston, B. G. Wyrick, Sherman C. Spitzer, W. W. Harless, Ward W. Willits, John H. Wood, S. J. Llewellyn, C. L. Peniston, L. A. Goddard, E. H. Raymond, Dr. T. I. Motter, A. C. Allen, and William G. Beek.

Supported by Prominent Men.

Among those who sent letters stating they were in accord with the proposed association were:

W. A. Alexander, Silas H. Strawn, W. Rufus Abbott, C. H. Markham, B. A. Eckhart, Ira J. Couch, Frank O. Wetmore, John D. Cady, former Judge Landis, Louis A. Ferguson, and Fred Upham.

The Hawthorne Golf club, which is made up largely of golfers connected with the Western Electric company, will compete today in a blind bogey event for eight prizes. The mystic number will be between 70 and 80, with handicaps optional. The club has a membership of approximately 150 and has developed several fine players, such as Mat Kelly, now professional at Edgewood; Harry Rautenbush, Bennie Buffham, H. J. Bedard, W. P. Hart, J. E. Palmer, and R. C. Hart.

Gibbons Off to Montana; Week's Tour, Then Drill

St. Paul, Minn., May 18.—Tommy Gibbons will leave tomorrow morning for Great Falls, Mont., for a week's exhibition tour of that state before he gets down to hard training for his bout with Jack Dempsey at Shelby, Mont., July 4.

The challenger for the heavyweight boxing title expects to complete his exhibition tour in one week, returning to St. Paul for his family, which he will take with him to Montana. He expects to train at Havre.

Four Colleges in Track Meet at Lake Forest Today

Lake Forest, Beloit, Northwestern, and Armour will meet on the track for the first time when they toe the mark at the quadrangle track meet at Lake Forest today. Addie of Beloit and Stockwell of Lake Forest are expected to furnish the best races of the day when they meet in the dashes.

CARNEY'S DRAMATIC HIT COPS FOR TILDEN

BY GEORGE BUCKLEY.

Tilden Tech created an upheaval in the ranks of the central contenders for the City High School league championship by slipping Englewood its first official defeat, 4 to 1, at White City park yesterday. Chuck Carney won the game in dramatic fashion in the sixth inning by pinch hitting with a vengeance.

Carney came up and faced a situation that had the score tied, the bases loaded and two out. He came through with a smashing double that sent Vascovsky, Plankey and Barry home with the winning runs.

The defeat was a hard blow to Johnson, as the slim right hander had held Tilden to four blows and struck out fourteen. Barry was combed for seven hits, passed six to Johnson's two, whiffed only five, but was effective at critical moments and largely nullified Englewood's attack by keeping it well scattered. Score:

FISHING NOTES.

ALTHOUGH the trout fishing this spring has been just so-so, combining as it did lots of punk fishing with some good catches, some large rainbows (including seven and eight pounders) have been taken from Michigan streams. But how these big fellows happened to be caught is doped out by C. M. S. who writes us from Grand Rapids:

"In numbers the catches this year have been off; but in size all records have gone by the board. Due to the late spring the big rainbow trout were still up in the headwater streams spawning when the season opened. The result has been a run of corking big fellows taken with spinners and worms as well as a few big ones on flies. Oldtime fishermen tell me that they never have seen as many large fish caught as this year."

A fellow has reason to be proud of an eight and a half pound rainbow—but when the fish is taken from a spawning bed, not so good.

Speaking of rainbow trout, Paul Simon is rather puzzled about one he caught this spring by mistake. He was fishing with a throw line in the Muskegon river near Cedar Creek when he hooked this rainbow which tipped the scales at two and a half pounds and measured eighteen inches.

MAROON ATHLETES COMPETE TODAY

After a day of inactivity yesterday, Maroon athletes will go into action this afternoon in three sports. The tracksters and ball players are scheduled to fight it out with Purdue and Iowa at the Midway, while the Maroon tennis men meet Iowa at Iowa City.

The entire afternoon will be consumed by the home events, the ball game starting at 1:35 o'clock, with the track meet against the Boilermakers starting at 3.

The Maroons are in good shape for both contests, though a few disabilities in the track outfit will be a handicap in the second feature of the day's program.

Jones Will Run in Hurdles.

Alex Jones, who was out of the Iowa meet with an infected knee, will run today in the hurdles, and John Masek's foot again is in good shape. "Shorty" Stackhouse may compete in the century, though his participation depends on how his left leg, in which he pulled a tendon some time ago, feels at gun time. During the indoor season Stackhouse beat Tykle, Iowa's fast dash man, in a preliminary heat, but an injury prevented his entering the finals.

Pyott, Krogh and Bourke to Start.

Pyott is a sure starter in the dashes, Capt. Egil Krogh being scheduled for the mile and half mile, with Bourke starting in the two mile grind. Jake Brickman is Coach Stagg's best bet in the high hurdles.

Coach Nels Norgren still is varying his lineup to get the best results out of the baseball squad. Arnt probably will start, with Rohrke or Weller waiting their turn on the bench. His selection of outfielders, a weak department, will be from Barnes, Cody, Willis, J. Howell and McGuire. Capt. George Yardley will catch.

LOCAL BOYS LEAD ILLINI PREP FINALS

Urbana, Ill., May 18.—[Special.]—City and suburban athletes made an impressive showing in the preliminaries of the twenty-ninth annual state interscholastic track and field meet at the University of Illinois today. Oak Park, Deerfield, University High, Champaign, and Springfield placed the greatest number in the class A field for the final tomorrow.

The work of Goodwillie of University and Cameron of Evanston was especially brilliant and both lads flashed the 220 in :22 2-5. Goodwillie and Cameron also placed in the century.

Royer and Ellsworth of Oak Park did fast time in the hurdles. Horton and Johnson carried Senn's colors to the finals in the 220 low hurdles and the former also survived in the 120 high. Follett, Proviso's grid star, came through in the low sticks and shot put in impressive style.

Mintz of Englewood and Sexton, Hyde Park's colored flash, ran successful races in the 100 yard sprint, and Johnson, Mintz' team mate, qualified for the 220 dash. Atwood, Hinsdale, Chillicothe, Casey, Toluca, Wheaton, and Carlinville loomed the strongest among the class B teams.

FARM and GARDEN BY FRANK RIDGWAY

HOW TO REDUCE SWARMING OF HONEY BEES.

SWARMING often causes inconvenience with the average farmer or suburbanite who keeps honey bees. When bees get ready to swarm they wait for no man, and the amateur who is not familiar with the bee's crankiness may have trouble.

It is the natural way bees have of increasing, and is hard to stop entirely. Although it cannot be definitely controlled, it can be discouraged and reduced, according to F. B. Paddock, Iowa's state entomologist.

He explains that a bee colony ordinarily swarms because of crowdedness. When crowding begins the bees provide for the drones and then for the queens. The order is always the same, and an experienced bee man examining the hives can usually tell when the colony is likely to swarm. A Langstroth brooder chamber, two story, ten frame, will usually provide plenty of room for the rearing of the brood. Supply plenty of full sheet foundation, and practically all the cells will provide workers, making the raising of drones extremely difficult, and also prevent the development of queen cells.

Since the card was arranged the gyms have been packed with boxing fans eager to see the boys go through their paces.

There will be eight bouts of six rounds each and there should be plenty of action in each encounter. Joe O'Hara of Fort Dodge, Ia., who meets Johnnie Tillman of St. Paul, is expected to make amends for his defeat by Jack Britton at Dexter Park pavilion recently.

Schaeffer to Meet Schwartz.

Herbie Schaeffer, local bantam, who will meet Frankie Genaro, American flyweight champion at Indianapolis on May 29, will trade punches with Joey Schwartz of St. Paul, while Frankie Osner of Tulsa and Eddie Coulon of New Orleans, fast bantamweights, will step six rounds. Sammy Mandell of Rockford and Freddie Jacks of England will meet in the windup.

Tickets are on sale at the usual places and popular prices of $2, $3, and $5 will prevail.

Leonard Takes Light Drill.

Bennie Leonard, lightweight, matched to meet Pinkie Mitchell of Milwaukee at Dexter Park pavilion on May 29, refrained from doing gymnasium work yesterday. The title holder went on the road in the morning and laid off in the afternoon.

Starting on Monday, Leonard will settle down to the training grind with a vengeance under the watchful eye of Manager Billy Gibson.

Dick Curley, well known promoter, has been named matchmaker for the show to be staged for the benefit of Our Lady of Pompeii church next month at Cermak baseball park.

Boxers, their managers, and followers of the boxing game will be out in force tonight to attend Kid Howard's dance at the North Side Turner hall. Lightweight Champion Benny Leonard will assist Howard in making the event a success.

HAMMERPROOF.

The knockers never give me any trouble;
I confess all allegations that they utter;
They can't get me indignant—I go double
On every adverse guttural they mutter.

I hasten to admit my argument is
A frail and sorry thing, and thus each day
Though far from strong, is rank, that its intent is About as clear as mud is, more's the pity.

So pan away, my hearties; let your clamor
Calumniate and crush me as a poet;
See if I care; I'm sure it doesn't matter

BELGIANS ENTER 24 IN TRIB BIKE DERBY

The Belgian-American Cycling club, one of the pioneer bike clubs of the middle west, has nominated twenty-four riders for the second annual Bicycle Derby of the Tribune A. A. to be held in Humboldt park on Memorial day morning at 9 o'clock. This is by far the largest club entry yet received, and plainly shows the Belgians are still taking a keen interest in the bike racing game.

The Belgian team will be handled in the races by A. Van Ranselaere, a great enthusiast, who has taken an interest in bicycle racing for years. Hardly a bike event of importance is held anywhere in the middle west that the Belgian-American club is not represented.

Always Finish High.

Its riders have always finished well up, and they are expected to do the same in this year's Tribune event. Like riders of other clubs, the Belgians will compete in the class races in addition to the 22 mile handicap, the feature of the derby.

Entry of Miss Lois Littlejohn of the Northwest Sportsmen's club, winner of the Tribune's Junior Silver Skates Derby for Girls last winter, was received in yesterday's mail. Miss Littlejohn is just as expert on the bike as on the steel blades, and it will take some mighty good riders to keep her out of first place.

Sanction Issued for Race.

Sanction to hold the races was received yesterday from Julian T. Fitzgerald, western representative of the Amateur Bicycle League of America. The board of control of the central district met last night to select officials and when entries close on Tuesday at midnight the lists will be turned over to the handicap committee of the district.

As a number of races, including those of the Alverno A. A. tomorrow, have been held, the handicap committee should have a good idea of the caliber of the riders and handicap them accordingly.

Entries close on Tuesday at midnight. Riders who intend to enter are requested to clip the entry blanks on the sports pages and mail them as directed.

Maroon Interfraternity Tank Meet to Beta Theta Pi

Beta Theta Pi won the first interfraternity swimming meet at the University of Chicago yesterday afternoon with a total of 13 points. Psi U, T. K. E., and Alpha Delta Phi tied for second with 11 points each, Janesky, the individual star of the swim, gathering all the T. K. E. points.

Louisville, Ky., May 18.—[Special.]—That question which has puzzled turf men since nominations for the Kentucky Derby were published in March, which has interested race followers throughout the country for the last month, which has has reached its climax of hope and uncertainty in the buzzing corridors of Louisville's sardined hotels tonight, will be answered tomorrow at 5 o'clock (6 p. m. daylight saving time) before 75,000 spectators at Churchill Downs.

That question is the winner of the forty-ninth Derby, with possession of approximately $53,000 cash and $7,500 gold plate to the winner.

To decide that question twenty-four 3 year olds are scheduled to go to the post for the gruelling journey of one and one-quarter miles. Of this number, nineteen are colts, four are geldings, and one, Anna Humphrey, is a filly. The latter probably will not start on a fast track.

Twenty-two May Face Starter.

Of the twenty-four probable starters two or three are likely to be withdrawn before 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, the time limit for scratching from the stake feature.

Racing Secretary Shelley tonight said he expected twenty-one or twenty-two to accept the issue.

Never before has there been such a large prospective field. In 1920, when Paul Jones won, seventeen answered the bugle. That was the record.

Never has there been such a diversity of opinion regarding the outcome. Twelve cracks have come from the east to measure their speed and stamina against an equal number from the west. They have not met before in their three year old form. None of the field has, up to this time, travelled the Derby distance in competition.

Add these facts to the uncertainty which always attaches to a Derby run in the spring, and it is easy to understand the uncertainty, to understand why some owners whose colts do not seem to have a chance are sending them after the big money.

Whitney Entries Favorites.

The Whitney-Green Tree stable confederacy, coupled in the betting because trained by the same man, James Rowe, undoubtedly will be favorites in the betting. They command that position by sheer force of numbers, because they are five good horses, highly bred and with good reputation.

Three, four, possibly all five, may start. No one knows except Trainer Rowe. Possibly he does not know. He says he does not.

If there were only one Whitney entry, Nassau or Vigil or General Thatcher might yield a shorter price, but five horses with four good jockeys give a tremendous numerical advantage.

Nassau, Vigil, and General Thatcher should be fairly close together in the odds, but no one can tell in advance what a Derby crowd will play. As a matter of fact, everything in the race will have followers.

There will be an unusual feature to this year's betting—a most unusual feature. That is what is known as the "field." There are only ten places on the mutuel machines. That means that nine entries will have separate odds laid against them. All others will be grouped in the "field."

How Mutuels Figure.

No one can tell in advance which horses will compose the field. The track handicapper, Gene Elrod, who figures for the mutuel machines, figures the nine on which past performances he considers best.

All entries from one stable go as one number. In the table of probable starters appearing in another column an effort is made to guess which ones the official handicapper will place in the "field."

When one gets down to the ninth choice, it is so much a matter of opinion that it is forecast.

Now here is what will happen. Suppose you like Chittagong, for instance, which is Chicago owned. Chittagong is named in the first nine. He is likely to be 30 to 40 to 1. If he is placed in the field, the odds are not likely to be better than 20 to 1, because of the many in the field.

How You Collect.

If you wager on the field because you like Chittagong, however, and Chittagong loses, but some other horse in the "field" wins, you collect your bet at the mutuel price against the field.

There are six which figure closely together in advance at least for eighth and ninth positions. They are Zev, Bright Tomorrow, Block entry, Prince K., In Memoriam, and Chittagong.

If twenty-two go to the post and there are eight in the field, naturally the odds against the field will shorten because followers of those eight will cluster their bets. In addition the race is so open that many sharp shooters will choose to have eight rather than one horse running for them.

In the drawing for position at the post, shown in the table, any quick breaker from No. 6 to 12 are in an advantageous position. Nassau and Aspiration are included in that group. Enchantment usually is slow to get started. Chittagong at No. 1 is not likely to derive advantage from being at the rail because he is a slow beginner. Anything fast away from the barrier might find advantage. Others are likely to get pinched off and have to run around the field to win.

Weather predictions are for showers tomorrow. Showers would not hurt this Louisville track. In fact, it would merely lay the dust without affecting the footing. It dries out quickly from anything but the heaviest rain.

MERCANTILE LEAGUE.

The Chicago Mercantile league will swing into action in the second week of its schedule on four fields this afternoon. Following are the games:

Weller Mfg. vs. Dubow Glove at Rutherford park. American Bankers Insurance vs. Kraft Cheese at Lincoln park. Austin McNichols vs. Walker Vehicles at McKinley park, and Illinois Tool vs. Weil McLains at Garfield park.

IN the WAKE of the NEWS

WHAT A DARK HORSE THINKS ABOUT.

Louisville, Ky., May 18.—[Special.]—As we arose at dawn and piloted our trusty roadster toward Churchill Downs to secure a few more confidential chats with Derby candidates for Wakers, we reflected that we had interviewed most of the supposed contenders.

Through our mind suddenly raced an adaptation of Claire Briggs' query and we thought, "Wonder What an Outsider in the Betting Thinks About?" So we sought the stable of Wida, owned by a Louisville man and a doubtful starter until his third to Nassau and Bright Tomorrow last Monday.

Wida appeared genuinely surprised as well as pleased at seeing a reporter. Around his barn was no curious crowd of admirers, only stable boys and grooms.

"Mr. Wake," whinnied the son of Dick Finnell, "it's might kind of you-all to come 'round here. No newspaper boys from my home city have even asked me how I felt. Reckon they thinks I'se poor white trash. So I want to say to you-all that if you pass that racing bill in Illinois, and you want me, Harve, I'll come up yonder and run for you-all.

"About this here Derby, they's a lot of these college boys had more eddication than me, but they ain't one of them that's goin' to try harder or that's more willin'. I wasn't raised in no feather bed. I've always bunked on straw.

"I ran twenty-one times last year, and at Havana with four brackets, and only eleven times outside the money. I cain't see why I ain't got a right smart chance. Don't bet your whole plug of eatin' tobacco on me, but plaster a few across the board. I'm tryin', Harve, a damn sight harder than some of these swell guys who don't have to worry about the future."

"Room in Bath."

Many visitors coming to Louisville with hopes of securing room with bath have ended up with "room in bath." The leading bathhouse yesterday drained the water from its swimming tank and placed cots in the pool.

For the Public Only.

"Are you beating the meeting?" we inquired of one of the best known newspaper tipsters.

"O, I never play them myself," he replied.

This Wake Is Conducted by Harvey T. Woodruff. Help! Help!

More than 10,000 Chicagoans here in Louisville tomorrow for the Derby. Is that or is that not an argument for a racing bill in Illinois?

CHICAGO THRONGS AT DOWNS; HERTZ HORSE DRAWS RAIL POSITION

BY FRENCH LANE.

Louisville, Ky., May 18.—[Special.]—John Hertz' luck was the way Chicagoans put it when the Chicago taxi magnate drew the position next to the rail for Mrs. Hertz' recently acquired Chittagong in tomorrow's Kentucky Derby. The wise ones, however, question the post position advantage to a slow beginner like the Chicago owned colt. Mr. and Mrs. Hertz entertained a party of Chicagoans' Kentucky guests at luncheon in the clubhouse today.

Sammy Wolff's special rolled into town early this morning and, aside from bringing many Chicagoans, had such well known folks aboard as Bennie Leonard, lightweight champion, and Manager Billy Gibson. A great many of the Wolff party were in the ringside seats at the Pinkey Mitchell-Tom Droney scrap tonight.

The Chicago Athletic association special arrived this morning and after a brief halt steamed out for Cave City and the Blue Grass Country club. Many of them preferred today's racing card to an afternoon on the beautiful blue grass links, and mingled with the crowds on the lawns, in the betting sheds, and in the clubhouse.

City Attorney John Kelly and Assistant State's Attorney Justin McCarthy were among the arrivals from Chicago. State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe and a party is due tomorrow morning. The ever present Dan Murray is here, and will watch his twenty-fifth Kentucky Derby tomorrow.

Several hundred Chicagoans on another special train came as far as French Lick this morning, and were to spend the day and night at the resort and proceed to the Derby tomorrow morning.

Harry Payne Whitney today purchased the contract of Jockey Johnny Corcoran for a price reported to be $20,000. Young Corcoran came into prominence at New Orleans during the winter, and has become a great favorite this spring with Kentucky crowds. He will be up on Picketer in the Derby.

Frank Navin, owner of the Detroit Tigers is here with a party of ten from Detroit. Garry Herrmann is due tomorrow morning from Cincinnati.

BILL TO TAX CITY PRO BALL GAMES TO SHOW MONDAY

Hearing on a bill now before the state legislature to regulate professional baseball will be held Monday afternoon at La Salle hotel.

The bill provides for a paid commission to license baseball where an admission is charged in cities of over 500,000.

The measure proposes a tax of ten per cent on the gross receipts of all ball games, which means the measure is directed at the clubs of Chicago, other cities of the state not being affected.

ANNUAL SHOOT AT SOUTH SHORE

The South Shore Country club's annual spring trapshooting event gets under way today and will end tomorrow. Gunners from all parts of Illinois and Indiana are here. The shoot is regarded as a warm-up for the state shoot, which is scheduled for the end of the month. The program consists of 150 targets at sixteen yards. The entrants shoot in class divisions, three trophies for each class. The Lincoln Park traps will postpone its monthly championship because of the South Shore event.

Nelson Takes Handball Match from Geidel, 2 to 3

Lewis Nelson defeated Sig Geidel in a special handball match at the Kimrock Athletic club in the McCormick building yesterday afternoon, two out of three. The scores were 21 to 15, 18 to 21, 21 to 16. Nelson gave Geidel a handicap of seven points.

R. R. LEAGUE OPENS TODAY.

The Chicago Railroad Baseball league opens its seventh annual season today with the Illinois Central playing the Burlington at the White Giants' park, 74th and Aberdeen; the C. & E. EYES OF TURF WORLD ON LOUISVILLE TODAY

BY HUGH FULLERTON.

Louisville, Ky., May 18.—[Special.]—Derby day, 75,000 men and women; twenty-two, perhaps more, great 3 year old colts.

BO McMILLAN.
[Und. & Und. Photo.]

Tomorrow Kentucky honors the horse. With the third element of Kentucky's pride eliminated by Mr. Volstead, the entire country and most of the world centers its eyes upon the other two—the horse and the girl.

Tonight, with the city jammed with visitors, with trains pouring thousands into the little river metropolis, with the best of the 3 year old colts from east and west guarded in their barns, Louisville and the world waits noisily and tensely the forty-ninth running of what is now America's most famous race.

Interest Never Keener.

Never, since 1875, when Aristides captured the first Kentucky Derby, and when the horse lovers of the Blue Grass escorted him in triumph, has any Derby been as interesting.

Never before has such a crowd been here to witness the running of the historic event.

Never before has such a large field evidenced a desire to start.

Never before has so much money been wagered on the result, and never before has there been a Derby in which every entry seemed to have a chance, and not one stands out as superior.

This parked expanse of green, with its rain washed infield vividly green and broken by banks and hedges of flowers and shrubs, its green and white buildings gay with flags and bunting, the green lawn before the club house, the parade grounds of the beauty and chivalry of the Blue Grass is the center of the world for one day.

Weather Man Is Pessimistic.

Only the fear of rain mars the prospect. The weather man is a pessimist and predicts unsettled weather with showers and the sky today has been alternately dark with clouds and brilliant with sunshine.

The price makers have installed Enchantment and Bo McMillan as their first choices, but the betting thus far has been nothing compared with the avalanche of money that will descend upon the mutuel machines tomorrow.

Of the twenty-two which seem certain now to pay the final entry fee tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock, every one has backers who figure that he has a chance to win the rich stake.

The outstanding fact is that of the twenty-two not one ever has proved that he can run a mile and a quarter with 126 pounds up. Horsemen who have watched two score derbies run have thrown up their hands and refuse to predict anything.

50,000 to Watch Classic.

The race will be run before the greatest crowd that ever saw the Kentucky Derby. Estimates around the reception headquarters today were that more than 50,000 visitors will be in Louisville tomorrow morning, and the railroads report thirty-four special trains and not fewer than fifteen private car parties either arrived or coming, the greatest number, of course, being from Chicago.

The hotels, rooming houses, and even private houses of the city are jammed with people. Hundreds slept last night in the parks and dining rooms and in the hallways and mezzanine floors of the hotels, which were filled with cots.

Tonight hundreds were escaping to French Lick, Jeffersonville, and the towns across the river to find sleeping space.

The police here reported more than 4,000 out of town automobiles in the city, and for a mile around the downs every open space was packed with cars.

CRACK TILTS ON SEMI-PRO CARD

An interesting schedule of games is on the semi-pro program this afternoon. Belle Plaines and Romeos, two of the best traveling teams in the city, will clash at Cermak park. This will be the first meeting of the year among the nomads. Cermaks will travel to Logan Square. The visitors are one of the surprises of the local circuit.

The all star aggregation from Sturgis, Mich., will play the Pyotts a return engagement at Pyott field. Although beaten by Niesen's team in ten innings, they showed they are a classy bunch.

The Atkins & Freunds will travel to 22d and Kostner to tackle Justin Indians. This is the first meeting of these teams. Another good game is the meeting of the Elks and Firemen at 50th street and Oakley avenue.

MUSTANGS PLAY TOMORROW.

The Mont Clares will be the attraction Sunday at Homan and Division street when they hook up with the Mustangs. Burrows or Mayrn will hurl for the Mustangs while Kling will be on the receiving end. For the Mont Clares, Kennedy and Carduff will form the battery. The game will be called at 3 o'clock.

New York, May 18.—Cincinnati evened its series with New York today, Luque, the Cuban, shutting out the world's champions, 7 to 0. It was the first shutout suffered by the Giants this season. Bentley, New York's $65,000 pitcher, lost his third game in four starts, due mainly to wildness. Score:

BY FRANK SCHREIBER.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 18.—[Special.]—Three home runs, all of which were produced with men on the bases, were the main factors in giving the Cubs a 10 to 7 victory over the Phillies in the second game of the series today.

The contest was tied four times and was one of those long drawn out battles smeared from start to finish with base knocks and a parade of pitchers.

The four base blows were turned in by Charley Hollocher, Johnny Kelleher and Hartnett. Leo's, his fifth of the season, came in the eighth inning and scored three runs, which gave the Bears their winning margin.

Bears Get 14 Hits.

All told the Bears stamped out fourteen blows and Hartnett was the hero of the swatting, with a home run, three singles and a base on balls in five times up. Hollocher whanged out a double besides his homer, while Barney Friberg turned in two singles and a double.

The Phillies did some swatting, too, for Art Fletcher's gang timed the delivery of the three Cub hurlers for ten safeties. Only one of these was an extra baser, however, Lee getting a double.

Passes and wildness of Aldridge and Stueland gave the Phils their big openings and allowed them to rush over enough runs to make the Bears keep hustling all of the time.

Four hurlers saw service for the Phillies. Ralph Head, who started, pitched only five balls. His first four walked Statz and on the fifth delivery Hollocher whanged the leather over the right field wall.

Jess Winters replaced Head and stuck along till the fifth when Hartnett singled, Friberg doubled, Callaghan tripled and Kelleher banged his home run in succession. Then Jess abdicated in favor of Charley [Lefty] Weinert.

Vic Starts But Wasn't There.

Weinert started off strong, but couldn't keep up the pace and after Hartnett's homer in the eighth, which chased Keen and Statz over ahead of him with the winning runs, Lefty decided he had enough and Wilbur Hubbell was called forth to wind up the fray.

Vic Aldridge was the starter for the Bears. Vic wasn't there and the Phils attacked his delivery for a run in the first and started a hot attack in the third in the midst of which he left.

George Stueland succeeded Aldridge, but George was wild and before he could stop Fletcher's crew four runs had scored. Vic Keen started the fourth and although in some tight pinches pulled out with single tallies counting in the sixth and seventh.

BABE'S NO. 6 HELPS TURN BROWNS BLUE

St. Louis, Mo., May 18.—The Yankees today made it three straight over the Browns, 9 to 4. "Babe" Ruth made his sixth home run of the season in the seventh, when he drove the ball into the bleachers with Dugan on base. Wright, pitching for St. Louis, was the victim of the heavy slugger. Manager Fohl sent in three pitchers in an effort to stop the American league champions.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

With a clouting spree such as happens only occasionally, Gleason's White Sox literally knocked the Senators for a goal yesterday, 14 to 8, in nine rounds that involved home runs, bum pitching, comical fielding, and a few other things.

The hitting of the Sox was so boisterous that it totaled nineteen safeties for ten extra bases. Five hostile hurlers shared this attack. On top of this two Sox hurlers gave nine bases on balls and soaked three batters in the ribs. And to make the day complete, five errors were marked up, four of them by the Senators.

Sox Chase Two Pitchers in Fourth.

Gleason's fellows blew the bottom out of the pastime in the fourth when seven runs registered. This spectacle sent old George Mogridge careening to the showers and his successor, Allan Russell, also got a taste of it. Then a newcomer, Paul Zahnizer, received his to the extent of two runs in the fifth, and in the seventh and eighth Brillheart and Hollingsworth were ridden over the bumps for five more runs.

The Sox hurling was peculiar by reason of few hits but many free tickets. Mike Cvengros for six rounds was a howling success, but wildness overtook him and in the eighth Gleason called in Ted Blankenship, who finally retired the side after five had scored.

Sheely and Blankenship Clout Homers.

The choice clouts of the matinee were let loose by Sheely and Blankenship. It was Sheely who helped to start the fourth round rumpus against Mogridge by pushing the ball into the left field seats with one on. Blankenship did the same in the eighth off Hollingsworth. The other seventeen blows were of various lengths, Collins leading with four one basers and Elsh following with three raps, one a double.

Sheely's homer in the fourth put the Sox ahead by 2 and 1, then came the stampede. Mostil doubled, Kamm flied out, Elsh walked, and with Mostil on third by Kamm's fly, worked a double steal. Schalk and Cvengros singled, scoring Elsh. Then Hooper doubled to count Schalk, and Mogridge quit. McClellan hit Russell's first pitch for a double, counting two. Collins followed with his second single of the inning and Sheely ended it by grounding into a double play.

What followed was merely incidental. The Senators got two runs in the seventh and five more in the eighth.

The New York Times.

New York, May 18.—[Special].—The business done on the stock exchange today, which fell below half a million shares for the first time since last August and was in fact less than in any but eight days in 1922, may fairly be taken as reflection of the market's inability to look ahead.

Ordinarily, the lapse of a stock market into complete stagnation means that the active movement which preceded such complete halt has wholly spent its force, and that the next movement should logically be in the opposite direction. This present pause has come at the end of a two or three months' decline. It has also occasionally happened, however, that a prolonged swing in one direction would be followed by a less prolonged reaction, with a resultant deadlock of uncertainty.

All that is clearly evident from the existing market is that a situation has arisen in trade and industry which both experts and speculators find singularly difficult to read. Views of the business future are conflicting, but those who express one kind of expectation are no more sure of their judgment than those who hold the other.

Declines and advances were fairly balanced numerically in today's stock market. Most of the changes were only fractional, but the predominance of definite changes was again downward. The bond market as a whole made another showing of firmness. This was particularly true of the foreign bonds. French republic 8s touched par again, a price which although not within a point of last month's highest, was well above any price reached in the first quarter of the year. Liberty bonds were again virtually motionless.

In the foreign exchange market the only change worth noticing was the further gradual decline in the German mark. At 2¾ ten-thousands of a cent, today's rate was the lowest ever touched except on the one day, Jan. 30, when it fell to 20.

D. & H. HEAD SEES TROUBLE AHEAD IF RAILS MERGE

Washington, D. C., May 18.—Government plans for railroad consolidation are "violently disturbing" and threaten "impairment of public welfare to a degree that may amount to disaster," L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson, today told the interstate commerce commission. Testifying at the hearing on the commission's proposal he condemned the whole scheme, in principle and detail, and recommended that the commission advise congress to repeal sections of the law requiring procedure looking toward consolidations.

The Delaware and Hudson, Mr. Loree said, would proceed with consolidation only "under duress," but in case the plan was carried out it would prefer to be associated with New England railroads. He suggested, however, two alternative combinations with lines to the west.

J. H. Reed, president of the Bessemer and Lake Erie, also objected to any consolidation between that road and trunk lines. A specialized carrier, he said, would and could render more equitable service to all lines with which it connected if left independent and not made a part of a trunk line system.

Nation-Wide Syndicate to Float Austrian Loan

New York, May 18.—Formation of a nation-wide syndicate has been started by J. P. Morgan & Co. preparatory to the floating of an Austrian loan in this country. While the amount to be raised here and other details have not been agreed upon, it is regarded as likely that the loan will be floated in installments, probably $25,000,000 or $50,000,000 at a time, just as the Dutch East Indies loan was several months ago.

The aggregate of these two items—$33,812,347—compares with a profit and loss surplus of $31,251,024 at the end of 1921 and indicates that the company's surplus profits in 1922 after cash dividend payments amounted to $2,461,323. The company has no bank loans, and its only indebtedness consists of $6,916,645 accounts payable, as compared with total assets of $45,734,892.

St. Maurice Power.

A. N. S., Elkhart, Ind.—The St. Maurice Power company, Ltd., has been formed to develop the water power of Gres Falls, Gabelle, and Forges Rapids on the St. Maurice river about six miles below Shawinigan Falls, Quebec, Canada. It is constructing a 120,000 horse power plant which will have an ultimate capacity of over 150,000 horse power. It has issued $9,026,600 thirty year 6½ per cent bonds secured by a first mortgage on all properties. The company owns the Gres Falls property and leases the other two from the government of the province of Quebec for ninety-nine years from 1916. The mortgage includes a specific charge on this lease. The Shawinigan Water and Power company has contracted to purchase, for forty years, available power from the company on terms to yield sufficient net income to pay all operating expenses and taxes, as well as interest and sinking fund requirements on these bonds outstanding. The Shawinigan company has had a very successful record. On completion of the installation it is estimated net earnings will be over twice interest charges on these bonds. These bonds are a suitable investment for a business man's funds.

Brief Answers.

H. R. B.—The Atlantic Coast Line company [of Conn.] irredeemable 4 and 5 per cent certificates of indebtedness are secured by deposit of Atlantic Coast Line railroad first consolidated 4s of 1952, its general unified 4½s of 1964, and Atlantic Coast Line railroad of South Carolina general first 4s of 1948. The interest on the certificates is noncumulative and is paid as earned. These certificates are a sound investment.

DRY GOODS AND GARMENT NEWS

BERLIN.—The German dye cartel charges the French chemists and engineers in the occupied Ludwigschafen plants are exploiting the German property. They are investigating production methods and conducting experiments, say the officials of the cartel.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—Men's clothing workers have set July 4 as the date to strike in the Buffalo market. Manufacturers agree to ignore the union demand for recognition and a 25 per cent pay increase.

FALL RIVER, Mass.—It was another bull week in the cotton print cloth market. Curtailment of mill operations spreads. Sales for the week are estimated at only about 1,800,000 yards.

NEW YORK.—A small amount of buying was reported in the local gray goods market today. Some centers reported sales of the 64x60, 5.35 yard print cloth at 9⅝c, and of the 68x72, 4.75 yard, at 11⅝c, for nearby delivery. Other numbers were unwanted.

LABOR, NOT FUEL COST, HAMPERS ELECTRIC POWER

BY SCRUTATOR.

Recent price trends have exerted opposite effects on the development of water power plants. High labor and material costs have tended to restrict building, but high fuel prices have stimulated it. According to all indications the high price of coal in recent months has been the stronger force. Although coal is a bit cheaper now, construction and engineering corporations are being approached with proposals for many new plants. The building program for this year is pretty well set, but if next winter sees a lower market for building materials, 1924 may witness an immense addition to the hydro-electric power of the United States.

The installation cost of water power plants is high indeed, constituting the principal handicap of the industry. But fortunately for the country the situation in the fuel industry has had one compensation at least—it has stimulated the development of much water power, even at a time of high interest rates.

Although a very young business, hydro-electric development seems already to have acquired the cycle habit, with crests spaced about a decade apart. There is reason to believe that we are entering a period of intensive investment and development. The most conservative estimate the writer has heard is that $150,-000,000 is now being spent on new plants. Much more money will be available when the bond market has thoroughly digested the big issues of last winter and fall. Water power financing is essentially a long term bond proposition. The original cost of hydro-electric plants is often so high that it is years before they begin to demonstrate their superior economies to steam plants in the form of greater net returns.

The regular bond market has been rather slow recently, but the utility interests are now getting much money direct from their customers. One authority who estimates the 1923 investment program of the light and power companies at $750,-000,000 (the more generally circulated figure is $600,000,000) says that one-third will be obtained by "home financing" based on customer ownership plans. The customer ownership propaganda is only about nine years old. Its growth can be appreciated from the above figures. Utility executives are beginning to be rated in some quarters by their ability to get such money from their patrons. They are adding about 200,000 new stockholders a year to the 1,750,000 people now estimated to have money invested in utility companies.

Hydro-electric plants, it is estimated, will develop about 21,000,000,000 kilowatt hours of current in the United States this year. Our steam generating plants are expected to produce 33,500,000,000. This will require 39,000,000 tons of coal, 31,-500,000 cubic feet of gas, and 15,000,000 barrels of oil. Quite a fuel bill! The water power plants will have no such purchases to make and their managers will not have to watch the coal markets or worry so much about labor. That is one of the reasons why the upkeep of a good hydro plant is often approximately half that of a good steam plant. A good steam plant is one which does not help the laundry business. One utility expert advises investors to place their money in the inverse ratio of the smoke coming out of the chimneys. There are whole floors of Chicago office buildings devoted to engineers, devices, and systems to improve fueling and turn smoke into money. Government bureaus are conducting valuable investigations on pulverizing coal, while some engineering corporations have small armies fighting smoke.

All this increased efficiency is having an effect. Despite the increase of labor, fuel, and other costs, to say nothing of taxes, the average consumer is paying 2.4 per cent less for electricity than in 1914. Only in December, 1920, has the figure been higher, and then it was only 1.2 per cent over the 1914 price. The bureau of labor statistics shows "fuel and lights" to be 86.2 per cent higher than in 1914, but the advance is for other kinds of light and fuel.

Its friends claim that its independence of the fuel market makes hydro-electric power far less speculative than steam power. Although utility companies are acquiring coal properties, they still must gamble with the human factors in the coal game.

The hydro-electric plant, once adjusted, has only to reckon with ice and drought. Against both provision is taken at the outset by most painstaking study of stream and weather history to the oldest records and the memory of the well known oldest inhabitant. Great progress has been made in devices and methods for fighting ice.

TRADE REVIEWS OF WEEK

Marshall Field & Co. say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods for the week exceeded that of a week ago and was greater than that during the corresponding period a year ago. The volume of orders received from salesmen on the road was about the same as that of last week, although slightly less than during the same week in 1922. Orders for fall delivery continue in satisfactory volume. There were fewer customers in the market than during the same week a year ago. Collections were not equal to the corresponding period last year."

The John V. Farwell company says:

"It is rather surprising that notwithstanding unseasonable weather, daily shipments, at once road sales, and advance road sales all show increase over corresponding week of 1922. Fundamental conditions, also, warrant optimism, as labor is well employed and each short season of good weather, permitting the laying off of winter wraps, brings quick response in the movement of seasonable merchandise. Collections show good gains over corresponding month last year."

Armour & Co. say:

"Trade in packing house products has been generally good this week and prices have been steady to higher. Beef trade has been especially strong. The general cost level of live animals is higher this week than it has been since October, 1922, and a new top of $10.60 was reached for choice cattle. Trade in fresh pork has been steady. Collections are very good."

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

An investigation made by Logan covering thirteen counties in central and south central Kansas suggests that the prospective yield of winter wheat is 6,000,000 bu less than was indicated on April 1. The counties covered have 2,700,000 acres in wheat. Barton county has a prospective yield of 11 bu per acre; Sumner, 12 bu; Sedgwick, Rice, and Kingman, 13 bu; Stafford and Harper, 14 bu; McPherson, Kiowa, and Saline, 15 bu; Pratt, 16 bu, and Brown county, 21 bu per acre. He was quoted in messages early in the day as saying the Kansas crop was estimated at 120,000,000 bu, but the proviso, "if central Kansas has not deteriorated," was omitted.

Allan Logan of Kansas City, in response to an inquiry as to the Kansas wheat crop, sent a message late yesterday saying: "My present estimate of the Kansas wheat crop is 110,000,000 bushels."

The late break in grains and close at the inside of the day showed that the outside buying in the markets is light, and that the local interests who are favorable to the constructive side are not strong enough to withstand heavy selling by the local professionals like that during the day. In wheat a good part of the selling was taken back on the closing break. At present the market needs good support all the time.

There was considerable selling of corn futures by local traders and locals on reports of increased offerings from the country. While a few cars were offered by Illinois and Iowa shippers at prices generally above the market, there was no general selling by the country. Of late they have sold no corn and with a few cars offered its volume was magnified. No. 2 yellow sold at 6c over May for fresh receipts, while corn out of local elevators sold at 5c over.

Reports on deliveries of cash grain and provisions on future contracts are now being made up officially by the Chicago Board of Trade. Heretofore estimates have been compiled by private interests, and were as nearly correct as possible. Parties making deliveries leave a memorandum in the secretary's office.

CASH GRAIN NEWS

Export sales of 350,000 bu wheat, including 100,000 bu or more hard winter via the gulf, were reported during the day. The balance of the business was in Manitobas. No. 2 hard at the gulf sold at 15½c over July, first half June loading, but an easing in the premium is looked for. Sales of corn were limited, with 100,000 bu rye taken. While there were inquiries for new crop wheat, no sales were claimed.

Chicago handlers sold 15,000 bu wheat, including 10,000 bu No. 2 red winter, 165,000 bu corn, and 80,000 bu oats to the domestic trade, with 50,000 bu wheat to go to store.

Deliveries on May contracts at Chicago: Wheat, 114,000 bu; corn, 20,000 bu; oats, 29,000 bu; rye, 2,000 bu. Winnipeg: Wheat, 1,315,000 bu; oats, 75,000 bu; rye, 55,000 bu; barley, 16,000 bu; flax, 5,000 bu. Minneapolis: Wheat, 23,000 bu; oats, 36,000 bu.

Basis on cash wheat here showed little change. No. 2 red was nominally 10@12c over May and No. 2 hard 2@2½c over. Receipts, 11 cars. Outside markets 1c higher to 1c lower.

No change was shown in cash corn premiums. No. 2 yellow from store sold on track at 5c over May, while fresh receipts brought 6c over. No. 2 mixed was nominally 2½c over and white 3½@4c over. No. 3 grades sold at 1⅜@4c over May. Receipts, 13 cars. Outside markets unsettled. Kansas City, 2@3c lower; Omaha, 1@2c lower; Peoria unchanged, and St. Louis ½c lower to 1c higher.

Offerings of cash oats were not large, but demand slow, and the basis ⅛@¼c lower. No. 2 white sold at 2@3c over and No. 3 white at 1½@2¼c over May. Receipts, 78 cars.

There was another slump in yesterday's hog market, with the day's top at $7.85 equaling the low point since last November and as low as any time since December, 1921. Values declined 10@15c due to excessive offerings, over 70,000 arriving Thursday and Friday, against 43,740 in the same period last week. Packers took advantage of the large offerings, their early bids being as much as 25c lower. Extreme late trade, however, was better than in mid-session. Average price dropped to $7.60, against $7.65 a week ago and $10.75 a year ago. Quality generally good.

Short supplies and a good demand added tone to yesterday's trade in cattle, with prevailing prices of the week in most classes showing 10@25c advance compared with a week ago, when values were highest during last week. No fancy steers were offered yesterday, but this class are quotable around $10.60. Some 1,440 lb steers sold at $10.35. The limited offerings were picked up in a hurry.

Spring Lambs $17.50.

On an active strong to 25c market California springers reached $17.50, standing 50c above opening day of the week and $2.00 higher than the initial band of the season. Fed western and Colorado woolskins ruled steady to 25c lower, top price lowering for the first time since middle of April. Best Colorado wool lambs at $16.75 stands 25c under previous day, while shorn stock, considering weights, were unchanged. Total receipts this week at 52,000 were smallest of the year. Most traders expect another small supply for the coming week.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 500 cattle, 10,000 hogs, and 2,000 sheep, against 617 cattle, 8,116 hogs, and 3,424 sheep the corresponding Saturday a year ago.

PIT OVERBOUGHT; GRAINS DECLINE AFTER A BULGE

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

An overbought pit condition was largely responsible for a sharp reaction in all grains following a moderate advance early. Garbled reports of a speech made at Topeka, Kas., by Allan Logan, which was construed as bearish had some effect on sentiment, but the failure of outside buying to follow bulges was the main influence, and the finish was about the bottom, with net losses of 1⅛@1⅞c. Corn was under pressure from local longs with claims of larger country offerings, and closed ¾@1c lower. Oats were off ⅜@⅞c and rye, ⅛@⅜c.

Early buying of wheat was based on unfavorable crop reports from parts of central Kansas and from Texas. Serious deterioration was claimed. Demand for cash wheat was fair with premiums at the gulf ½c higher, with some business put through. Receipts were light and the country shows no disposition to sell freely. Forecast was for warmer weather following showers. Seeding in the northwest is practically completed.

Corn Eases After Bulge.

There was a fair class of buying in corn early, but local sentiment was somewhat less bullish than of late and one of the leading buyers recently was a persistent seller. Claims that country offerings showed considerable increase was a factor in starting values downward, although investigation failed to confirm the statements, the few cars offered being held above the market in the main. Cash premiums were slightly easier with receipts 13 cars, making 55 cars that have arrived in four days. The forecast for warmer weather next week was regarded as bearish.

Oats made their highest prices at the start and the lowest at the finish, the market showing a heavy undertone throughout the day. Trade was mainly of a local character. Demand for cash grain was slow and the basis ⅛@½c lower as compared with May.

Eastern Houses Buy Rye.

Houses with eastern connections were fair buyers of rye, but the weakness in wheat led to selling and a reaction, with May showing the most strength. A moderate export business was put through at the seaboard. The two northwestern markets received 39 cars.

Liberal hog receipts here and in the west with lower prices at the yards led to scattered selling of lard, with the finish unchanged to 5c lower. Ribs, however, were 7@10c higher on limited buying which found offerings light. There was good buying of September lard by a house with export connections. Prices follow:

Mrs. R. and the New Idea in Want Advertising

MRS. R., in an attempt to dispose of her four room apartment and her furniture, ran the following ad several times:

FOR SALE—bg. cls. 4 rm. fur. apt. Address XXX, Tribune.

No results forthcoming, Mrs. R. came to The Tribune's office. A Tribune representative told her that her ad was too indefinite, too small for the job, and that a more detailed, more explicit ad would interest prospects. Following is the Want Ad revised according to The Tribune's slogan, "The more you tell, the quicker you sell."

FOR SALE—4 RM. APT. FINE MAHOGANY furnishings, A1 condition, $65. All large outside rooms, 3 large closets, screened porch. Nr. I. C. "L" and surf. High class neighborhood.

Mrs. R. ran this ad, rented the apartment and sold her furniture. She is now convinced of the truth of the slogan, "The more you tell, the quicker you sell."

The more you tell: the quicker you sell

BUSINESS LULL AFTER BIG BOOM CALLED NATURAL

BY O. A. MATHER.

The speculative fraternity dealt in "futures" yesterday. There was more guessing and discussion on how the horses will run today in Kentucky than there was concerning securities. A milder form and discussion and interest was what general business will do in the longer future.

The week-end reviews dwelt on the undercurrent of uncertainty and sharp division of opinion. Dun's finds "more doubt about the probable course of prices of commodities and also more questioning as to the future of business generally." All the reviews comment on abatement in activities and restricted new buying, but they are inclined to explain the situation as a natural sequence of earlier heavy purchasing, which has filled requirements for some time ahead.

Lull May Be Only Reaction.

The division of opinion is set forth in Bache's review, which says the present lull may prove only a reaction from extraordinary buying, or it may forecast a continued reaction in the volume of trade, although it is regarded as yet too early to make definite predictions and interpretations.

Again the weekly report of the Credit Clearing House shows a continuance of active purchasing throughout the country and a recovery from the slight decrease of the preceding week. As to the curtailment in building construction the United States Gypsum company reports the greatest volume of business in its history. It also was said that buying of structural steel has not fallen off as much as was expected in view of the general discussion of postponement of building work. In the last week steel prices have shown a declining tendency.

Here's 900 Per Cent Stock Dividend.

Yesterday again produced cheerful dividend news. The St. Louis Brass Manufacturing company announced a proposal to increase its capital stock from $50,000 to $500,000 and declare a 900 per cent stock dividend.

The Fleischman company declared two extra dividends of 50 cents each on the common stock, payable July 1 and Oct. 1. The McCord Radiator and Manufacturing company declared an initial quarterly dividend of 75 cents to cover the second quarter, and also 25 cents to cover March. The dividends are payable July 1 on the class A shares. The United Paperboard company declared a dividend of 6 per cent on the preferred stock to apply for the fiscal year ended May 26. No dividends had been paid since 1921, when quarterly payments were discontinued.

Truscon Steel to Increase Capital.

Truscon Steel shareholders at a special meeting May 28 will act on a proposal to increase the preferred stock authorized from 2,500,000 to $3,000,000, and to authorize 300,000 common shares of no par value. There are outstanding now 120,000 shares of $10 par common, which is to be exchanged on the basis of two of the old for one of the proposed new shares, and the additional shares are to be offered to the stockholders for subscription. The par value of the preferred is to be increased from $10 to $100 a share. None of the additional preferred stock is to be sold at this time.

The Detroit Edison company has offered to stockholders the right to subscribe to additional stock at par to the extent of 25 per cent of their holdings. For the four months ended April 30 the company reports surplus after charges was $2,101,415, as compared with $1,411,-[illegible] in the same period of 1922.

FINANCIAL NOTES

The copper stocks were the only group in the entire market which moved against the trend yesterday. The more active issues closed with net gains ranging from substantial fractions to a point or more. The recovery in prices, at a time when the rest of the market continued to slip backward, was due to the better feeling which prevails in the metal industry. Following the hardening of copper prices in London during recent days after several weeks of decline, the market also firmed in this country. Whereas copper could be had at 15¼c a pound on Thursday, the cheapest price quoted yesterday was 15½c, and in one quarter of the trade it was said that "several million pounds have been sold at this price."

Representatives of the various committees interested in the reorganization of the Denver and Rio Grande believe that conditions for submitting a favorable plan for the reorganization are better than they have been for weeks past. After weeks of submitting plans and counterplans it is said that most of the differences between the various committees have been smoothed out and the possibility of an agreement is much better than it has been.

The turnover of stocks on the New York stock exchange yesterday for the first time this year fell below the half million mark and amounted in all to 495,740 shares. This is just about equivalent to two hours trading on the average normal day. At times the ticker barely turned over and most of the sales, it was noted, were in one, two, and three hundred share lots.

The fertilizer and chemical stocks were distinctly weak during the session. The unsatisfactory state of these industries during the last couple of years and the lack of encouraging indications in that direction have been exercising an adverse influence on this group of issues. Central Leather was another weak feature, reflecting continued unsatisfactory reports from that line of endeavor. Central Leather was off 2 points, Allied Chemical 1¾, Virginia Chemical preferred 5¼, and American Agricultural Chemical 1¾.

The Brier Hill Steel company is calling in its common stock for exchange for shares of common stock of Youngstown Sheet and Tube company owing to purchase of the former by the latter. Terms of sale provide for Brier Hill common holders getting one share of Tube for four of Brier. It is aimed to have exchange effective before June 15 so that dividends payable July 1 may be paid direct by the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company.

Isaac N. Powell, president of the South Side Trust and Savings and the Washington Park National banks, was elected president of the Chicago and Cook County Bankers' association at the annual meeting. Charles E. Stevens, president of the City National bank of Evanston, was made vice president of the association, and William J. Rathje, president of the Mid-City Trust and Savings bank, was chosen treasurer. The following were elected directors: Murray MacLeod, J. C. Hansen, George Malcolm, Joseph J. Sa-[illegible], Henry S. Savage, and C. J. Peeples. These six and the three officers first chosen make up the board.

The British Empire Steel company income account for the first four months of the year showed earnings of more than $1,000,000 above the same period last year.

With the mills of the United States Steel corporation operating on an average of 95 per cent of capacity during April and with the company shipping goods contracted for at higher prices than those shipped earlier in the year, it was estimated that the corporation earned in excess of $15,000,000 net after all charges and liberal allowance for depreciation. This would leave a balance, it is calculated, of approximately $1.40 a share on the common stock, or more than sufficient to cover dividend requirements of $1.25 on the common.

RAILROAD NOTES

A reduction of freight rates in Iowa on brick, tile, and other clay products is ordered to become effective June 20 in a new schedule announced by the state railroad commission. The reduction, the commission estimates, will mean a saving of thousands of dollars a year to shippers and builders of the state. The reductions vary from ½ cent to 1 cent per hundred pounds on shipments up to 125 miles, the schedule to apply on shipments of 50,000 pounds or more on most of the clay products and 40,000 pounds on building tile.

The loss and damage account of freight on railroads for 1922 as compared to 1921 shows a reduction of 50.3 per cent, it was made known yesterday at the closing meeting of the Chicago claim conference at Hotel La Salle.

Chicago Great Western reports for the week ended May 12 total revenue cars loaded and received from connections, 6,382, against 5,326 a year ago. Cars loaded on the Burlington lines and received from connections for the period from May 1 to 14, inclusive, totaled 72,515, compared with 64,529 for the corresponding time in 1922, an increase of 7,986, or 12.4 per cent.

At the annual meeting of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway in Milwaukee, C. H. McNider of Mason City, Ia., was elected a director to fill a vacancy. Other directors and officers were reelected. President Byram says the road's traffic is off a little in May as compared with April, but this is merely a seasonable decline. He declared that traffic would be very heavy at least for all this year. Much of the $18,000,000 new equipment ordered last year will be available for grain traffic this fall.

SWISS ARCHITECT AND COMPATRIOT BUY SUBDIVISION

BY AL CHASE.

Edward K. Krenn, Swiss architect for Edith Rockefeller McCormick, and Edward A. Dato, another resident of Switzerland, who have achieved considerable realty fame by selling $250,000 worth of vacant land for Mrs. McCormick at Riverside since Jan. 1, yesterday bought forty acres in Berwyn and will at once subdivide it. G. W. Hindman was seller and the price was $180,000.

Ira D. Marlbrough negotiated the purchase and will market the subdivision. There'll be 254 lots, 33x125 to 140 feet. It is bounded by 19th, 22nd, Harlem and Home and part of it will be crossed by the "L" extension if it is carried farther west.

In reporting the purchase of the southeast corner of California and North avenues yesterday we stated that Louis Broslow, buyer, was vice president and owner of the Eagle Wood Turning company. This information was given us by Mr. Broslow's attorneys. We are now informed by Sam Sandel, president of the Eagle Wood Turning company, that he and Joseph Edelson, secretary, each own a third interest, and Mr. Broslow the remaining third in the Eagle concern.

Buys North Shore Acres.

After nearly two years of negotiations with a number of owners, a syndicate composed of A. H. Kraus, formerly identified with the Lake Shore Realty company; Leo P. Cummings, John Gullickson, and George T. Preschern has acquired the fifty-five acres west of Kenilworth, in the Indian Hill district, at a reported cost of $300,000, and will subdivide at once. The largest single purchase was thirty acres from William F. Temple for $190,000, lying east and west of Ridge road and north and south of Kenilworth avenue. Winding streets will be laid out.

The syndicate formerly retailed its properties through other concerns. It will now market them under the name of the A. H. Kraus Realty company and has leased almost the entire third floor of the Boyce building, 30 North Dearborn, for a term of years. The syndicate also has bought thirty acres on Channel lake and will subdivide it into 50 foot lots, fronting the lake, for summer home sites. Streets, water, electric lights, and a playground are being installed.

Buys Englewood Leasehold.

Just thirty minutes after Mark Levy & Brother submitted the four story building and leasehold estate in the property at 6308-10 South Halsted, 55x117, to A. M. Liebling, publisher of the Jewish Daily Press, he purchased them for $90,000, all cash, from the receivers of the L. R. Steel Company, Inc. The property was leased from Henry Friend by the steel company for Nov. 1, 1920, at $15,000 annually, equivalent to $300,000 valuation on a 5 per cent basis.

The steel company paid $100,000 for the building. Mark Levy & Brother acted jointly with E. B. Woolf & Co. in representing the sellers. Mr. Liebling has since resold the building and leasehold to the William J. Kennedy Building corporation, of which Mr. Kennedy, loop restaurateur, is head.

South Shore Drive

This beautiful building, containing 2, 3, and 4 room apartments, is now ready for occupancy. The location is the most desirable on the South Side, every apartment overlooking the lake and the South Shore Country Club grounds. The South Shore station of the Illinois Central railroad is only two short blocks away, and the New Motor Bus line will pass the door. No expense has been spared in making this building the most complete and up-to-date building ever built in the South Shore district. All the apartments have Murphy In-a-Dor beds, all tile baths, built-in tubs and showers. See these apartments before you decide to rent elsewhere. The agent is on the premises every day.
